HAILS LIBERTY DAY TO PUSH LOAN OVER THREE-BILLION LINE

Washington Confident That Minimum Quota Will Have Been Passed Tonight.

ESTIMATE NOW 2½ BILLION

McAdoo Issues Stirring Call, Declaring That Only a Militant America Can Win.

TOTAL HERE $815,000,000

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23. — With the unofficial estimate of subscriptions placed at $2,500,000,000, and the official statement, based on the fullest returns from the twelve Federal Reserve Banks, placed at $1,501,392,150, the eve of Liberty Day finds the prospect strengthened that the minimum quota of the war loan will be entirely subscribed and probably oversubscribed tomorrow, and the chances distinctly possible that the maximum quota will be taken by Saturday.

Treasury officials expect that tomorrow will witness the completion of the minimum quota. If that result is attained, the three following days will count heavily toward the subscription of the maximum of $5,000,000,000. An element of uncertainty is complained of here in that the interior districts do not report fully, and some do not report at all, to their Federal Reserve Banks.

The official totals of the districts and their standing in relation to their quota of the $5,000,000,000 follow:

	Amount.	Per Cent.
New York	$600,650,000	40.0
Boston	184,200,000	36.8
Cleveland	188,750,000	37.7
Minneapolis	63,854,000	25.5
Richmond	63,184,650	31.6
Chicago	186,203,400	37.2
St. Louis	45,322,000	18.1
San Francisco	67,344,650	13.5
Philadelphia	44,053,400	10.7
Kansas City	20,161,000	13.1
Dallas	16,176,000	12.9
Atlanta	12,962,100	9.5
Total	$1,501,392,150
General average, 30 per cent.

The Big Test Today.

Business will be well-nigh at a standstill throughout the nation tomorrow, except for the sale of Liberty bonds. Designated a national holiday by President Wilson, the day has also been made a holiday by Governors of the various States. Business houses and schools will be closed, thousands of speakers will deliver addresses and hundreds of thousands of new workers will join for the day the army of 2,000,000 solicitors already in the field. These workers will carry the call of the nation with special emphasis to the farmer. The farmers have been invited by the hundred thousand to come to town and attend Liberty Loan rallies, and workers also are going into the country to solicit subscriptions.

"Particular efforts are to be put forward," says the Treasury Department's statement tonight, "to obtain further subscriptions from the farmers in the South and parts of the Middle West. As was the case a week ago, the rural communities in those sections are making the weakest showings of any in the country.

"Returns from all Federal Reserve districts show that at the beginning of business today subscriptions of $1,501,392,150 had been officially reported to them. This represents subscriptions upon which the first payment of 2 per cent. has been deposited in banks reporting to the Reserve Banks.

"Unofficial figures indicate that an estimate of $2,500,000,000 for all sales appears to be conservative. It is impossible to give unofficial estimates from all reserve districts. Many of them are experiencing difficulty in obtaining returns on account of storms, others over the country districts are not reporting. Some simply do not report.

"Briefly stated, then, the situation tonight is that the $3,000,000,000 minimum quota set for the loan at the outset of the campaign, on Oct. 1, will be passed tomorrow if Liberty Day subscriptions come up to conservative expectations. They may carry the total beyond that point. The maximum total of $5,000,000,000 is far distant, however. To attain it by the close of the sale Saturday will be a feat worthy of the best mettle.

"Reports of maximum quotas having been passed in various parts of the country began to arrive today. Des Moines is $700,000 over its maximum, Kansas City thinks it is well past its city quota; Omaha, long past its maximum, continues the drive; Cincinnati will exceed its quota by 30 per cent.; many Ohio counties, led by Miami and Morgan, are far past their quotas; Cleveland hopes for a maximum record, and Pittsburgh is past $50,000,000 and going up all the time.

"Boston reports that New England is moving along gradually. Chicago is turning in many small but few large subscriptions, and reports conditions in rural districts to be improving. Kansas City will turn out 40,000 marchers in its Liberty Day parade.

"New York wires that its sales will pass the billion-dollar mark tomorrow. Leading citizens of San Francisco will set an intensive campaign to achieve the city's maximum."

Further Appeal by McAdoo.

Secretary McAdoo tonight, from Memphis, where he spoke for the bond issue, authorized the following statement:

"From personal observations and talks in widely separated sections, I am sure that the Southwest, like other parts of America, is ablaze with patriotism.

Food Rioters in Austria Wreck Munition Factories

LONDON, Oct. 23. — The Austro-Swiss frontier has been closed owing to the serious internal situation in Austria, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Berne today.

Several munition factories were wrecked in recent food riots in Vienna, Pressburg, Brünn, and Laibach, the rioters being mostly women, the dispatch states. The police, according to the report, fired on the crowds, killing and wounding many persons.

REPUBLICANS PLAN DRIVE FOR MAYOR

SURE TAMMANY IS BEATEN

Swing to Mitchel Will Be Followed by Attacks on the Socialist Candidate.

The Mitchel-Fusion forces are so confident that they have Tammany Hall "on the run," that plans are being made to concentrate their final drive for the last week of the campaign on the Socialist Party. Reports received at the Fusion headquarters yesterday, according to the managers, show that not only has a swing set in from regular Democrats toward Mayor Mitchel, but that independent Democrats and Republicans are flocking to the Mayor in large numbers. Bennett Republicans, the managers also asserted, are leaving their candidate for Mitchel, as it is becoming increasingly evident that Bennett has no chance of winning.

Having gone on record as favoring the re-election of Mayor Mitchel and having adopted resolutions declaring that party regularity should not be considered in this election, the Republican Club is arranging to take a vigorous part in the final drive, and will make an especial appeal to Republicans to support Mayor Mitchel. The Campaign Committee, of which Henry W. Goddard is Chairman, announced yesterday that it would enter the political arena on Friday night, when the club has arranged to hold five meetings at Camp Upton, Yaphank. The club is to furnish the speakers and the Chairmen of the meetings. A large delegation of the most prominent speakers that can be spared from the city campaign that night will address the soldiers.

In addition, the Campaign Committee has arranged a series of meetings in all the boroughs. The club will hold a Republican rally at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn on Oct. 29, at which State Controller Eugene M. Travis will preside. This will be the Controller's first active participation in the campaign. United States Senator William M. Calder will be among the speakers, others being Mayor Mitchel, Job Hedges, ex-State Senator Nathaniel A. Elsberg, the Rev. Dwight Hillis, Controller Prendergast, Robert Adamson, and Borough President Pounds. On Friday, Nov. 2, the club will hold a big rally at Cooper Union and another meeting is being arranged for the Star Casino, Harlem. Meetings are also being planned for Queens and Richmond.

Willcox Asks Questions.

William G. Willcox, President of the Board of Education, put out yesterday what he called a few plain questions for Republicans. Among them are:

Has not the Republican Party for nearly twenty years been committed to Fusion in municipal elections as the only way to beat Tammany?

Has not the Republican Party benefited by Fusion by electing two Republican Mayors and a District Attorney who afterward became Governor, none of whom could have been elected without Fusion?

Did not the Fusion Committee, relying on this agreement, put Republican candidates on the Fusion ticket?

Was it not the German vote, opposed to Mitchel, which gave Bennett the Republican nomination at the primaries?

Is it not true that if Bennett could poll the entire Republican vote he could not be elected without Fusion?

Is it not true that with a divided Republican support, the only possible effect of Bennett's candidacy is to help Hylan?

Are the Bennett supporters ready to take the responsibility of turning the city over to Tammany?

Emory R. Buckner, manager of the Mitchel-Fusion campaign, said yesterday:

"I see by the papers that Mr. Murphy has sued The World for a libel. The late Timothy Sullivan had one political formula which, if he were alive today, would surely deter Mr. Murphy from such action. He once advised in a similar situation: 'never sue for libel; they might prove it on you.' Of course, Mr. Murphy will never bring his suit to trial. Moreover, if he starts suing people for libel, he will have to sue his twin, Hearst, because Hearst once said of him: 'Murphy is as evil a specimen of a criminal boss as we have had since the days of Tweed. Murphy grows rich and insolent on corrupt contracts.' Has Murphy changed? Was Hearst wrong? The World should insist that Hearst be brought into court as a co-defendant.

"Murphy and Hylan seem to be failing out. Murphy denies that he has put a muzzle on Hylan, locked it with a padlock and thrown away the key. This puts it squarely up to Hylan and shows

ENEMY PROPERTY TO BE SEIZED NOW PUT AT A BILLION

Great Stores of German-Owned Commodities and Accumulated Deposits Await Confiscation.

TENDERS ARE POURING IN

STOCK AND LAND AFFECTED

Stored Commodities Estimated at $800,000,000—All Available for Next Liberty Loan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—One billion dollars is unofficially estimated to represent the German-owned money or other property subject to confiscation by this Government under the Trading with the Enemy act. All available, officials point out, for investment in the next Liberty Loan.

Until A. Mitchell Palmer, as Custodian of Enemy Property, has received returns from corporations and individuals, it will be impossible to determine the total value of the assets he is required to take over. Letters received by him today, however, indicate that the war chest will be enormously swelled. Agents of the Department of Justice, the Department of Commerce, and secret service operatives have been working on the problem for months, and their investigation has uncovered immense values in cotton, steel, oil, and other materials held in storage in this country by German firms.

One letter which came to Mr. Palmer today indicated the possibilities: An almost unknown firm informed the custodian that it owed $990,000 to a German concern which it desired to place in his custody at once. Reports from Pittsburgh were that Pittsburgh's assets, representing deposits in banks by German citizens; royalties due on German-owned patents of steel processes, and bills due to German companies, would exceed $1,000,000. In banks in New York, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, and other cities it is estimated that hundreds of millions due to Germans are deposited.

Subscription to many million dollars of Liberty bonds will be one of the first official acts of Mr. Palmer as Custodian. The offers of German-owned assets received will be tabulated late this week and a Liberty Loan subscription made for a sum probably much in excess of the actual amount reported in anticipation of later reports.

Experts say the value of cotton and other commodities in storage in this country will exceed the original estimates, as most of the materials have advanced from 50 to 60 per cent. since they were invoiced, and may reach $800,000,000.

Investments by Germans.

Two of the favorite channels of German investment in the United States are railroad securities and Western land. More than 75 per cent. of the stock of a prosperous Western road was held by Germans in Germany at the outbreak of the war. Years ago, when the boom in Western farm lands was at its height, German capital was invested heavily in such property. It has been reported from time to time that the Kaiser himself held land, both in the United States and Canada, but Government agents who have been investigating Western titles have found no evidence of the Emperor's reported holdings.

Since the war started few remittances have been made to Germany. Dividends from investments held here have gone unpaid, and estates bequeathed to Germans in Germany have remained unsettled. Deposits in banks by agents of German firms have reached a large total. All such property is, of course, subject to confiscation and the proceeds will all go into United States Government bonds.

Under the direction of Assistant Attorney General Warren, Department of Justice agents and Secret Service men have honycombed New York searching for German-owned money and property there. The work is pretty well completed. Mr. Palmer, however, believes that when he calls upon all corporations, banks and individuals to inform him of assets which should be turned over to his custody millions of dollars not now in sight then will be uncovered.

As soon as Mr. Palmer can surround himself with a capable force his work of confiscation will begin. He is eager to obtain the services of trust company officials as well as accountants familiar with credits and warehouse procedure. In addition to the experts in his office here he will have representatives in all the large cities, and he will have the co-operation of the Department of Justice, the Secret Service and the Department of Commerce. Thus an army of men under his direction will search the country for German-owned assets.

Mr. Palmer said today that corporations or individuals having business transactions with allies of Germany would have as little interference from him as possible. He relies upon the loyalty of Americans to report to him promptly as required. If they do not do so they are liable to heavy penalties.

Those Affected by the Act.

The property subject to confiscation is that located in the United States and belonging to any person or corporation that is an enemy or ally of the enemy, except those licensed to do business in the United States. German subjects and the subjects of Germany's allies resident in the United States do not fall within the affected classes, although the President may issue a proclamation to confiscate their property if he deems it wise.

The act makes it the duty of every concern within the United States issu-

Captured Zep Up 8 Miles, the Highest Ever Reached

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23. — A staff correspondent of The Evening Ledger sent a dispatch today from American Field Headquarters in France describing the Zeppelin L-49, brought down near Bourbonne-les-Bains. He says it is 600 feet long, with a diameter of 90 feet, has an alumnium frame, with longitudinal and horizontal ribs, covered with stout interlaced cord, over which is the outside cover of linen, painted black. The shape is that of an exaggerated fat cigar. Two silk balloons fill the interior, holding the hydrogen gas, which gives the lifting power. Slatted runways, nine inches wide, with guide rails, extend the length of the airship, giving access to sleeping quarters, an electric kitchen, and the five great steel engines.

"The Zeppelin's instrument for calculating altitude," says the correspondent, "showed she had ascended a distance of 42,000 feet."

TWO ITALIANS FLY 150 MILES AN HOUR

WELCOME AT MINEOLA

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Oct. 23.—A third Italian airplane, carrying a pilot and observer, reached the army aviation field here today after flying 350 miles from Langley Field, near Norfolk, Va., in three hours and ten minutes, a record surpassing that made by the Pomilio scoutplane yesterday when it flew 330 miles in two hours and fifty-five minutes. The average speed attained by the new arrival, a Sia scout, was more than 120 miles an hour, and at times the motors drove it at about 150 miles an hour, as compared to the highest speed of about 140 miles an hour reached by the Pomilio machine yesterday.

The Sia machine is larger than the Pomilio scout and is built in the Fiat factory at Turin, with motors of 300-hourse power. According to the Italian officers in command of the squadron of three planes, it is one of the most successful airplanes in use in the war. It is said that Gabriele d'Annunzio, the poet, who is one of the super-pilots of Italy, has driven the Sia plane in many of his exploits and values it as one of the speediest and safest airplanes in the Italian air corps.

When the Sia took to the skies at Langley Field at 9:30 this morning Lieutenant Ballerini, the pilot, found the weather for a swift flight so exceptional that he gave the machine all the power it could develop, and for the first half of the journey the plane swept up the coast at an average speed of about 130 miles an hour. For most of the journey she held her height of about 10,000 or 12,000 feet, until the pilot swerved so that he could almost "touch" Philadelphia.

Word that the speedy plane had left Langley Field was sent to the Mineola Field, and before 12 o'clock American aviation officers had gathered with Captain Resnati and the crew of the big Caproni biplane to watch for the little Sia. She came out of the South so rapidly that no one had time to say "Here she comes," and by the time signals were set so that the pilot could see where to land she was hovering overhead at about 2,000 feet, waiting to begin a spiral descent. The Sia landed at 12:40 o'clock.

As soon as the pilots had been greeted by the Italian officers of the other planes, Lieutenant Baldioli, who piloted the Pomilio from Norfolk, yesterday went into the air to fulfill a promise to Colonel Rockwell, in command of the American aviators in training here, to show the American students what a super-pilot was expected to know before he was able to clip the edges off the mountain peaks on the Italian front in observing the movements of Austrian troops. The American officers said that the field here had seen no such flying by any pilot before. Baldioli looped and dipped and put his plane through every manoeuvre and trick known to the exhibition fliers, and then ended by showing them the trick of "turn climbing," a spiral rarely attempted even by experienced aviators.

When he reached the field again Lieutenant Baldioli admitted he had been in more danger on this short flight than in many of his flights over the lines, because of the tricks he had attempted. The officers and students applauded him loudly when he dipped down as if firing a volley into the faces of a line of Austrians in the trenches and then soared away again.

All three Italian planes will bombard New York City tomorrow with warnings to buy Liberty bonds to build American fighting planes before enemy imitations of the Caproni drop real bombs into Broadway.

FRENCH CAPTURE 7,500 GERMANS BY AISNE STROKE

BOOTY INCLUDES 25 GUNS

GERMAN CASUALTIES HEAVY

Kaiser's Best Troops Scattered—British Hold Ypres Gains Except a Houthulst Wood Outpost.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—In one of the swiftest and most dashing blows of the war the French troops, attacking on a six-mile front, today smashed through the German lines north of the Aisne, about seven miles northeast of Soissons, to a depth of more than two miles at one point, inflicted heavy losses on the enemy, and captured more than 7,500 prisoners and twenty-five heavy guns and field guns.

Several important villages also fell into the hands of the French, according to the War Office announcement tonight.

Despite the rain and mist which shrouded the battlefield when the attack began at 5:15 A. M., the French infantry rushed forward with splendid enthusiasm in the face of crack German troops, supported by heavy artillery, and carried Malmaison Fort, on the centre of their offensive, and the villages of Allemant and Vaudesson on the left. They also seized positions dominating the village of Pargny-Filain. Later in the attack, routing German reserves, they pushed their victorious attack to Chavignon, the capture of which marks their furthest advance—about two and one-fifth miles.

Massing of Guns Unprecedented.

The Associated Press correspondent with the French armies in France telegraphs:

"The French troops this morning fought one of the most cleverly conceived and most brilliantly executed actions of the war. More than 1,000 prisoners belonging to the famous Fifth Prussian Guards were taken, and the French still continue their victorious progress.

"The battle opened before dawn along a 9-kilometer front, from the northeast of Laffaux, about the neighborhood of Vauxaillon, to La Royère Farm. Amid inky darkness the French troops left their trenches, and, with a terrific barrage fire from the most powerful concentration of French guns ever gathered on such a short front preceding them, they made their way toward, into, and over the first German positions, sweeping all resistance aside.

"Altogether, six German infantry divisions were aligned, facing the French attacking forces, but none of them was able to withstand the onslaught. The advance continued like clockwork.

"The correspondent observed the battle from a point whence he could see the entire line, and was able to watch the precision with which the artillery prepared the ground for the advance of the infantry and the methodical manner of the infantry's progress."

Drive Germans from Quarries.

The night official report reads as follows:

North of the Aisne the attack which we launched this morning developed under extremely brilliant conditions. Despite mist and rain, our troops attacked with admirable enthusiasm formidable organizations of the enemy which were defended by the best troops of Germany, supported by heavy artillery.

In their first dash our soldiers captured the line indicated by the quarries of Fruty and Bohéry. A little later Malmaison Fort, in the centre, fell into our hands.

Pushing their advance still further,

Berlin Would Cede Schleswig Territory to Denmark and Get Our West Indies Money

LONDON, Oct. 23. — Details have reached London of a German plan to obtain ascendancy after the war in Denmark by ceding to Denmark a small strip of former Danish territory in North Schleswig in return for "a large sum of money" and, presumably also, certain economic and commercial concessions.

It is suggested by the Danish Liberal Hovedstaden that the sum of money involved is that which Denmark received from the United States in payment for the Danish West Indies, and that paper denounces the proposal.

The Hovedstaden is the only Danish newspaper reaching London which mentions the money paid by the United States for the West Indies in connection with the matter, but confirmation that a German proposition of some kind has been received is found in several journals. The first announcement was published in this form:

"From authoritative quarters in North Schleswig it can be stated that Germany is ready for a rectification of the Danish frontier by which Hadersley County is to be returned to Denmark."

This was followed later by a circular statement through the official correspondent, which confirms the announcement, and adds:

"The time for the cession is at the conclusion of peace, and Germany makes it a condition that Denmark pays a considerable sum of money for the district in question. The district to be ceded would not extend beyond the Danish-speaking areas of North Schleswig."

The Hovedstaden says editorially that any deal now would be unneutral, and adds:

"The cession of North Schleswig on German initiative just now, at the most critical period of the war, entails the greatest possible danger for the Danish people. A sum of money—(the West Indian millions?)—is mentioned. Germany probably wants not only that sum but something even more valuable, namely, our friendship and good-will, and for what?

"Well, now that South America has broken with Germany, the good-will of a neighbor like Denmark is of priceless value to Germany after the war. Denmark is, by reason of her geographical position, a natural sally port for the isolated German Empire. * * * We shall become economically a German dependency.

"Can we afford to link our fate with that of a country which, after the war, is ruined and looked upon by all the world with profound distrust?"

NEW SINN FEIN REBELLION NIPPED HERE; AGENT LEFT BY BERNSTORFF ARRESTED; LLOYD GEORGE TELLS COMMONS OF PLOT

Reichstag Majority Leaders Reach Agreement In Caucus to Demand Changes in the Ministry

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 23, (via London.)—Leaders of the majority parties, the Centrists, Progressives, and Socialists, have held a conference in the Reichstag building to discuss the internal political situation. The National Liberals also sent delegates to this caucus, which unanimously decided that certain changes in the Government must take place.

The matter will remain in abeyance until the Kaiser makes a final decision. Whether von Capelle's resignation or others shall be accepted rests with him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 23.—While admitting the importance of the Würzburger Social Democratic Convention and that Scheidemann's definite program for the future must bring about some changes, the German conservative press attempts to minimize its effect.

The annexationist Cologne Volkszeitung, representing the Catholic Centre, refers scathingly to Scheidemann's program and his speeches, saying that the Centre, at any rate, definitely rejects the program for democratization and parliamentarization, which Scheidemann is trying to introduce with the aid of the Reichstag majority. The paper says the Centre opposes any constitutional change and wishes the Kaiser to retain his full power.

The Vossische Zeitung says that all, even the highest in political authority, have been obliged to recognize that changes are necessary, and that the retirement of von Capelle will not clear the situation.

The Weser Zeitung, while recognizing a basis of practical politics in Scheidemann's program, says definitely that this program draws a sharp line between the Social Democrats and other parties. It hints at a new Reichstag and a new majority party bloc, led by the National Liberals, with the support of the Conservatives, and also hopes for the accession of the "patriotic party," which has energetically disavowed any connection with politics. This may be a new plan by which the Right hopes to save the situation, although even the annexationist Boersen Zeitung admits that Michaelis is impossible, and says the Reichstag factions ought to state their ideas as to the Kaiser, expressing the hope that in the selection of a new Chancellor not only the Crown Prince but also the party leaders will be consulted.

German Scheming With the Irish Now and Last February Revealed

Again Planned to Land Arms for Sinn Feiners—Premier Blasts "Independence" Hope—Irish Secretary Reports Rebels Actively Drilling in Island—Redmond Motion Defeated.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—In a speech in the House of Commons today Premier Lloyd George stated that the Government was aware that arrangements were again being made, partly by Count von Bernstorff to land arms in Ireland for the aid of the Sinn Fein malcontents.

The announcement of the Premier was made in connection with debate on the Irish situation, based upon a motion offered by John E. Redmond, deploring the present policy as to Ireland.

Just before the Premier spoke, John Dillon and Joseph Devlin had protested against his absence in such an important debate and insisted that he be sent for. After a short interval, Mr. Lloyd George, who had temporarily left the House, reappeared in dramatic fashion. Mr. Dillon asked for assurance that, if the convention reached an agreement, its decision would be carried into effect and not postponed until a subsequent Parliament.

The Premier said that the Government could not possibly forget what had happened only eighteen months ago. These speeches could not be treated as excited speeches, delivered by persons of no consequence, which would end in nothing.

"In order to save those poor people who honestly believed they were doing their best for their country from being persuaded by others," continued the Premier, "I thought it essential that the Government should take action, not provocative action, but firm action.

Three Points Made Clear.

"There are three things the Government ought to make clear in the interests of Ireland. First, incitement to rebellion cannot be permitted. The Germans nearly landed arms for that purpose eighteen months ago. We know that arrangements are being made for arms to be landed again and we know that it is partly done by von Bernstorff. Second, a thing no Government can permit is organization for rebellion."

After referring to the drilling and the marching going on in Ireland and the exhortations of De Valera, the Premier stated that what was going on in Ireland was a deliberate attempt to enroll and drill thousands of young men (who in England would have been compulsorily enlisted) in preparation for rebellion.

The third point was that there was a deal of talk in Ireland among the Sinn Fein leaders, which, said the Premier, did not mean home rule or self-government, but separation or secession. There was a demand for the sovereign independence of Ireland, and the Premier added:

"We had better say at once that under no conditions will Great Britain permit anything of that kind."

Referring to Mr. Dillon's request for assurances, the Premier reminded the House that the Government had promised, when the convention started, to use its utmost power to carry any agreement to legislative form.

Mr. Dillon interjected:

"I understand that the Premier pledges the Government, immediately after an agreement has been reached, to submit a bill to Parliamnt and pass it."

Mr. Lloyd George replied:

"Certainly, I have no hesitation in saying that so far as the Government are concerned they will use all their power to press the House to put into legislative form the conclusions reached by the convention."

Redmond Opens Discussion.

At the outset of the debate John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Party, offered a motion, which read:

"This House deplores the policy which has been pursued by the Irish Executive Government and the Irish military authorities at a time when the highest interests of Ireland and the empire demand the creation of an atmosphere favorable to a successful result of the deliberations of the Irish convention.

John Redmond in moving his resolution said his only motive was to ward off, or at least to minimize, what he held to be a very grave menace to the Irish Convention. He would not have raised the debate, he added, if he had not been convinced that there was danger of the destruction of the conference if the policy pursued by the Irish authorities was continued.

It was widely said in Ireland, Mr. Redmond continued, that there were people of Great Britain and Ireland who would gladly see the convention destroyed, so that in the consequent anarchy and possible bloodshed the last hope of self-government for Ireland would disappear. The speaker acquitted the Ulster Unionist Party of any such "diabolical wickedness."

Mr. Redmond enumerated what he described as irritating actions of the Executive of Ireland. They had issued proclamations forbidding all kinds of harmless things, such as Swedish gymnastic exercises, and had arrested insignificant men on insignificant charges, making martyrs of them. He referred to the arrest of boy scouts for drilling.

The result of all this was that there was drilling and carrying arms out of sheer defiance, and under this treatment the Sinn Feiners were progressing. No attempt, said Mr. Redmond, had been made to seize Sinn Fein or Ulster arms, but every hall and private house in the country had been raided where national volunteer arms could be found.

Henry E. Duke, Chief Secretary for Ireland, made the principal speech in reply to Redmond, inasmuch as the motion was directed against his office.

The Secretary did not complain of the motion or of Mr. Redmond's criticisms, but felt that all the action taken by the Administration in Ireland was justified. The Irish Convention, he held, was a working demonstration of the fact that, if given a fair chance, Irishmen could administer their own affairs.

Quotes Sinn Fein Threats.

He defended the Irish policy generally, and pointed to the unprecedented magnanimity with which the Sinn Feiners, who had been endeavoring to stir up a revolt, had been treated. Dealing with the seizures of arms and the death of Ashe and Irish Volunteers, he said that for a period running into months there had been steady organization in every parish in Ireland, and to considerable extent in the large towns, of the new force—the Irish Volunteer organization, a rebel force. These men had been told "We have a considerable store of arms and shall have more before the fateful day arrives."

The new member from East Clare, Professor de Valera, was quoted by the Secretary as having said in a speech:

"We have arms and we shall use them when the time comes. We are ready and you will be more successful than you were the last time. If anybody offers us a helping hand from France, America, or Germany we shall take it."

"The helping hand held out at the time of the Irish rebellion was Germany's. In February, when it became necessary to deport from Ireland certain persons, it was because the helping hand was being held out again and the British Government knew it."

Mr. Duke said that there still were men who persevered in their determination to make a Government in Ireland impossible; they were determined to create terrorism in the country in order to attain that object, and they had the

WORK OF SECRET SERVICE

Date Set for Easter, Anniversary of 1916 Dublin Riots.

GEN. LIAM MELLOWES IN JAIL

Dr. Patrick McCarton Taken in Halifax on His Way to Ireland with False Passport.

A second Sinn Fein rebellion, planned for next Easter, the anniversary of the Dublin riots of 1916, has been frustrated through the activities of the United States Secret Service. German money was to have played a part in the 1918 outbreak, just as it did in that of 1916, and the preliminaries which were to lead up to the actual outbreak, were ready to be put into operation when the American Secret Service brought about the arrest of three men, two of them Sinn Feiners of note, and the other a German subject who, according to Secret Service data, was designated by Bernstorff to look after Germany's "interests in Ireland" after Bernstorff was ordered out of this country by President Wilson.

As a result of the arrests the United States Government is said to be in possession of the official Sinn Fein report on the 1916 Dublin riots, and other data which Chief Flynn admitted last night would prove of great value. He did not indicate the nature of this information.

The fact that another Sinn Fein outbreak had been arranged for and that several of the instigators were either on the way, or ready to start to Ireland, became known late yesterday afternoon when Secret Service agents, acting under the personal direction of William J. Flynn, chief of the service, brought "General" Liam Mellowes, one of the leaders of the 1916 outbreak, and a German who gave his name as Baron Max von Recklinghausen to the Federal Building, and had them listed as Federal prisoners. At the same time it was announced that Dr. Patrick McCarton, another of the Sinn Feiners who figured in the Dublin riots, had been taken into custody at Halifax, the Canadian officials acting on information telegraphed to them by Chief Flynn. Other arrests are to follow.

Others Implicated.

The only names made public last night in connection with the Sinn Fein plot, hatched in this country, are those contained in Chief Flynn's statement. Other persons are concerned, some of them American citizens of Irish origin and a few subjects of the Kaiser. Mellowes and McCarton are said to have enjoyed the close friendship of several well-known Irish-Americans, among them a Justice of the Supreme Court of this State. Mellowes admitted that this Judge was one of his intimates. He and McCarton are known to have seen much of a number of men who have been mentioned in recent revelations made public by Secretary Lansing and other high Government officials.

Baron von Recklinghausen, a blonde-haired German who has spent a great part of his time, in recent years, in the United States, seemed indignant when taken to the Federal Building. The Secret Service agents say the Baron was often referred to by Sinn Feiners in New York as "the envoy" who was left behind by Bernstorff to represent Berlin in Sinn Fein conferences. Dr. McCarton was referred to by local Sinn Feiners as the "Ambassador of the Irish Republic to the United States." Mellowes was dubbed a "general."

Mellowes and von Recklinghausen were arrested on Monday night and McCarton was taken into custody at Halifax on the arrival there of a steamship on which he, under an assumed name and using a fraudulent seaman's passport, had shipped as a messman. Mellowes also had a fraudulent seaman's passport under the assumed name of Donnelly. That passport is now in possession of Assistant United States District Attorney John C. Knox.

Chief Flynn's Statement.

In announcing the arrest of von Recklinghausen, General Menowes and Dr. McCarton, Chief Flynn last night said:

"General Liam Mellowes, one of the recognized heads of the Sinn Fein rebellion in Ireland on Easter Monday, 1916, was arrested last night by agents of the United States Secret Service.

"Mellowes prior to the Easter Monday rebellion spent three months in an English prison. He says he was charged with sedition. Upon leaving the prison he went directly from the jail to Galway, and shortly thereafter organized and headed, as General Liam Mellowes, a force of Irish volunteers numbering seven hundred-odd men against the British forces then in Ireland.

"After the defeat of the revolutionists Mellowes was forced to hide, and, finally, got to New York in December, 1916, on the steamship St. Paul, having shipped as a coal heaver.

"On Feb. 23 of this year New York newspapers printed a dispatch describing the arrest of Mellowes in England. On the following day these newspapers carried statements of prominent Irishmen and Irish-Americans to the effect that Mellowes was then in New York. At that time he was already under the eye of the United States Secret Service, and subsequent developments and continuous surveillance revealed that he was associating with Dr. Patrick McCarton, known to his Sinn Fein associates in America as the 'First Ambassador to the United States of the Irish Republic.' Dr. McCarton arrived in the United States in the early part of 1917 being a fugitive from justice for his complicity in the Sinn Fein rebellion in Ireland.

"McCarton and Mellowes had frequent meetings, and it was evidently decided that they should attempt to get back to Ireland and, presumably, in so far as McCarton was concerned, to foment another Sinn Fein rebellion.

Arrested on American Information.

"McCarton, fulfilling his share of the plan, sailed on the Atlantic Transport liner Maurice on Oct. 17, shipping as a messman in the crew under the name of 'Francis Coalin.' Upon his arrival in Halifax, the British authorities having been notified of his departure by the United States Secret service, he was apprehended. A United States Secret Service agent is now on the way to Halifax to aid the British Government in the prosecution of McCarton as a fugitive for his complicity in the Dublin riots, and for his activities in America since the early part of the present year.

"Mellowes was arrested at 10 o'clock Monday night, Oct. 22, in company with another man at Fifty-first Street and Second Avenue. Mellowes, upon his arrival at the office of the United States Secret Service, frankly admitted his identity in spite of the fact that he had already procured a seaman's passport under the name of 'Patrick Donnelly' and intended to sail for Ireland at his first opportunity.

"Papers found upon the person of Mellowes and in his room revealed the full history and details of the days preceding and succeeding the 1916 Easter Monday rebellion.

"The associate of Mellowes is one 'Baron' Dr. Max von Recklinghausen, a German subject, and an engineer of no little ability. Recklinghausen has been the intimate associate of Mellowes and McCarton and other Irish Sinn Feiners for some time, and is mentioned as an envoy left here by Count von Bernstorff upon the latter's departure for Europe. He maintained two residences, one on the west side and one on the east side, at Beekman Place, close by the Queensboro Bridge and commanding a clear view of Hell Gate and the East River.

"Recklinghausen was also associated with a group of Turks in one of the several houses occupied by the conspirators at Beekman Place. A short time ago an endeavor was made by Ahmed Shukri, Abdullah Hamdi, Nikolakai Aghnitus, and Djavad Eyaub to leave on a neutral vessel on a mission the nature of which finally prevented their sailing, when the real object of their departure was ascertained by the Secret Service.

"Recklinghausen steadily denied any knowledge of or complicity in the activities charged against him, but papers found in his room and upon his person show definitely that large sums of money had gone forward to France for German purposes, and also that he was a heavy investor in German war bonds.

"Considerable literature and papers of interest to this Government were taken in the raid of the quarters of Mellowes and Recklinghausen, and it will be some time before all the ramifications of this plot can be thoroughly detailed and a chronological statement made.

"McCarton was interviewed some time in April of this year by E. J. Donleavy of The New York Evening Mail, in which interview he was quoted as boasting of his official capacity here in America in behalf of Sinn Fein and Clan-na-Gael activities in America."

For the 1918 Easter Sports.

When questioned yesterday by an official of the Government Mellowes is reported to have said that he took an active part in the Dublin riots of 1916, and when asked why he was seeking to return to Ireland, replied that he was going back for the "Easter sports of 1918." How he managed to deceive the customs authorities and procure a seaman's passport under the name of Donnelly was not disclosed. In order to get that passport he swore that he was an American citizen and that he was born in New York in 1883. He was born in Ireland. McCarton is also said to have claimed American citizenship to get his passport under the name of Conlin.

A few weeks ago The New York Tribune printed interviews with Arthur Griffith and Eamoun de Valera, leaders of the Sinn Fein organization in Ireland. When asked if the Sinn Feiners were in sympathy with the German cause Valera was quoted as replying:

"England is in occupation of our country. Until she removes her troops Ireland and England are in a state of war. While we are in a state of war England's enemies must be Ireland's friends."

When Griffith was asked the same question he replied:

"I am not pro-German. But Germany is the enemy of England and England is my enemy. You may draw your own conclusions."

That German agents have been busy in Ireland trying to bring about a second outbreak against England is common report, and more than once it has been said that German cargo submarines, of the Deutschland type, have landed machine guns and ammunitions in out of way Irish sea inlets. These reports, however, have not been officially verified, nor have they been denied.

Mellowes was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hitchcock late yesterday afternoon charged with conspiring to defraud the United States by obtaining a seaman's passport as an American citizen and under a false name. Baron von Recklinghausen was arraigned as an enemy alien. These charges, it was intimated, were made only for the purpose of holding the men pending further investigation by the Secret Service. Commissioner Hitchcock fixed bail in Mellowes's case at $7,500. Von Recklinghausen was taken to the enemy alien camp on Ellis Island.

Von Recklinghausen, it was said, had an office at 120 Broadway. He is an efficiency engineer and was for a number of years in the employ of the Westinghouse Company. He came to the United States in 1900.

TRY TO DISCREDIT PERSHING

German Papers Say His Men Treat the French with Brutality.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—The Germans have apparently realized the futility of trying to minimize the American military effort. For home and neutral consumption they are now attempting to discredit it in a different fashion. The Matin's Zurich correspondent telegraphs that the Munich Neueste Nachrichten says that French agents are doing espionage work and endeavoring to foment a revolution in Switzerland, in order that "when the Americans, French and English begin their Spring offensive they may be able to take advantage of the disorder in Switzerland to invade that country."

Equally absurd is a similarly intentioned radio message recently sent by the Germans to the effect that the Americans have been so high-handed and brutal with French owners of property over which the proposed lines linking the American front with the seaports would pass that American engineers had been forced to have armed guardians to protect them, and that the inhabitants were on the verge of open revolt.

PERSHING'S RANK TO STAND.

Baker Objects to Creating Field Marshalship.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Commenting on suggestions that the rank of Field Marshal be created for General Pershing as commander in chief of the American expeditionary forces, Secretary Baker said today he was not disposed to propose the change. He indicated a feeling that the Government should preserve the traditions of the service which make the rank of General the highest.

If the expeditionary force eventually consists of several field armies, each probably will be commanded by a Lieutenant General. Secretary Baker said that the question of naming Lieutenant Generals was not now under consideration.

CRIPPLED 16 SHIPS, RUSSIANS REPORT

Six German Torpedo Boats Are Officially Announced as Sunk in Riga Region.

ARMY REPELS NEW LANDING

GERMANS GIVE UP TRENCHES

Withdrawal Toward Skuli-Lemburg Line Is Suspected to be Ruse to Trap Russians.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 23.—It has been established that at least six German torpedo boats were sunk by the Russians in the recent fighting in and near the Gulf of Riga, the Admiralty announced today. The statement adds that two German dreadnoughts, one cruiser, twelve torpedo boats, and one transport were put out of action, but except as to the six ships definitely reported sunk their ultimate fate is unknown. The only Russian naval losses reported are the battleship Slava and a torpedo boat of the Grom type, previously announced.

A second attempt by the Germans to land on the Esthonian coast has failed, the War Office states, the Germans being repelled by Russian detachments defending the shore. The attempt was made eight miles north of Werder, east of Moon Sound, where German troops had previously landed and established themselves.

A semi-official communication published in the newspapers says that the landing of the Germans at Werder is regarded only as a military demonstration to cover up an enemy landing on the coast of the Gulf of Riga, probably between Pernau and Hainasch.

It is also said that the German retirement toward the Skuli-Lemberg line is a manoeuvre to draw the Russian troops nearer Riga, with the intention of attacking them from the rear. As the Germans retire Russian troops are occupying their trenches. Today's statement says that in addition to positions thus occupied the Russians took trenches north of Hinzenberg Manor after an engagement.

Announcement of German Losses.

The Admiralty, in its review of the recent sea fighting in the region of the Gulf of Riga, says that the Russian units fought excellently against the superior German forces. The statement reads:

During Oct. 21 important naval forces, together with transports, were sighted by our outposts in the Gulf of Riga. In Moon Sound the enemy seems to be clearing the water of obstructions which we laid down. There was no naval action during the day, but enemy submarines were discovered in the Gulf of Finland.

As the naval operations in the Baltic isles have now ended, it is possible to review them. The task of our fleet in this region was, with the organized position of Moon Sound as a base, to prevent enemy attempts to seize the Gulf of Riga and Moon Sound. So long as the German fleet only employed in such an operation elements of minor importance, as in 1915, namely, two dreadnoughts, our naval forces could cope with them.

In 1915, although our position in Moon Sound was organized incompletely, we repulsed successfully all attacks, and the enemy, during three days' possession of the Gulf of Riga, suffered losses so grave that he was obliged to depart. A similar attempt in 1916, with unimportant forces, failed completely.

In the recent operations the enemy employed the major part of his fleet, and his overwhelming superiority enabled him to carry out debarkation rapidly and successfully. Our fleet only was able to do its best to hinder these efforts and to inflict maximum losses. With this object, we delivered a series of attacks, using all the naval resources in our possession.

As a result of these operations the enemy lost through mines, submarine attacks, and artillery fire, two dreadnoughts, one cruiser, twelve torpedo-boats, one transport, and numerous minesweepers, all of which were put out of action. Their ultimate fate is unknown, except that we have established the acutal loss of six enemy torpedo boats, two of which were of the small type and were sunk by gunfire from our position on Moon Island. The other torpedo boats were sunk in combats or blown up by mines. The wreck of the torpedo boat T-69 is visible on a sand bank in Kassar Bay. Our coast batteries sank four enemy torpedo boats.

Our losses are the ship of the line Slava and a large torpedo boat destroyer of the Grom type. The efficiency of our ships has been maintained completely.

New Attempt to Land on Coast.

The War Office statement says:

Northern Front.—In the Riga region, in the sectors of Skuli, [illegible] Manor, Allazhi Manor, and Lemburg Castle our detachments advanced and occupied first line trenches which the enemy had left. The trenches in the sector north of Hinzenberg Manor were taken after an engagement.

Baltic Sea.—No naval engagements have taken place. Enemy ships, seemingly two batleships, three cruisers and destroyers, were observed off Kulvast.

On Sunday enemy destroyers shelled the coasts in the sector of the village of Uekull, about six miles north of Werder. Enemy attempts to land detachments near Moiseknull Manor, eight miles north of Werder, did not succeed. Our detachments defending the coasts repelled them.

Germans Capture 365,000 Rubles.

BERLIN, Oct. 23, (via London.)—Among the German captures of booty in the Riga Bay operations were three Government chests containing 365,000 rubles, says today's Army Headquarters statement reporting conditions on the eastern front.

The statement reads:

The total captures in the operations against the islands in Riga Bay are 20,130 prisoners and more than 100 guns, of which 47 were heavy ship guns; some revolver guns, 150 machine guns and mine-throwers, and more than 1,200 vehicles, 2,000 horses, 30 motor cars, 10 airplanes, 3 State chests with 365,000 rubles, and large stores of supplies and war materials.

KAISER PRAISES EXPEDITION.

Says Riga Operations Prove "Preparedness of My Navy."

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 23.—After his return from Constantinople, Emperor William telegraphed to Prince Leopold of Bavaria, commander on the northern front in Russia, his own and the Fatherland's thanks for the successes achieved by his "well-tried troops" in capturing Oesel, Moon, and Dagö Islands in co-operation with the navy.

"With swift blows, and excellently supported by artillery, pioneers, and bomb-throwers, the enemy's resistance was broken everywhere by your brave infantry and cyclists," the telegram says. "The rapid carrying out of the operations is due to their gallantry and dash."

The Emperor also sent congratulations to the Chief of the Admiralty Staff, describing the naval operations as "fresh proof of the preparedness of my navy."

GEN. BRUSILOFF CALMS FEARS.

Believes Petrograd Safe, but Admiral Is Less Hopeful.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Thursday, Oct. 18, (via London, Oct. 23.)—General Brusiloff, in an article in the Moscow Utro Russie, says there are no adequate grounds for alarm about the safety of Petrograd this Autumn or Winter. He writes:

"The enemy has not and cannot have a large reserve, while the mud of Autumn and the frost of Winter hamper movements by roads and railways and the lack of food makes such an operation as the capture of Petrograd a very risky and hopeless enterprise, despite the decline in the efficiency of our army and navy. A landing force and an advance of the enemy on Petrograd through Finland must be considered, for technical reasons, a still more risky enterprise and highly improbable at the present moment."

Admiral Nemits, commander of the Black Sea Fleet, is more pessimistic. He says:

"I have not the slightest doubt that the seizure of Riga and Oesel are stages in a carefully calculated operation against Petrograd, the situation of which is now extremely grave. The only thing in our favor is the weakness of Germany. In the absence of serious impediments to the Germans' advance it is very likely that once in command of the Gulf of Riga they may land a force at Pernau or Hapsal, and, after taking Reval, may advance within a few days' march of Petrograd. This operation they could hardly carry out before Spring, but I am almost certain they will take Reval in the Winter."

BOMB THE ZEEBRUGGE MOLE

British Naval Aviators Score Hits on Two Small Vessels There.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Recent operations by British naval aircraft were reported in an official statement today as follows.

"On Sunday night naval aircraft dropped several bombs on the Melle Railway sidings near Ghent.

"Yesterday afternoon a bombing raid was attempted on the St. Denis Westrem airdrome, but owing to very thick clouds our machines dropped their bombs on the Zeebrugge Mole. Two small vessels alongside were hit, and the bombs burst close to a seaplane base and buildings on the mole. All of our machines returned safely."

GERMANY LOST HALF OF SUPER-ZEPPELINS

French Advise Washington of the Utter Failure of the Recent Raid.

FOLLOWED GERMAN THREAT

Teutons Vowed to Raze "Whole Rows" of Paris Buildings for Vengeance.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Germany probably lost half of her effective fleet of super-Zeppelins as a result of Saturday's raid over England, according to official cablegrams received

All France is exultant over what despatches call the greatest defeat administered to an air fleet in the war. Gratification is the more intense because it is now known that the German raid was an attempt to carry out a threat of vengeance made four days before, when the German Government sent out a warning to France and England of punishment to follow what the Germans called inhuman attacks by British and French aviators on peaceful German towns. Reprisals were threatened in an official German communication, which in part read:

'For every brick which falls from peaceful German homes, whole rows of buildings will be overthrown in Paris."

French Report of Raid.

"The first Zeppelin brought down fell at St. Clement, on the border of the forest of Mondon, ten kilometers from Lunéville. It was seen at 6:20 A. M., journeying with two other Zeppelins. It was at once attacked by one of our army's defense sections. At first a series of shells were fired at the Zeppelin when it was at a distance of 4,000 meters. The Zeppelin promptly rose to a height of 5,600 meters.

"In a fresh attack by the aircraft guns the fourth shell struck the outside envelope and the Zeppelin caught fire. It remained a mass of metal and india rubber and broken propellers. Five dead bodies, horribly mutilated, were found near the Zeppelin. Others must be buried under the ruins, which are still smoking. There could not have been any bombs left in the Zeppelin, as no explosions were heard. The apparatus had four propellers.

"About 2:20 P. M., Zeppelin 49 was forced by our aviators to come to earth near Fourbonne les Bains. It is intact. The commanding officer and seventeen men of the crew are prisoners. [This is the airship referred to at length in today's cable dispatches.]

"A little later the third Zeppelin, the L-50, came down at Dammartin, near Montigny le Roi, and two officers and fourteen men of her crew were captured. Two of the crew were slightly wounded.

"The Zeppelin's crew detached a car which they entirely destroyed. The Zeppelin, without ballast, went off with four men. From the declaration of the prisoners this Zeppelin left Oldenberg for London Oct. 19, but was unable to reach the English capital.

Crews Tried to Escape.

"Two Zeppelins, entirely destroyed, were attacked by our avions and by our anti-aircraft guns and came down in the valley of the Saonne, alighting in the region of Sisterton. The crews, after having burned their Zeppelins, attempted to escape, but were taken prisoners.

"Two other machines were seen in the south. One landed at Larange, in the lower Alps. The other was seen by the aviation centre at Frejus, drifting toward the sea in a vertical position and disabled.

"Thus probably the Germans lost five of their Zeppelins, which were all of the new tpye, from 234 to 244 meters in length and carrying seven and nine engines with from 1,500 to 2,000 horse power."

Summing up the disaster, the report says that Gemany has probably constructed 100 Zeppelins, of which sixteen were destroyed before the war. The losses officially reported by the Allies were six in 1914, sixteen in 1915, twenty-five in 1916, and three in 1917. Thus a minimum of sixty-six Zeppelins have been destroyed, to which must be added half a dozen more lost by accident and in experimental trials.

Thirteen Airships in Raid.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Official examination of the crews of the Zeppelins captured in France on returning from the raid over England shows that the expedition consisted of thirteen airships which left singly from three depots on Friday night.

The raiders were hampered over England by the fire of anti-aircraft guns and searchlights, which caused them to drop almost all their bombs when sailing at a height of more than 16,000 feet. They were caught by a strong northeasterly wind, and when they attempted to return to their bases their speed was slackened by the persistent head-winds.

Friedrichshafen in Mourning.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Oct. 22.—Friedrichshafen is in mourning over the loss of at fewest four Zeppelins in the raid on England, according to advices received from Swiss towns on Lake Constance. Most of the crews of the destroyed Zeppelins lived in Friedrichshafen, where they received their training. The King of Württemberg has sent messages of condolence to families of the men lost in the raid.

The Swiss newspapers express the opinion that the disaster in France is a death blow to the Zeppelin type of aircraft.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The casualties in all districts from the Zeppelin raid of Friday were 34 killed and 56 injured, it is reported officially.

COMMENDS KERENSKY AT CLINICAL CONGRESS

Dr. Billings Brings Milukoff's Eulogy of Premier—Officer With 97 War Wounds.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Democracy can depend on Kerensky, American physicians and surgeons at the Clinical Congress here were told today by Dr. Frank Billings, who headed the American Red Cross mission to free Russia. He said that politically and economically Russia was far from disorganization and could feed its people two years from the crops now on hand.

"Milukoff, the conservative, one of the ablest men in Russia," said Dr. Billings, "told me Kerensky was honest, adding: 'He would be willing to die tomorrow to make Russia a strong, democratic country.'"

Dr. Billings said, however, that a constitutional monarchy might yet prove the solution of the problem.

"Russia," he added in discussing the economic situation, "is making chemicals as efficiently as we, although not to such an extent. Her hospitals are admirably conducted. Uniforms and other army supplies are plentiful. There are certain surgical and medical supplies she requires of us, only a few. More men are not needed for the medical service."

That reclamation hospitals, established for war purposes, would be maintained even after the close of hostilities was predicted by Major E. G. Brackett, head of the reclamation work in the Surgeon General's office of the army. Contracts for the construction of such hospitals near New York, Boston, and Washington are soon to be let.

Baker on New England Tour.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Secretary Baker left tonight to inspect Camp Devens, the national army cantonment at Ayer, Mass., and the Harvard University training school. He expects to speak at several places before his return.

REPORT ALLIED TROOPS ARE SENT TO ITALY

British and French Soldiers on the Way, It Is Said, to Join Cadorna Advance.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—A semi-official dispatch received here today indicates that General Cadorna is making preparations on an extensive scale for an important military movement. There was no disclosure, for military reasons, of the objective, extent, or character of the movement or when the Italian offensive will be resumed.

Another interesting statement in the dispatch was that British and French soldiers, guns, and munitions were being sent by train to the Italian front. This was based on a statement printed in a Vienna newspaper, but there was nothing in the dispatch saying whether the Italian Government had confirmed the information. The fact that this information was in the dispatch and had passed the censor was considered significant.

The dispatch credited the war correspondent of The Tribuna with the statement that gossip of an Austrian offensive has proved to be unfounded. He stated that the Vienna Fremden-Blatt asserted that General Cadorna desired to start a new offensive against Austria last week, and as a consequence there was an extreme enlivenment of trench, mortar, and artillery firing from the Tolmino to the Southern Carso and over the entire area of the Bainsizza Plateau, which is still in progress. Although the firing was uninterrupted on the part of the Italians, it was declared not to be the prelude of a fresh attack.

BRITISH LOSSES 17,041.

3,550 Killed Last Week — 13,491 Wounded or Missing.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—British casualties reported for the week ended today total 17,041.

The losses were divided as follows:

Wounded or Missing—Officers, 927; men, 12,564.

Casualties among British troops for the week just ended show somewhat of an increase over the previous week, when the total was 14,096. They are nearly identical, however, with the losses for the week ended Oct. 9, which totalled 17,565. In general, the October losses are running far lower than those of September, the last two weeks of that month having shown casualties of 23,035 and 27,164, respectively.

A Letter from the Mayor to the Citizens of New York

October 23, 1917.

To the voters of this City—

You are just as tired as I am of campaign abuse and of distorted argument.

In a simple direct way, I desire to present the facts and you can then judge for yourselves.

In this letter and in those that follow I shall present evidence to establish two things:

First, that Judge Hylan has shown his UNFITNESS TO BE YOUR MAYOR; and second, that this city, during the past four years, has been WELL-GOVERNED.

I have stated that Judge Hylan swore under oath to an affidavit that was false. Here are the facts upon which my statement is based:

Judge Hylan sued through a dummy and secured by default judgments against the Black Diamond Automobile Company. These judgments were assigned to a swindler named Goslin. In a suit between Goslin and a clerk in Judge Hylan's office, Judge Hylan made the affidavit to which I refer.

In a letter to the New York World published on Monday of last week, Judge Hylan said over his signature:

> "The only facts are that there was a Black Diamond Automobile Company;.....that it did owe money for legal services rendered by me; that I assigned my claim to another and acted as attorney for the assignee..... That one of the principal stockholders did endeavor to re-finance the company and at his request I secured an assignment in blank for him of the judgments mentioned."

In his affidavit which is still recorded in the Supreme Court, Judge Hylan swore

> "I was in no wise a party to the recovery of said judgments NOR IN ANY WAY CONCERNED THEREIN, nor with respect to any of the several assignments thereof or other proceedings connected therewith."

I submit to you that a comparison of Judge Hylan's letter and his affidavit establishes the fact that Judge Hylan DID swear falsely under oath.

$100,000,000 ADDED TO LOAN SALES HERE

$18,300,000 FOR U. S. STEEL

Corporation Leads with $43,300,000 —Mutual Life and Union Pacific Take $5,000,000 Each.

Subscriptions to the Liberty Loan filed in this district yesterday aggregated a round $100,000,000, the highest figure of any day since the opening of the campaign, and brought the total up to $815,000,000. Only three and one-half days remain until the closing of the subscription books at noon Saturday, and in this short period applications to the amount of $685,000,000 will have to come in if the New York Federal Reserve District is to attain its goal of a billion and a half of subscriptions.

An optimistic spirit pervades the local Liberty Loan headquarters, and it is generally believed that New York will succeed in raising one-half of the country's $3,000,000,000 war loan, irrespective of what the rest of the nation will do. Today's observance of Liberty Loan Day, proclaimed by the President, is expected to give an impetus to the campaign, and it is confidently hoped that during the remainder of the week subscriptions, large and small, will pour in from all quarters.

The Federal Reserve Bank's official total of tabulated applications was $624,894,350 last night, and from today on it is likely that the official figures will move up closer to the estimate of subscriptions filed by reason of the fact that all the banks and trust companies have been urged not to delay the reporting of subscriptions placed with them by their customers.

The largest single subscription reported yesterday was one of $18,300,000 from the United States Steel Corporation, which, added to an earlier application for $25,000,000, gives the corporation a total of $43,300,000, and makes it the largest single subscriber. Several of the banks turned in substantial subscriptions representing accumulated subscriptions received from their clients; and the Mutual Life Insurance Company and the Union Pacific Railroad Company filed additional subscriptions of $5,000,000 each. The Lehigh Valley Coal Sales Company announced a subscription of $2,500,000, and twenty or more $1,000,000 applications were reported.

Leading Personal Subscriptions.

Among the personal subscriptions were $1,000,000 each from William Boyce Thompson, E. L. Doheny, and W. K. Vanderbilt; $500,000 by J. Stevens Ulman and Arthur Curtiss James; $250,000 by Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff, James McLean, and Mrs. E. L. Doheny; $100,000 by M. Friedsam, E. T. Bedford, Frank W. Woolworth, John Muir, and W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and $50,000 by Alexander J. Hemphill, Henry H. Rogers, Paul D. Cravath, and Walter J. M. Donovan.

The public schools have made an excellent response to appeals for subscriptions. It was reported that at P. S. 165, at Broadway and 109th Street, $35,000 of bonds had been sold to the pupils.

The Treasury Department sent out yesterday a notice calling attention to the fact that subscriptions, accompanied by a 2 per cent. initial payment must be in the hands of the banks not later than Saturday.

The following message was received yesterday from Vice Admiral Sims:

Vice Admiral Sims presents his compliments to the Chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee with the assurance that the personnel of the naval force under his command in European waters would regard a prompt and generous reply by all citizens to our Government's request for the loan as an inspiring encouragement in the performance of their strenuous and dangerous duties in aiding in the protection of the commerce upon which the success of the allied cause depends.

Stationery	2,582,000
New York Produce Exchange	2,554,000

The textile trades, under the leadership of the Silk Association, had a parade and Liberty Loan rally yesterday. About 6,500 workers were in line and marched to the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, at Lexington Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street, where addresses were made by Job E. Hedges and Charles E. Mitchell. It was reported that $40,000 in subscriptions had been collected.

The noon meeting at the Sub-Treasury was addressed yesterday by General Emilio Guglielmotti of the Italian aircraft mission, Governor Benjamin Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank, and John F. Harris of Harris, Winthrop & Co.

PATRIOTIC CHINESE INVESTS

Buys Bonds, Although America Debars His Wife and Child.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Tie Sing, a Chinese born in Virginia City, Nev., fifty years ago, has invested all his savings in the second Liberty Loan. Tie Sing is a man without a country. He has been thoroughly American, but is unable to prove his American birth, because all those who knew him as a child in Virginia City have died or their whereabouts are unknown. When three years old he was taken into the family of Judge Hawley of Carson City. The situation is particularly distressing to Tie Sing, as he is unable to bring to this country from China his wife and 7-year-old daughter.

Several years ago Tie Sing went to visit the land of his ancestors, and there was married. When all Chinese were required to register in 1892 he could not produce any birth record, and was classified as a Chinese alien. He has been engaged for thirty years as a cook for surveying parties of the United States Geological Survey.

Anybody who has evidence of Tie Sing's birth in Virginia City would help his wife and child to be reunited with him by sending the information to the Geological Survey in Washington.

Silent Pageant in Loan Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 23.—"The Pageant of Silence" was presented in Athens today in behalf of the Liberty Loan. Several thousand students massed in streets intersecting the centre of the city and through the streets marched 400 women who have relatives in the army or navy and who bore banners which urged the taking of the bonds. Not a word was said except at the close of the parade, when "America" was sung and a prayer was offered by a minister.

35,000 WILL PARADE TO AID LOAN TODAY

BRITISH TANK IN THE LINE

Big Caproni Airplane Will Drop Paper Bombs on City—Large Sale of Bonds Expected.

By proclamation of the President of the United States today is Liberty Day, and it will be observed in this city, as elsewhere throughout the land, by parades and patriotic demonstrations calculated to give testimony to the fact that the people are ready and willing to support the Government by liberal subscriptions to the Liberty Loan. It is expected that the enthusiasm displayed will be translated into action by the accumulation of heavier subscriptions to the war loan than on any other day since the beginning of the campaign. The Weather Bureau predicts rain with moderate southeast gales for today.

The chief event will be a pageant parade, in which about 35,000 men and women will participate. It will start from the Plaza at Fifty-ninth Street at 11 o'clock, and will march down Fifth Avenue to the Washington Arch, where it will disband. It will be reviewed by Mayor Mitchel from the grandstand erected in Madison Square. In the procession there will be more than thirty floats symbolical of the war and America's efforts to push it to a successful conclusion.

The main attraction of the parade will be the British tank which arrived here yesterday with its crew, and which will move down the avenue. In the pageant will be shown the model of an up-to-date destroyer, the type of craft which has proved such a deadly foe of the submarine. Another float will carry an airplane.

The parade will be led by a squad of mounted police, and directly behind them will march the members of the Liberty Loan Committee, headed by Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, and Chairman of the committee. Then will follow the other Liberty Loan workers and representatives from the various civic and commercial organizations. Practically every trade and line of business will be represented.

Major Lorillard Spencer of the Fifteenth New York Infantry, Grand Marshal of the parade, said yesterday that the procession would be the highest exemplification of democracy.

"In it," he said, "bankers will march side by side with their clerks, the khaki of the army and the blue of the navy will mingle with the sombre garb of the church; veterans of our older wars will be seen with those recruited for the one in which we are now engaged, school children will march with university students, wage earners with capitalists, lawyers with their clients, doctors with nurses, milliners with coal dealers—an outpouring from every walk of life. Firemen, police, Red Cross, Boy Scouts, all in one great army, marching to show their high patriotism and to exhibit to the world some of the power that lies behind the men behind the guns."

A notable feature of the parade will be the unusually large number of bands, so many that when the parade is well straightened out on its line of march there will be an almost continuous stream of music, the drums and trumpets of the army and navy, the melody of fife and drum corps, and the skirl of bagpipes. Conspicuous among the bands will be that of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, which will be brought here by Charles M. Schwab.

The big Caproni airplane, which broke all records on Monday in its flight from Newport News to New York, is scheduled to fly over the city while the parade is in progress today. With the Caproni machine will fly two smaller ones, all driven by Italian Army officers, and they will drop paper bombs from the Bronx to the Battery and from Staten Island to the Rockaways. The bombs will contain this message: "If you want to avoid being bombed by the German airmen, buy Liberty bonds." The Caproni airplane will carry eight passengers.

After the parade is over, Liberty Loan workers will make an intensive canvass for subscriptions to the loan. The Stock and Cotton Exchanges will close at noon, and many business concerns will observe today as a full or half holiday.

In the great hall of the College of the City of New York a patriotic meeting will be held at 10:15, the principal speaker being Abram I. Elkus, formerly American Ambassador to Turkey.

The renaming of the captured German submarine boat which arrived here last night will take place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in Central Park, where it has been set up for exhibition purposes.

Tonight there will be a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall, where moving pictures of the French, Italian, American and British Governments will be shown. The speakers will include Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, Captain A. R. Dugmore of the British Army, and Captain A. P. Simmons, U. S. A., an arctic explorer, who was also an official observer in Europe at the opening of the war and who witnessed Germany mobilize her armies.

PRESIDENT AT A BONFIRE.

Mrs. McAdoo Presides at Bond Celebration Near Washington Monument

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—President and Mrs. Wilson attended the lighting of the first of hundreds of bonfires planned for tonight in every part of the country in celebration of the Liberty Loan by the Woman's Committee, of which Mrs. William G. McAdoo is Chairman.

The celebration began at 8 o'clock at the base of the Washington Monument, with the United States Marine Band in attendance. The affair was in charge of Colonel Robert W. Harper, who was Chairman of the committee for the inauguration of the President last March.

Mrs. McAdoo occupied a place on the grandstand erected for the evening and gave the signal for applying the torch, which was made of trench candles sent from Quebec and held in an antique candlestick once the property of Napoleon. The torch came as a gift from the Pattersons of Baltimore to President Jackson, and has since been regarded as the property of the White House.

The tower of carefully prepared wood fifty feet high contained shingles and faggots from many historic sites, including a faggot from President Wilson's birthplace at Staunton, Va.

The Marine Band played patriotic selections during the fire, which illuminated the park from the White House to the Potomac River.

Until 10 o'Clock

on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week our Uptown Office will remain open to the public for the accommodation of those who desire to subscribe to the Liberty Loan. The office is located at 716 Fifth Avenue, near 56th Street, and its organization will be prepared to assist subscribers in every way. One dollar per week will buy a Liberty Bond. Sign up before it is too late. Saturday is the last day.

Likens the Loan to a Spear That Will Defeat Kaiserism

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Secretary Lane issued this appeal tonight in behalf of the Liberty Loan:

"Give to Woodrow Wilson, the President of this Republic, of your gold and of your silver, that he may fashion therefrom a spear with which to overthrow the champion of the divine right of kings to make war when they will, where they will, and how they will. For this is the day of trial in which all men shall prove themselves whether they be for government by the soldier or government by the will of the people.

"FRANKLIN K. LANE."

TO PUSH LOAN OVER THREE-BILLION LINE

This part of the United States, particularly resents the insult and perfidy of the German Kaiser when, although the United States was then at peace with Germany, the Kaiser secretly offered to turn Texas, Arizona, and New Mexico over to Mexico if that country would make war on the United States.

"The spirit in which the young men of the Southwest have responded to the selective draft law and in which the people generally now are subscribing to the Liberty Loan is inspiring and heartening. I have seen many of the soldiers in their camps and cantonments and have talked with farmers, bankers, cattlemen, professional men, and business men and patriotic women. All realize that the United States is engaged in a righteous war and are determined to uphold their Government in prosecuting it vigorously until a glorious victory is achieved.

"All that is needed now to make the Liberty Loan an overwhelming success is that the people generally in all parts of the nation realize the personal application of the loan appeal.

"There is still too much of a tendency to believe that the loan will be subscribed easily and without the assistance of the average man and woman. The Liberty Loan will succeed only if members of each family realize their direct responsibility and loan their money to their Government through the purchase of Liberty bonds, the safest investment in the world, the proceeds of which will be used to arm and equip our soldiers and sailors fighting for the free institutions, the property and lives of those who must remain at home. By this means only can victory be won quickly and peace restored to agonized humanity. Let neither apathy nor indifference nor over-confidence lull us into a false security. That is the only way the Kaiser can defeat America, and conquer the world. Militant America can whip the Kaiser; the Kaiser can whip apathetic America."

With the co-operation of the oil operators effected, Secretary Lane has arranged for the investment in Liberty bonds of more than $800,000 deposited in escrow in national banks of Denver, Col., and Cheyenne and Casner, Wyoming. The money was deposited pursuant to Government contracts with operators in the Salt Creek and Grass Creek oil fields in Wyoming, whereby a proportion of the proceeds from sales of oil were impounded, pending a determination of the title to the lands involved.

Secretary Lane is now arranging with operators in the California oil fields similarly affected for the investment in Liberty bonds of more than $300,000 now on deposit under like contracts in national banks in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Bakersfield and Visalia, Cal.

Army subscriptions to the loan were estimated tonight at $45,000,000.

General Pershing has cabled:

"Report progress with Liberty bond sales, all officers, soldiers, clerks, interpreters, including some French women, temporary clerks at these headquarters, subscribing. All units making encouraging reports."

A new offering of Treasury certificates of indebtedness of indefinite amount, to be issued in anticipation of Liberty bond receipts, was announced tonight by the Treasury Department. The new issue is the first upon which no definite limit has been placed.

USE SAVINGS TO BUY BOND.

Inmates of Home of Daughters of Jacob Aid Liberty Loan.

From the savings made to ease their old age, the 200 inmates of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob, 301 East Broadway, yesterday scraped together $100, which they turned over to Superintendent Albert Kruger with instructions to buy a Liberty bond in the name of the institution.

Nissen Rosenstein, said to be 109 years of age, and the oldest man in the State, gave $5; Ethel Polansky, who admits being 113 years old, contributed a dollar, and nearly all the others added a pittance, if only a dime. The aged Jews held a prayer meeting before the subscriptions were taken up, at which they interceded for the success of the American arms and the coming of an honorable peace.

LIBERTY BONDS IN RAFFLES.

$10,000 in Bonds Disposed Of on Stock Exchange.

Brokers of the financial district enlivened an indifferent session of the stock market yesterday by many raffles of Liberty bonds, the chief purpose being to promote the distribution of the new loan. On the Stock Exchange 100 chances on $10,000 of bonds were sold at $100 each, and the process of selecting the winner attracted many members to the luncheon room after the market closed. When all except fourteen members had been eliminated H. K. Hudson bought from Alfred Eckstein half of his chance for $850, and as the number won they split the bonds evenly.

On the Cotton Exchange chances were also sold on $10,000 of bonds, but the operation was not completed during the day. Scattered raffles were reported during the day with prizes running from $50 to $5,000. A plan was discussed among Stock Exchange and Cotton Exchange members to undertake the raffling of $100,000 of Liberty bonds as a single prize, but it was decided that the time was too limited before the end of the campaign would arrive.

BOY SCOUTS RAISE $3,000,000.

Total of $50,000,000 for Drive Predicted at Headquarters.

Reports received yesterday at the headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America showed that in the first day of the campaign undertaken by the Scouts all over the country subscriptions for nearly $3,000,000 Liberty bonds had been obtained. This record far surpassed that of the first day of the Scout campaign for the first loan. James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, predicted that by Thursday night, when the present campaign ends, more than $50,000,000 will have been raised.

The reports came from fifty-eight cities and towns. St. Louis led with $302,200. Pittsburgh was second with $184,650, and San Francisco third with $131,400. Subscriptions ranging from $51,000 to $100,000 were obtained in St. Paul, Chicago, and other leading cities of the Middle West and South.

LLOYD GEORGE TELLS COMMONS OF PLOT

pecuniary resources characteristic of the rebel organization before the rebellion and characteristic of the rebel organization of today. The Irish Administration was not more prodigal of expenses than those who were now pursuing their mischievous object.

Declaring that in various parts of Ireland men were being threatened by the rebel movement both with regard to the present and the future, the Secretary continued:

"There is the greatest alarm that at this stage, when it was hoped the convention was about to devise a solution, that the Government of Ireland may become actually impossible. There exists two currents of feeling, one in favor of passivity in the face of action of the most illegal and dangerous kind, the other which believes that unless freedom from disturbance is maintained the convention must be defeated.

"The troubles arose in Ireland in recent weeks because the convention was doing well. The design of the Sinn Fein leaders requires the failure of the convention, and their present manoeuvres are directed particularly to the raising of a state of things, in which the convention would appear to be hopeless. The Government has to deal with that situation and will do its best to prevent criminal acts of that kind. No criticism should prevent any Government from using any means to prevent the citizens from being led to deeds of violence and criminal misconduct."

Here cries were raised: "Why don't you arrest de Valera?" and the Nationalist cry: "Why don't you arrest Carson?"

The Secretary continued after the interruptions:

"While we hope that the new Constitution is in the making and while the mass of Irishmen are satisfied they can keep the controversy within bounds, there will be no arrests. Nothing would be more helpful to the propaganda of secession than embarkation on a policy of arrests."

Ex-Premier Asquith followed, expressing the hope that all the speeches would be couched in the same temperate language, because it was impossible at the present moment to exaggerate the importance to both Ireland and Great Britain of doing nothing to prejudice the prospects of a real reconciliation in Ireland.

He believed that he was not taking too sanguine a view in hoping that within a few months the Government of the day would be able to present to Parliament a scheme for a Government of Ireland acquiesced in by a large majority of the Irish people.

Mr. Redmond's motion was defeated, 211 to 78.

BRITISH "TANK" ARRIVES.

War Monster Will Be Seen in Today's Liberty Loan Parade.

The British "tank" which is to be used in the Liberty Loan campaign and afterward to be exhibited in Hero Land at the Allied Bazaar next month at the Grand Central Palace, has arrived at an American port. The strange monster is about thirty feet long and weighs twenty-six tons without guns.

Captain Richard Haigh of the British Army "Tank" Corps, who was in charge of the eight men forming the crew of the "tank," said that it was a bit bumpy going over rough ground, trenches, craters, and ruined villages, but it was not half as bad as being seasick on the Atlantic Ocean.

The Captain has been "over the top" with a tank, has been wounded twice, and on one occasion when he was shot in the foot he lay fourteen hours in No Man's Land before he was picked up.

REASSURES SAVINGS BANKS.

Skinner Urges Liberal Purchases of Liberty Bonds.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The State Superintendent of Banks, George I. Skinner, has sent the following letter to the officers and trustees of the savings banks of the State of New York:

"It is, of course, desirable for the savings banks, wherever possible, to induce their depositors to borow the funds necessary to pay for Liberty Loan bonds from their future savings rather than use their accumulated capital for this purpose, but if any savings bank should be inconvenienced by the demands of its depositors for funds for the purpose indicated, the banking law of this State authorizes such savings bank to borrow money and to hypothecate securities for the purpose of obtaining loans to meet such withdrawals. It is almost needless to say that the approval of the Superintendent of Banks will be given freely whenever application is made in accordance with the provisions of the statute."

HONORS FOR MISS WILSON.

President's Daughter to Receive a Loving Cup When She Sings in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President of the United States, will receive official civic recognition on the occasion of her visit to Montreal on Thursday to sing in aid of the Red Cross fund. A silver loving cup and a bouquet of flowers will be presented to her. Mayor Martin today ordered that the Stars and Stripes be flown from the City Hall in honor of Miss Wilson's coming.

DU PONT CO. INVESTS $45,000,000 IN BONDS

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 23.—The du Pont Company today subscribed $45,000,000 to the Liberty Loan. This brings its total subscription to $50,000,000, the company having subscribed as soon as the lists for the loan were opened.

In addition to this, individuals in the company have subscribed more than $1,000,000 for their personal accounts. This subscription will pass through the hands of the Wilmington Liberty Loan Committee.

Extra Dividends in Liberty Bonds.

Directors of the American Exchange National Bank declared yesterday an extra dividend of 1 per cent., payable in new Liberty bonds, as well as the usual semi-annual distribution of 5 per cent. in cash. The dividends will be paid Nov. 1 to stockholders of record Oct. 23. A statement by the bank said the dividend in bonds was evidence of the institution's efforts to serve the Government in distributing the Liberty Loan.

REYNOLDS DENIES LAND DEAL CHARGES

Asserts Indictments Against Him Were Brought for Political Effect.

ACCUSES WILLIAM BULLOCK

Declares He Never Received a Dollar for His Interest in Dreamland or Marginal Road.

Ex-Senator William H. Reynolds last night sent the following statement to THE TIMES in reply to charges and criticisms connected with his indictment:

The New York American, commenting in an editorial this morning on my indictment, states that I will probably claim these indictments to have been obtained solely for political purposes.

This is merely a lame attempt to defend, by way of anticipation, what The American and those associated with it know to be the truth with respect to the purpose for which these indictments have been found.

Both the perjury indictment and the conspiracy indictment show on their face that they have been found by the Grand Jury long after the time allowed by the statute of limitations for the finding of indictments. As the indictments are thus barred by law, the District Attorney can obviously have had no motive in procuring them except to further his own political ambitions and those of his party.

Calls It Political Capital.

The Grand Jury which indicted me did so without giving me a hearing; and it adjourned immediately after the indictment. Then a Special Grand Jury was called, and the District Attorney's office began a frantic effort to find a crime. Not only was great political capital made out of the original indictment for perjury which was found against me, but there also emanated daily from the District Attorney's office detailed statements of the happenings before the Grand Jury, and predictions of the heinous offenses that were about to be unearthed.

The District Attorney has reiterated for the newspapers from day to day that he would show that there was a slush fund which was used to corrupt public officials, and William Bullock, Swann's First Lieutenant in this investigation, in his original charges promised to testify that two public officials had admitted to him that they had been bribed. Yet this great investigation, heralded by the District Attorney with so many formidable statements of corruption, bribery, slush funds, land grabs, and municipal management, comes to an end after seventy days of investigation and an expenditure of huge sums of the city's and taxpayers' moneys, with the finding of a single indictment for conspiracy! Swann and his assistants know very well that the conspiracy indictment is not worth the paper it is written on, but they had to procure something as to the apparent result of the investigation, in order to justify themselves with the people for the time and money which they had wasted. Something had to be found which they could talk about in this campaign, for the furtherance of their political ambitions, and the time to bring this worthless indictment was properly fixed by them—two weeks before election.

Swann's chief lieutenant in this investigation has been William Bullock, the head of Tammany Hall's so-called Bureau of City Inquiry. Bullock's activities date back for over four years. In the last week of the Mitchel-McCall campaign four years ago they attempted also to make me the issue. Judge McCall, the Tammany candidate, used the same "land grabs," Seaside Park, Dreamland, and Marginal Railway, for political purposes in the same way that Tammany Hall is now attempting to use them. Yet the voters of this city rejected Judge McCall, who was undoubtedly far superior from every point of view to Judge Hylan, the present candidate for Mayor.

Knows Bullock's Movements.

I know Mr. Bullock's movements from the time that he made his first charges against me. I thought I had good reason to keep myself so advised and developments show that I had, for during this time Mr. Bullock went to the offices of The American and The Journal practically every day. And during this time also Mr. Bullock was lunching frequently with District Attorney Swann.

If there could be any doubt of the purely political purpose of the indictments found against me, that purpose was convincingly revealed by the inadvertent conduct of the Assistant District Attorneys and Mr. Bullock when I was summoned for examination to the District Attorney's office. Three days before the perjury indictment was found against me I appeared voluntarily at the District Attorney's office. I was not taken before the Grand Jury by Assistant District Attorneys Black and Kilroe, who were in charge of the proceedings, but I was taken by them before William Bullock! If there was no politics in my indictment why was I called before Mr. Bullock, the head of a financial Tammany aid society, instead of before the Grand Jury? Why was Mr. Bullock temporarily vested by the District Attorney with the functions and prerogatives of an Assistant District Attorney? At the outset of the examination I said to Messrs. Black and Kilroe that if the inquiry were to be an honest one and not for political purposes it should be postponed until after election. The reply came not from either of the Assistant District Attorneys, but from Mr. Bullock, who was assuming to conduct the proceedings. "I charge you with corrupting the Mayor and Controller of the City of New York, and I can prove it," I said. "Mr. Bullock, you have been promising to prove a lot of things to the public, and now you will get your opportunity here today—that is what you are here for." Mr. Bullock retorted, "I know what you have been doing, disrupting the Democratic party in Brooklyn."

Was I in an atmosphere of pure justice wholly without political taint? I said to Mr. Black: "And you say this is not a partisan inquiry? Is that another charge I have to answer today, District Attorney Black?"

Private Life Attacked, He says.

Another circumstance which characterizes unerringly the motives of the District Attorney's office is the fact that, not content with a mere investigation of the so-called "land deals," this District Attorney and his assistants, sworn to represent the people, have gone far afield in their anxiety to find something to besmirch me, and have attempted to attack my private life, even going so far as to importune witnesses brought to their office to testify on the land deals and to threaten them with arrest if they did not reveal some salacious material about me out of which the District Attorney could make capital in his campaign, either in the newspapers or upon the stump.

Tammany Hall and the District Attorney know the utter lack of foundation for the charges which have been made, but they hope that by the very finding of the indictments they will be able to persuade at least the unsuspecting few that there is some ground for the charges. But the charges will fail, just as the same charges in the McCall campaign failed, because—

1. I never had any interest in the Seaside Park land deal when it was purchased by the city.
2. I have not received a single dollar for my interest in Dreamland.
3. I have not received a single dollar for my interest in the Marginal Railway property.

I should be glad at any time to convey my interest in the Dreamland and Marginal Railway properties to any responsible person or corporation who will assume my obligations on them.

Unlike the District Attorney, I do not believe in trying cases in the public press, and I have made this statement only because he has ignored my letter of Oct. 20, challenging him to demonstrate any of his charges against me. That challenge is still open.

WILLIAM H. REYNOLDS.

Democratic Union Out for Hylan.

The Committee of Fifty of the Democratic Union, which was organized in 1908 as an organization of anti-Tammany Democrats, and which supported Mayor Mitchel in 1913, met at the Hotel Astor last night and unanimously adopted a resolution indorsing the candidacy of Judge John F. Hylan, the Tammany nominee. John Mitchell presided, and among those who made speeches attacking Mayor Mitchel were Ernest Harvier, Alexander F. Bacon, Cornelius J. Early, and Henry Nichols.

REPUBLICANS PLAN DRIVE FOR MAYOR

that he is afraid to answer questions when heckled, and is afraid to meet the Mayor face to face before the people. Hylan, however, will not talk. There is danger. Hylan knows if he begins to talk he will lose the election. Murphy knows it. Hearst knows it. Hylan's refusal to talk is beginning to be as bad as talking, and a persistent refusal will lose him the election anyhow."

Bronx Safe for Mitchel.

Mr. Buckner said he felt sure the Bronx was safe for Mitchel, although the Democrats were trying to raise a big issue on the Gary school system.

"To show to what lengths the Democrats are going," he said, "only last night, in speaking of the Gary school system, a street corner orator told his audience that the Gerry Society would have charge of the schools if Mayor Mitchel was re-elected. This same speaker also told his hearers that Mr. Mitchel cast the deciding vote in Congress for the conscription draft. Notwithstanding all this talk, the situation in the Bronx is improving every day for Mitchel."

Mr. Buckner denied that it was the intention of Mayor Mitchel to attend a meeting of the Teachers' Union in Washington Irving High School, on Saturday morning, although it had been stated by the union that the Mayor, William M. Bennett, and Morris Hillquit had accepted invitations to discuss the educational issues of the campaign.

"The Mayor," he said, "has stated that he will not meet inconsequentials in any debate. If Judge Hylan will be there, the Mayor will accept, but not otherwise. The invitation has not been accepted, as it contemplates candidates other than Judge Hylan."

Mayor Mitchel is scheduled to make six speeches in Brooklyn tonight. Three will be under the auspices of the City Democracy, at Stauch's, Coney Island, 8 o'clock; Public School 163, Benson Avenue and Bay Fifteenth Street, Bath Beach, 8:30, and Exempt Firemen's Hall, Bay Ridge Avenue, near Third Avenue, 8:55. The other meetings will be held at White Eagle Hall, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-third Street, 9:20; Public School 171, Ridgewood and Lincoln Avenues, 10 P. M., and Arcadia Hall, Halsey Street, near Broadway, 10:30 o'clock. Ex-Senator Thomas C. Whitlock, Chairman of the Brooklyn Executive Committee of the City Democracy, has invited Judge Hylan to meet Mayor Mitchel at any or all three of the City Democracy meetings for the purpose of discussing the issues of the campaign.

FRENCH CAPTURE 7,500 GERMANS

our troops, after a desperate engagement, in which they gave proof of their irresistible snap, drove the enemy out of the quarries of Montparnasse, which had been partly crushed by our big shells.

On the left our progress was continued with the same success, the villages of Allemant and Vaudesson remaining in our power, while on the right our troops carried their line to the heights dominating Pargny-Filain.

Finally, in the centre, our troops drove fresh enemy reserves helter-skelter and captured, in a violent struggle, the village of Chavignon. At this point our advance reached a depth of three and a half kilometers, (about two and one-fifth miles.)

The enemy losses in the course of the day were large, in addition to those inflicted on him by our artillery preparation. The number of prisoners counted up to the present exceeds 7,500. In the enormous amount of material captured we have counted twenty-five heavy and field cannon.

Berlin Reports "Strong Attacks."

BERLIN, Oct. 23, (via London.)—The artillery battle northeast of Soissons was resumed with great violence yesterday, reaching drumfire intensity after midnight. An artillery engagement began at daybreak this morning. This information is contained in an official communication from Army Headquarters, which says:

Army of the German Crown Prince: After slight firing activity, which was limited in the morning on account of fog and when only reconnoitring thrusts by the French were made, the artillery battle northeast of Soissons commenced again at midday with full force. In the evening the fighting in the region of the Ailette, under a brave expenditure of munitions of all calibres, reached formidable proportions. With the approach of darkness the enemy's firing diminished, but it increased from midnight onward to a continuous drumfire.

At daybreak an infantry battle began with strong French attacks.

On the eastern bank of the Meuse East Frisian companies and portions of a storming battalion, after excellent firing preparation, stormed Hill 326, southeast of Beaumont. More than 100 prisoners have been brought in.

The supplementary statement tonight says:

Northeast of Soissons, (Aisne front,) bitter fighting still goes on on the northern slopes of the Chemin des Dames and on both sides of the Laon Road.

The French have advanced there as far as Chavignon. South of Filain strong attacks failed.

BRITISH LOSE YPRES OUTPOST.

Forced from a Farm in Houthulst Forest, but Hold Gains Elsewhere.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Germans last night attacked one of the newly-captured British positions in Houthulst Forest, north of Ypres, and forced back the troops holding it, the War Office announces. Elsewhere the British gains of yesterday have been maintained.

The Associated Press correspondent at the British front in France and Belgium telegraphs:

"The new allied line established in yesterday's limited attack astride the Ypres-Staden railway was intact this morning, with the exception of the loss in the southern fringe of Houthulst Wood of one fortified farm, from which the British were forced to fall back last evening, when the Germans delivered a heavy local counterattack.

"Yesterday's operation may now be recorded as a success, and, while only limited objectives were sought, their attainment has greatly improved the allied position."

Field Marshal Haig's report from the Flanders front tonight says.

In addition to the hostile attack reported in this morning's communiqué, the enemy delivered two other counterattacks yesterday evening. In one case the enemy's troops attempted to advance along the line of the Westroosebeke-Poelcapelle Road, but when some 200 yards from our new positions they were engaged by our infantry with rifle and machine-gun fire and beaten off with loss. As the survivors endeavored to withdraw, they were caught by our artillery barrage and again suffered heavily.

The second attack was delivered immediately north of the Ypres-Staden railway in considerable strength. Here also the enemy's troops were met by rifle and machine gun fire and driven off.

Early this morning another hostile attack against our positions in the Houthulst Forest, northeast of Veluhoek, was completely repulsed, prisoners being left in our hands. A less powerful attack against one of the fortified farms captured by us yesterday southeast of Poelcapelle was equally unsuccessful.

During the day the artillery was active on both sides along the battle front in spite of the unfavorable weather.

Berlin Claims "Complete Success."

BERLIN, Oct. 23, (via London.)—The objectives of the French and British in yesterday's attack in Flanders, according to orders which were found, were points two and a half kilometers (about a mile and a half) behind the German first line, says today's official communication. The advance made in the region of Houthulst Wood was not more than 300 meters deep and 1,200 meters wide, according to the announcement, which characterizes the engagement as having been completely successful for the Germans.

The text of the afternoon communication says of the operations in Flanders:

Army of Crown Prince Rupprecht.—The fighting which developed yesterday morning in Flanders between Draelbank and Poelcappelle lasted toward evening. According to orders found, the objectives of the French and English attacks lay two and a half kilometers behind our front line.

The enemy, who at the beginning had penetrated deeply into our defense zone only at the southern edge of the Houthulst Wood, was repulsed by our counterattacks. Reinforcements brought up by the enemy were not able to extend the slight gain of ground, which, at the outside, was about 300 meters deep by 1,200 meters wide.

Near Poelcappelle, in fluctuating fighting, our foremost crater lines were maintained or regained. In spite of strong English attacks which were launched in the morning and again in the evening. At other points in the field of attack the enemy's assaults completely failed.

Deeply serried attacks were directed also against the sector of the front on both sides of Gheluvelt, where the effect of our defense broke the force of the English thrust, which nowhere reached our entanglements.

The French and English sustained heavy sanguinary losses under our concentrated fire. Prisoners also were left in our hands. In Flanders yesterday the engagements during the daytime were completely successful for us.

The supplementary report issued tonight by General Headquarters says:

In Houthulst Wood the enemy has been almost completely driven out of the positions he captured yesterday.

BAVARIANS DESERT UNDER BRITISH FIRE

One Division at Ypres Has Been Replaced by German Marines from Wilhelmshaven.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS IN BELGIUM, Oct. 23.—The fighting yesterday east of Poelcappelle and on the right of the French by Houthulst Forest and across the Ypres-Staden Railway showed a curious inequality in the strength and determination of the German defense. The French themselves had easy going, swinging up from the Jean Bart estaminet across some trench works and through a cluster of blockhouses. The German artillery fire was slight against them, so that their losses were very few—though they were held a while in the centre by machine-gun fire—and it seems likely that the French gas shells fired over the enemy's batteries before the attack had a paralyzing effect on some of the German gunners.

Whatever the cause, there was a strange absence of high explosives, and the line was not thickly held by the men of the Fortieth Division, who have lately come from Russia. One officer and a score of men were captured, and a number of dead lie about the blockhouses, killed by the French bombardment. The others fled into the forest. Behind them they left two field guns.

East of Poelcappelle and on the right of the British attack the German infantry was also weak in resistance, and the men of the Norfolk and Essex regiments who advanced hereabouts did not have much trouble with them at close quarters. What trouble there was came from the machine gun barrage further back, which whipped over the shell craters and whistled about the ears of the assaulting troops. The heavy gunning the British had put over this ground for more than a week, with special concentration on strong points like the ruined brewery outside the scrapheap village of Poelcappelle and other blockhouses, had made this area a most unhealthy neighborhood for German garrisons, and they had withdrawn some of their strength to safer lines, leaving small outposts.

A division of the Fifth Bavarian reserve had been living in those "pill boxes" and shell holes until two nights ago. Some of the Suffolk and Berkshire boys had taken prisoners among these Bavarians on the days and nights before the attacks, and these men made no disguise of disgust at their conditions of life. Like other Bavarians taken elsewhere, they complained that they were being made catspaws of the Prussians and put into the hottest parts of the line to save Prussian skins.

Some of the Bavarian battalions had an epidemic of desertion to the back areas in the spirit of "I want to go home." A fortnight ago there was the case of thirteen men who set off for home. A few of them actually reached Nuremberg, and others were arrested at Ypres.

One strange and gruesome sign of trouble behind the German firing line was found by one of the Camerons in the other day. It was a German officer, bound and shot.

Opposite Poelcappele the German command thought it well to pull out the men of the Fifth Bavarian Reserve and replace them two nights ago by marines of the Third Naval Division, who are not to follows whatever their political opinions may be after the recent mutiny at Wilhelmshaven, from which some of them have come.

On the British left centre yesterday they fought hard and well, with a quick counterattack, but opposite Poelcappelle they did not resist in the same way and did not come back yesterday to the ground taken by the British.

On the whole the progress made yesterday was good, considering the state of ground, which still is the greatest trouble. It was a splendid feat of arms by those men of the old country regiments, who receive the honor they deserve by public mention.

The enemy's losses were heavy all last week, owing to the ceaseless fire of the British, and the dead that lie about the ground of this new advance to a thousand yards in depth show what his men have suffered. It is that constant drain of his man power which is the greatest anxiety of his high command, and to save that they build their "pill boxes" and defend their lines thinly with supporting troops in the rear.

They alter their methods of defence, as the British find their old ones out, and yet they can get no system by which they can avoid that toll of death and mutilation taken by the British guns. Only retreat can do that for them, and they will not retreat until they are driven from heights like Passchendaele and Westroosebeke beyond, because of the greater perils that would follow them in the plains. I think they must be hard pressed now to keep up their reserves of men, for I saw the boys who tried to hold Hill 70, and they would not have been there if stronger and bigger men had been available.

Two days ago there wandered into the British lines along the Menin road a queer, pitiful goblin. The creature was half-witted, dazed with terror, and unable to give any account of himself. He was no more than 4 feet high. If Germany has come down to that kind of recruit she is in a worse way than some of us think. It is difficult to know. Outwardly her lines are still strong and her men are fighting as they have always fought, with hard and stubborn courage, unless demoralized by the great storm of shellfire, which breaks their spirit.

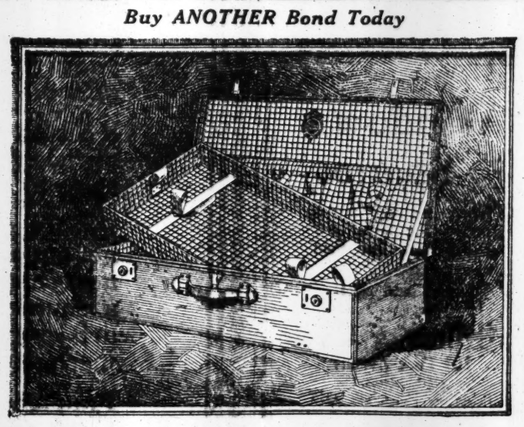
CREAM POSTCARD BRISTOL

Buy ANOTHER Bond Today



THIS Extra-size Suit Case is for those who, because of war-time railroad service congestion, are following the Continental custom of carrying large pieces of hand luggage.

It is of very fine, long-wearing, oak-tanned cow-hide, closely stitched with strong, pure, hand-waxed linen thread. The frame is of tough resilient basswood, grooved so that the front edge of cover cannot spring out or in, when closed.

The outside angles of case and frame are reinforced to add strength. The bottom corners have riveted corner rests. The hinges and locks are heavy, of solid brass, washered and riveted. The tray is framed with tough basswood. Considering its size and strength, the case is very light.

This case is worthy of bearing the two marks we have placed upon it—our trademark and our name.

"Send Me Away With a Smile"

"Over There"

The soldiers of America go to war with a song upon their lips. Music is encouraged and officially directed in our camps here and abroad. The same spirit which brought forth "The Star-Spangled Banner," "America," and "The Battle Cry of Freedom," has burst out again.

Our boys can sing as they march up the gang-plank of the ships that are bound for France, because they feel there is a United people behind them, supporting them with every effort and every sacrifice that may be required.

Buy a Liberty Bond

Men may be leaving this week, next week, every little while. They will be singing. You can hearten their songs by buying a Liberty Bond. Shall our soldiers feel that they are leaving behind them a people that respond to the Government's Appeal for a loan?

You should buy a bond and another bond. You should buy it today. You should buy it with a song in your heart. If men can go to the trenches singing you surely can go to the bank and loan your country a few dollars.

If you have a bank account go to your bank. If you haven't, go to your employer.

BENNETT READS OBIT FOR UNION LEAGUE

Stands in Auto Before Club to Tell Merry Audience the Funeral Arrangements.

SETS NOV. 6 AS THE DATE

Speaks Sarcastically of Republican Organization's Support of Mayor Mitchel.

Standing in an automobile in the midst of a merry audience of several hundred, in front of the Union League Club, yesterday at noon, William M. Bennett, the Republican nominee for Mayor, read the obituary of the club and announced that the organization's funeral would be held on Nov. 6 next.

As Mr. Bennett read and the people laughed, a score of the elderly members of the club came to the Thirty-ninth Street windows and watched the proceeding curiously, but, as the windows were closed, they apparently did not hear anything that was said. The speaker, whose automobile and audience were on the south side of Thirty-ninth Street, just east of Fifth Avenue, had his back to the club most of the time, but frequently turned to point to the building.

"Gentlemen," he said, "we stand before a house containing what is known as the Union League Club of the City of New York, but which really is a vault containing the remains of a patriotic organization which died shortly after the termination of the civil war."

Mr. Bennett went on to say that the club had been organized in 1863 to support the principles of the Union, one of which was that "every man, white or black," was entitled to one vote, that must be counted in an election, the decision of the majority as registered in votes to be the decision of the nation.

"Recently," he continued, "the remains of this organization, forgetful of its past, has placed itself on record as in favor of the doctrine that a man is entitled to one vote only when the Inspectors of Election, armed with erasers, graciously condescend to allow his vote to be counted.

"Gentlemen, this club ceased to have life with the end of the civil war. No new thought has come from it since the end of the civil war. This house now stands before you as a mausoleum containing only the traditions of patriotic achievements and the ghosts of great men."

Lyons Campaigns with a "Tank."

John J. Lyons, Republican candidate for Sheriff of New York County, yesterday started out a huge war tank to campaign for him. The tank is 43 feet long by 12 feet high, and bears on its side the line, "He Did His Bit in '98," which refers to the Spanish-American war record of the candidate, when he was out with the Sixty-ninth Regiment. The activities of the tank are under the direction of the Spanish-American War Veterans' Association, of which he is a member.

WOMEN CHEER THE MAYOR.

"Town Meeting" Hears Reference to More Pay for the Police.

A large audience at the "Women's Town Meeting" in Carnegie Hall yesterday morning applauded Mayor Mitchel, the chief speaker. Ex-Ambassador Henry Morgenthau presided and told the women they had a great part to play in the titanic struggle going on in the world, and that he hoped the women would soon have an actual share in the government here.

"It would be a great misfortune to have the city turned over to Tammany Hall," he said. "The upheaval in Europe is caused by bad Government. Here we have a wonderful Government and it is due to the big men in it. New York is the foremost municipal fortress in the world. If we turn it over to Tammany Hall it will fall."

Mayor Mitchel told of the work done in the Departments of Charities and Correction, and of the Widows' Pensions, said that the high cost of living was a national problem, but the city had done the best it could to aid in cutting it down. He asked if any reduction could be made in salaries in the present times, and speaking of the increase of those of the police, he got great applause when he said: "There was never a time when the people grudged the police money less than they do under the leadership of Arthur Woods."

He gave Hylan the remaining eight days before the budget goes into effect to suggest reductions compatible with good service. He denounced Hylan, Murphy, and Hearst, the latter worst of all, and he said the municipality under him had stood for American preparedness and co-operation with the Government.

ELECTION BETTING ON CURB.

$10,000 Wagered on Hylan at Two and a Half to One.

Election betting in the financial district yesterday consisted of wagers totaling $10,000 on Hylan against $4,000 on Mitchel. The betting was handled by Percy Guard, the Curb broker. The odds of 2½ to 1, with Mitchel on the short end, represented a slight shift over night in favor of the Tammany candidate. Guard reported that about as much more Hylan money was available as was wagered, but could not be put up, as Mitchel supporters were asking 1 to 3.

So far the Curb betting ring has had little to do, because four Mayoralty candidates are unsettling the calculations of the chance takers.

Fred Schumm, the Brooklyn betting commissioner, said yesterday that betting on the Mayoralty race continued at the same odds as on Monday, with Hylan the favorite. The largest wager placed at Schumm's yesterday was $4,000 on Hylan again $2,400 on Mitchell. Several freak bets were recorded. One bet of $3,000 even money was made that Hylan, Craig, Smith, and Dowling would all be winners. An even-money bet was made that Hillquit would run ahead of Bennett. One man bet $100 against $500 that Mayor Mitchel would run last. Another bet of $100 to $500 was made that Hylan would carry every county.

MAYOR CALLS HALT ON PEACE HECKLERS

Hillquit Crowd Subdued When Mitchel Quotes Words of Wounded Soldier.

DEFENDS NEW CITY BUDGET

Says Hylan Should Appear Before Board of Estimate and Suggest Changes He Desires.

Mayor Mitchel encountered a group of noisy Hillquit men in the Lenox Theatre last night and silenced them when they interrupted his speech. A man who gave his name as L. Miller was speaking when the Mayor came in, pleading for loyalty to America, and the gallery crowd was giving him a bad time of it.

Mr. Mitchel glanced angrily at the disorderly ones during his speech and finally said:

"My friends, you may be pacifists—you are no greater pacifist than I. I heard a British soldier, wounded twenty times, who had left his blood and part of his body on the battlefields of France, say to an audience in Madison Square that he had listened to the professional pacifist and he wondered what the pacifist would answer to his question when he said to him that he would like to know what he had ever done for peace that he should prate about it. For peace? Of course we are all for peace, but we are not for an enemy peace. We are not for a peace that only means the postponement of the day when democracy must stand up and defend itself against the aggression of autocracy or suffer its extinction in this world."

For some seconds after he had finished and a thunder of applause had died away, the Mayor stood looking at the group, his eyes flashing, his whole pose a challenge to them to answer back. But no word came.

Of Judge Hylan, his Tammany opponent, Mayor Mitchel in several of his speeches asked pointed questions about the city budget, the increase in which the Tammany candidate has criticised. Over and over he wanted to know where and when and how Mr. Hylan would reduce the budget, and over and over he asked that if the Judge had any constructive suggestion to make, he give it to the Board of Estimate before the budget is finally acted upon eight days hence.

Mr. Mitchel spoke in the Republican Club of the First and Second Assembly Districts at 32 Macdougal Street, where he pleaded for patriotism before party loyalty; at Broadway Tabernacle, Central Opera House, and Park View Palace.

STAATS-ZEITUNG FOR HYLAN

Urges German-Americans to Vote for Him, Not Hillquit.

Under the heading "Vote for Judge Hylan," the New-Yorker Staats-Zeitung said editorially yesterday morning:

"The Mayoralty campaign is developing more and more in a direction showing that either the Democratic candidate, Judge Hylan, will carry off the victory, or Mayor Mitchel will receive a second term. The success of the Republican candidate, Bennett, is, and was from the beginning, impossible. The Fusion people hope that the loss of the Republican votes that may be cast for Bennett will be more than offset by the Democratic votes that will be taken from Hylan and given to Hillquit. They figure that under such conditions Mitchel would be elected. There is only too much probability in this calculation.

"A vote for Hillquit will be considered by thousands as a protest against the Fusion candidate. In reality such is not the case. A vote for Hillquit is really a vote for the Fusion candidate, because it will be taken from the Democratic candidate, Hylan, who, under normal conditions, has the best prospect for election. He who wants a change in the city administration ought to vote for Judge Hylan, so that he will receive an overwhelming number of votes."

RANSOM FOR LOWER PRICES.

Promises, if Elected, to Curb Extortion in Food and Fuel.

William L. Ransom, Republican and Fusion candidate for District Attorney, announced last night that he would devote his energies if elected to the immediate relief of the food and fuel situation. To this end, he said, he would establish on Jan. 1 two new bureaus in the District Attorney's office, one to be known as the Bureau of Food and the other to be known as the Bureau of Fuel. Each department, he said, "will proceed to protect the consumer against extortion or profiteering on the part of the distributors.

"My platform," said Mr. Ransom, "is a complete reorganization of the District Attorney's office to meet, not only conditions and crimes as they have been in years gone by, but as they are today. An adequate supply of food and fuel at reasonable prices is now the paramount concern of this city. The office will not merely be used to prosecute persons but also to defend the public purse and health."

MITCHEL CALLS FOR ONE HYLAN THOUGHT

Defies Any One to Name Single Valuable Contribution by Judge.

CONTINUES FIRE AT RECORD

What Do Tammany Voters Think, Mayor Asks, of a Candidate They Cannot Respect?

Mayor Mitchel in continuing his attacks upon Judge John F. Hylan said yesterday in a statement that he defied any person in the city, not excepting Charles F. Murphy, to "name one serious or valuable thought which Judge Hylan has contributed to the present discussion on public questions." The Mayor continued to go into his opponent's record, and declared that the independent voters of the city are determined that they "shall not apologize to the nation for their Mayor during the next four years as the people of Chicago are now apologizing for Mayor Thompson." The Mayor said:

"The marvelous incapacity of Judge Hylan for the office which he seeks is daily becoming a greater wonder. Starting from zero, Judge Hylan has steadily descended in public esteem. Where two months ago there was no reason why Judge Hylan should be Mayor, there is now a multitude of sound reasons why he should be kept out of City Hall. Every time Judge Hylan has opened his mouth he has made himself and his masters ridiculous.

"I wonder what the rank and file of Tammany think of their candidate. I wonder how they relish the idea of being lashed into line behind a man whom they cannot respect. There are many two-fisted fighters in Tammany. I wonder what they think as they are asked to follow a candidate whose method of fighting is to take to his heels.

"Even in Tammany itself the tide of indignation must be rising against Hearst and Hylan. Even there, there must be thousands of men who think more of their nation's emblem than they do of the emblem of their party. They may be willing to disregard the work that has been done for this city during the past four years. They may think more of patronage than they do of clean streets, more of jobs than they do of an effective police force. But when it comes to an issue where the lives of their sons and the honor of their country are concerned, party loyalty must give way to loyalty to the nation.

"As for the great silent mass of independent voters who hold the balance of power in this city, there can be no doubt of their hostility to Judge Hylan and to all that Hylan stands for. They are not interested in patronage or jobs, but they are interested in the welfare and the prestige of New York City.

"For four years they have had a police force which has been used to protect the public rather than to enrich the politicians. They have had a Fire Department which has cut millions of dollars from the fire losses, and which has done away with the fire traps that formerly endangered the city's wage earners.

"They have had a Charities Department which abolished conditions which permit vermin-laden children, and has given to helpless wards of this great city the sympathetic and intelligent care which helplessness demands. They will not exchange the government they have had during the past four years to elect a man who is in disrepute even with his own party."

RUSH RECOUNT COMPLETED

But Void and Protested Ballots Await Action by Court.

The recount of the ballots cast in the Democratic primary in the contest for the Supreme Court Justice nomination between Thomas E. Hush and John V. McAvoy was completed yesterday by the Board of Elections. The recount, however, did not include the void and protested ballots and no definite figures of the result were given out. Mr. Rush announced that he is now engaged in collecting evidence to present to the Court for an order to have these ballots recounted. Herbert R. Limburg, counsel for Judge McAvoy, said:

"The re-examination of the ballots not only failed to furnish any evidence to substantiate Mr. Rush's cry of fraud, but demonstrated that the Democratic primaries had been conducted in an honest and impartial manner. In more than 75 per cent. of the districts the re-examination does not show the change of a single vote. In less than 1 per cent. of all of the districts is there any evidence of possible fraud or irregularity, and in at least half of these cases the irregularities and fraud, if any, were in the interest of Mr. Rush, not of Judge McAvoy."

Joseph Barberich, Sander Paaren, Charles Schwarz, and Norman W. Schell, inspectors for the Thirteenth Election District of the First Assembly District in Long Island City, who were arrested on a charge of making false returns in the Democratic primary for Borough President of Queens were indicted on that charge by the Queens County Grand Jury yesterday. The men are now out on bail of $1,000. They will be arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Kelly at Long Island City this morning.

CORRIGAN TELLS OF PLOT.

Says Attempt Will Be Made to Steal Election for Swann.

Speaking at a meeting at the Corrigan Bowery headquarters, 271 Bowery, last night, Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan, independent candidate for District Attorney said:

"We have Boss Murphy and his puppet District Attorney, Swann, on the run. Swann is the most discredited candidate in the entire city. His attempts to conduct a campaign in his own defense have aroused only ridicule; he has not been able to meet effectively a single one of the charges which I brought against him; he stands before the voters a confessed failure, and worse than that, for he has shamefully abused the power of his office to help his master, Murphy.

"I have information that the corrupt forces supporting him in this campaign are planning to steal the election for him. They know, now, that Swann cannot win honestly, that a big majority of the votes in this county will be cast on Election Day for me by voters who have no use for the boss and his machine or for his puppet District Attorney. But they have a plan by which they hope to count Swann in by fraud. I know all about it and I serve warning now on the men behind the scheme that somebody will go to jail if they dare to put it into effect."

NO GAG ON HYLAN, MURPHY DECLARES

Says Candidate Is Free to Debate with Mitchel if He So Chooses.

ALARMED BY SOCIALISTS

Justice Aaron Levy Warns Members of Tammany to Watch Out.

If Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany's candidate for Mayor, wears a gag it is not by virtue of any decree issued by Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy, according to a statement by Mr. Murphy. He said yesterday that, as far as Tammany was concerned, Judge Hylan could do all the talking he wanted to.

There is no doubt that Judge Hylan is mute and invisible to reporters representing newspapers which at the Hylan headquarters have been catalogued as "unfriendly." Within that category—possibly by the decree of Judge Hylan himself, possibly through the mistaken zeal of those who mount guard at the door leading to his inner sanctum at the Hylan headquarters, 50 East Forty-second Street—are placed all the daily newspapers with the exception of the Hearst publications and those printed in the German language.

In the annals of municipal campaigns in this city the nearest and most recent parallel to the extraordinary isolation of Judge Hylan was furnished by Judge Robert A. Van Wyck, who was Tammany's candidate for Mayor when Tammany made its last successful venture at electing a straight goods Tammany man Mayor of New York City. Judge Van Wyck never made a speech and he gave but one interview. But it was well understood at the time that the Tammany standard bearer of that remote day had his orders direct from Richard Croker, the then Tammany leader, to "sit tight and say nothing."

A TIMES reporter assigned to cover Hylan headquarters had the exceptional good fortune of being in the immediate presence of Judge Hylan once early in the campaign. An attempt at interviewing, however, failed. Questions put to Judge Hylan were invariably answered by Joseph Yeska, Chairman of the Business Men's League, one of the organizations that appeared in the early days of the campaign as a sponsor for Judge Hylan's Mayoralty boom. The Judge merely sat silent, smiled benignantly, and twirled his thumbs, even when Mr. Yeska, in answer to a question put to the Judge whether he would have his campaign conducted under Tammany auspices, came back with the jocular remark that the league considered that "it owned the Judge, body and soul."

Reporters who, exasperated at Judge Hylan's silence, carried their tale of woe to the Tammany chieftain found him at Tammany Hall, hiding any worries behind a smiling face and an air of supreme assurance.

"Mayor Mitchel insists that the reason Judge Hylan does not answer questions or receive reporters, and declines to discuss the issues of the campaign with him, is because he has orders from Tammany Hall not to," Mr. Murphy was told.

"Why, that's ridiculous," was Mr. Murphy's reply.

"Then Judge Hylan is free to answer questions and to meet Mayor Mitchel in debate and discuss the issues of the campaign?" Mr. Murphy was asked.

"Of course he is," was the reply. "He is the candidate and that is a question for candidates to determine."

Then Mr. Murphy was asked if he had read the statement of Henry Morgenthau, declaring that Mayor Mitchel would win by about 40,000 plurality and predicting Judge Hylan's defeat certain. Mr. Murphy was told that the Morgenthau statement was backed by figures.

"Mr. Morgenthau has big figures on his brain," said the Tammany boss, "possibly because he was one of the men who started out recently to raise a one-million-dollar campaign fund to elect Mitchel. I understand they raised $300,000 at a luncheon downtown one day last week and that the rest has been raised since. I would like to know how they are going to spend all that money."

"Have you read the letters of State Controller Travis, Commissioner Kracke, and United States Senator Calder indorsing Mayor Mitchel?" Mr. Murphy was asked.

"No, I haven't read them," Mr. Murphy replied.

"Anything about the Socialist wave?"

"Nothing," was the reply. "I haven't received any reports from the district leaders and don't know what they are doing to check it."

A man in Mr. Murphy's confidence said last night that the Socialist situation had caused Mr. Murphy more worry a week ago than it is doing just now. It is known that for many days Tammany district leaders and men devoted to the Tammany cause whose influence extends to strata which are not reached by the ordinary district leaders have been busily at work combating the dangers of Socialist ascendency which Mr. Murphy emphasized in an interview some days ago.

"Vote for Hylan, if you want to save the city from the Socialists," is the warning sounded to voters by Mr. Murphy's lieutenants of high and low degree.

The latest alarmist statement came from Presiding Justice Aaron J. Levy of the Municipal Court, who is a member of Tammany's inner circle. It was a warning that unless the voters watched out the Socialists would gain control of the Board of Estimate. Judge Levy painted in startling colors the peril threatening from a rising wave of socialism.

MURPHY SUES FOR $500,000.

Charges Evening World with Libeling Him in Editorial.

Charles F. Murphy, Tammany Hall leader, filed suit in the Supreme Court yesterday against the Press Publishing Company to recover $500,000 for libel because of an editorial in the Evening World on Oct. 22 last. The editorial contained quotations from alleged remarks by William S. Devery concerning the Tammany boss, delivered in the ex-chief's best style.

A summons in the action was filed in the County Clerk's office after it had been served on J. Angus Shaw, Treasurer of the Press Publishing Company, but the complaint has not been drawn. William M. K. Olcott of Olcott, Bonynge, McManus & Ernst, counsel for Mr. Murphy, made this statement:

"We have commenced suit for Charles F. Murphy against the Press Publishing Company for a series of libels uttered by it in last night's leading editorial of the Evening World. We are told by our client that there is no truth in any of these derogatory statements, and such investigation of the facts as we have thus far been able to make entirely bears out Mr. Murphy's assertions and convinces us that the allegations are wholly untrue and libelous."

HYLAN THREATENS MAYOR MITCHEL

Investigation of Land Deals Not Completed, Tammany's Candidate Says.

NOT POLITICS, HE INSISTS

Indictments Only Found, He Declares, After an Investigation Ordered by Gov. Whitman.

Thinly veiled threats of legal action against Mayor Mitchel in connection with the land deals that caused the indictment of ex-Senator W. H. Reynolds, were the feature of the speech read last night by Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, at four meetings on the upper east side. Judge Hylan had good audiences at the Hungarian Home in East Sixty-second Street, where he spoke before the Nonpartisan Americans' Hylan League; at Yorkville Casino, Eighty-sixth Street, near Third Avenue, and at the New Star Casino, Lexington Avenue and 107th Street. At Sulzer's Harlem River Park, 127th Street and Second Avenue, where the last meeting was held in a hall ordinarily filled at a Tammany meeting, half of the seats were empty when Judge Hylan spoke. The four audiences were friendly, but did not seem to warm up to the Tammany candidate.

Judge Hylan started off by making defense against Mayor Mitchel's assertion that the indictments found against Reynolds, Bailey, Greve, and O'Malley were political. in part the speech read:

"The people of the City of New York are in a humiliating position today. They find the Mayor of their city, despite his feeble denials, unmistakably tarred with the conspiracy to raid the public treasury, for which four of his most intimate friends and the financial backers of his last campaign—and I have no doubt his present one—have been indicted. These indictments were not political, unless you want to charge that twenty-three hard-headed business men, as many Republicans as Democrats, who sat seventy days and took 1,000 pages of typewritten testimony, are to be charged with playing politics.

"If Mayor Mitchel charges politics let him make his charge against the Governor of this State, who convened an extraordinary criminal term of the Supreme Court, with a Special Grand Jury, to dig into these scandals. These facts were laid before the Governor in February, 1917, and in that very month Mr. Mitchel publicly declared that he had investigated the charges himself, and had found that his friend Reynolds had no connection with the Rockaway deal. On that occasion Mr. Mitchel said: 'It was suggested that Senator Reynolds had some interest in the Neponsit Realty Company. I ran that down. It was suggested he had some interest in land at Rockaway Point. I ran that down. It is false, and a continuance of that kind of suggestion in the press is grossly unfair to me, because it is known he is a friend of mine, as he is.'

"Yes, Mr. Reynolds and the men indicted with him for this vile conspiracy to rob the public Treasury are friends of Mr. Mitchel. They are his closest and most intimate friends. Further, Mr. Mitchel by his official acts, which are matters of record, made possible the success of that conspiracy. Whether he did it with guilty knowledge is a matter for the future consideration of the Grand Jury, which has not yet completed its labors.

"Mr. Mitchel was Chairman of the Special Committee of the Board of Estimate which reported in favor of the purchase of this land at Rockaway Point. The Grand Jury now charges that these four men were in a conspiracy to defraud the city out of $300,000 in that very sale which the Mayor in person negotiated with Reynolds, and which was recommended by the committee of which Mayor Mitchel was Chairman. Controller Prendergast was a member of that committee and voted with Mr. Mitchel to approve the purchase.

"It was following that action by Mr. Mitchel in favor of the Reynolds-Greve-Bailey real estate ring that Reynolds made his enormous contributions to the political campaign fund of Mayor Mitchel. The extent of those contributions has not yet been revealed, though it is known Mr. Reynolds spent in the neighborhood of $30,000, and that one of his close friends contributed $18,500 more.

"Mr. Mitchel pretends to find satisfaction in the fact that he has not been indicted along with his friends. The Grand Jury has not completed its work. Let this young man remember that. Let him prepare to reconcile his conflicting defenses and to present them at a time when he cannot talk about politics. Let him then be prepared to explain why he permitted Reynolds's dummy to purchase land at 65 cents a square foot at a time when the city itself could have purchased it at the same price. Let him prepare to explain why that same land was taken by the city for use of the marginal railroad at $1.30 a square foot. That transaction netted Mr. Reynolds and his associates a profit of $532,614. What were Mr. Prendergast and his 'expert,' O'Malley, doing when Reynolds and his crew were making this raid on the public treasury?

"The Grand Jury should go on with its labors, and undoubtedly it will, after election. I hope that it will get to the bottom of this whole nasty mess. I hope that it will take up the marginal railroad deal through which Reynolds was able to make an enormous profit out of the city because of advance information he alone seems to have had that the city was to take the Erie basin property for the purposes of that railroad, a scheme which has since been abandoned.

"If Mr. Mitchel wants to discuss this land deal from a political viewpoint, let him explain how Sam Koenig, the Republican boss, when a State Land Commissioner, struck out a clause in the grant from the State which would have permitted the city to recapture forty-seven acres of this land at $200 an acre, the price finally paid to the State by Reynolds and his associates. That same land was sold to the city at $5,032 an acre. This is the same Sam Koenig who is head of the political machine which perpetrated the frauds on behalf of Mayor Mitchel in the recent primary elections.

"Now, if Mr. Mitchel talks politics, let him explain a political appointment he made. I refer to his elevation to the Bench of Clarence Edwards, one of the Commissioners who gave Reynolds and his associates the 2,400 per cent. profit in the Rockaway deal. This is the same Edwards who treated the former clients of Corporation Counsel Lamar Hardy, and the present clients of his brother, Tony A. Hardy, with such unjustifiable leniency when they were caught red-handed selling spoiled meat to the poor.

"Conspiracies to raid the public treasury, vile as they are, are not the most vile attack which has been made upon the welfare of the people of this city by the Mitchel-Prendergast administration and its backers. Mr. Mitchel's surrender of our public schools to the Rockefeller Foundation strikes home to every one of us here tonight. At the dictation of the Rockefeller agents they have established the iniquitous Gary system. You, fathers and mothers, know what that means. It needed no political campaign to arouse the parents of this city to the menace of that detested Rockefeller propaganda."

Judge Hylan also dropped in and spoke at the dinner of the Taxpayers' Association, held at the Hotel Astor. Charles L. Craig and Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, Tammany candidates for Controller and President of the Board of Aldermen, also spoke at the meetings and the dinner.

FOUNDED·1880·LONDON

DE PINNA

Young ladies of from 14 to 19 years, whether recent graduates or still in attendance at one of our select schools, will wear this season, almost exclusively, overcoats that are very military, very roomy and very English. These coats will be seen at the country club, at concerts, matinees and in motor cars.

De Pinna has brought from London a number of model coats made by the best Bond Street tailors, and the identical fabrics used in London are used by De Pinna in all reproductions of coats of this type.

Misses' Town and Country Coats—in rough Tweeds, Homespuns, Velours and Llama Cloth. $28 to 95.

Misses' Fur Trimmed Coats—in Velours, Bolivia Cloth and Tweeds. $45 to $75.

Misses' Trench Coats—of regulation Army cloth. $55.

Misses' Tailored Dresses—in Poiret Twills, closely woven wool Jersey Cloth, English Navy Serge and imported wool plaids. $28 to $75.

Saks Suits for Men at $23 to $43

¶ Woolens are scarce, and are likely to be more so, but the present selections at Saks' do not show it. This applies equally well to our $23 assortments as it does to those at $43. It has been no easy matter to assemble such a variety of woolens, the colorings and patterns of which are as tasteful as they are original, but we believe the difficut thing is the logical thing for us to accomplish.

Saks Suits for Fall and Winter are superior to any other ready for service garments because we have set our tailoring standards so high.

¶ We are now showing at every price from $23 to $43, single and double-breasted models with every style pocket and a grace of line no artist's pen could truly reflect, in a variety of woolens and patterns that take in everything from the staple Blues and Blacks to the choicest productions weavers have created for Fall.

Saks can please you in a suit, and if you want the proof—just stroll through our aisles on the Fifth Floor.

German Holdings of Cotton.

Although the physical task of taking over property owned by Germans here will not be started for several days, it was learned yesterday that the agents of the Government were well along in the work of tabulating the articles to be seized. Chief William J. Flynn of the Secret Service returned to the city from Washington yesterday, but beyond sending out word that no seizures would be made yesterday had no statement to make.

Among cotton brokers and members of the Cotton Exchange the report that the Government was to take over 1,000,000 bales of German-owned cotton was received with incredulity. Attention was called to the fact that up to last Friday night there were 83,016 bales of cotton in storage in New York, 725,199 in all of the ports of the United States, and 614,841 bales in interior towns—a total of 1,340,040 bales. That Germany owned 1,000,000 of these bales was not believed by the trade. Nor was it considered reasonable that Germany had been paying the high storage prices required for 1,000,000 bales of cotton since the war started. Germany bought considerable cotton at the beginning of the war, but most of this has since been sold.

HUNGER TYPHUS CLOSES SCHOOLS OF COLOGNE

Tens of Thousands of Cases in Germany—Same Malady Spreads in Vienna.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 23.—It is learned here that the schools of Cologne have been closed on account of the increase of what is called hunger typhus, a type of disease of which the bad quality of food, especially bread, has produced within recent months tens of thousands of cases all over Germany.

Vienna also reports an increased number of cases of this malady.

Official notices published in the German papers show that the "domestic front" is sustaining a greater pressure from food scarcity. The price of bread has been increased everywhere. It is officially admitted that there is practically no fish obtainable throughout the country nor are there even the faintest hopes that the state of affairs will be remedied in the future.

Fruit is extremely scarce, and sugar has gone up 50 per cent. in price. The milk supply, together with that of butter, is also very deficient.

A traveler from Switzerland who stopped one day at Frankfort on his way here, says that at the largest hotel in that city he could get no coffee, tea, sugar, milk, or butter for breakfast.

HEARS OF GERMAN DISORDER

Washington Also Gets Report That Airmen Killed 800 at Essen.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—What is credited with being an accurate picture of conditions in Germany, reaching Washington today in an official cabled report, depicts the situation as one of marked political and economic distress. It represents the Socialists as being active and threatening to quit German factories if the war goes into the Winter, and asserts that there have been risings in different sections of Germany, including disorders in Berlin, in which soldiers took part.

"Germany's population wants peace," says a paraphrase of the report, "and the people declare it will be concluded in November. German workmen, stirred to a high pitch of discontent by the Socialists, boldly state that they will leave the factories necessary for the conduct of the war if hostilities continue during the Winter.

"The Franco-English aerial bombardments of German cities and towns are increasing the dissatisfaction of the masses with the war. At Essen, bombs dropped from airplanes did enormous damage, some striking a circus in the course of a performance for soldiers, at which 800 soldiers were killed.

"German civilian life presents a terrible picture. Children are obliged to go to bed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and to rise not before 10 o'clock because of the knowledge that, being awake, they would feel the need of eating, and there is an insufficient quantity of food for them."

MICHAELIS BACK IN BERLIN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 21, (via London, Oct. 23.)—Chancellor Michaelis has returned from Courland to Berlin. Foreign Secretary von Kühlmann has gone to Budapest for a conference with Dr. Weckerle, the Hungarian Premier.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 23.—Dr. von Kühlmann, the German Foreign Minister, according to a dispatch from Vienna, arrived there yesterday, and had two long conferences with Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister.

REYNOLDS GIVES BAIL.

Two Other Defendants in Neponsit Case Also Plead Not Guilty.

Ex-Senator William H. Reynolds, William M. Greve, President of the Neponsit Realty Company; Frank V. Bailey, Vice President of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, and Charles O'Malley, a realty expert in Controller Prendergast's office, were arraigned before Justice Goff in the Supreme Court yesterday on the indictments returned by the Grand Jury in connection with the sale of Seaside Park property to the city in 1912. All of the defendants pleaded not guilty, and requested an extension of time until Oct. 31, in which to file any necessary motions. Bailey, Greve, and O'Malley were released in $5,000 bail each. Ex-Senator Reynolds's bail was continued at $10,000, which was the sum fixed by the court when he was indicted in August on the charge of perjury.

The text of the conspiracy indictment, which was made public for the first time yesterday, charged that the defendants conspired "unlawfully and feloniously to cheat and defraud the City of New York out of its money and property to the amount of $300,000 and upward, the exact amount being unknown."

The Plain Duty of Every American

YOUR Duty, as an American citizen, is plain, definite and imperative. Your sons and your neighbors' sons are going abroad to fight for their country, their flag, their homes—and for YOU.

They cannot fight without food, shoes, clothes, bread and bullets.

The Government looks to you for the money to buy these things. Your Duty is to lend—not give this money.

It is more than Duty—more than patriotism—it is a privilege to buy Liberty Bonds.

The money you pay for them will help win the war—help keep our soldiers fed, clothed, armed and protected—help keep your country safe for Democracy.

The United States Government guarantees to pay your money back. It pays you interest on your money, semi-annually.

You can buy Liberty Bonds at any bank. You can buy them on the partial payment plan if you wish.

WHERE TO BUY BONDS

Don't forget that you can buy a U. S. Government 4% Liberty Bond at any bank, trust company, bond house or department store. Don't be afraid to go into any bank and ASK. They will tell you about several easy payment plans.

$2 a Week Buys You a Liberty Bond

Every American Who Refuses to Save $2 Per Week to Buy a Liberty Bond Should Hang His Head In Shame

ONLY 3 DAYS MORE

How to Buy on the Installment Plan

GO to any bank, savings bank or trust company today. Give your name and address and $2, and say you wish to purchase a $50 Liberty Bond.

Continue to deposit $2 every week for twenty-four weeks. When you have reached $50, the bank will hand you a United States Liberty Bond Certificate for $50.

No Interest or Commissions charged

Banks charge no interest or commission for buying you a Liberty Bond on the installment plan.

Employers will Buy Liberty Bonds For You

Your employer will be glad to purchase your Liberty Bond for you, deducting $2 a week from your pay until the bond is paid for. Ask him.

The Government Wants You to Buy on the Installment Plan

Both the government and the banks are anxious that you buy your Liberty Bonds on installments and not with cash drawn out of your bank deposits or from the sale of stocks and bonds.

Because the money now deposited in financial institutions or invested in stocks and bonds is being used in trade and industry. If withdrawn and turned over to the government for War, a large percentage of the business of the country would be compelled to curtail; men would be thrown out of employment and there would be hard times.

But if we cut down enough of our unnecessary expenses to save $2 per week, and buy a Liberty Bond with that saving, we work no harm to industry and we help the government in its task of destroying the world's great enemy of Freedom.

What a Liberty Bond is

A LIBERTY Bond is the promise of the United States Government to pay you $50—or whatever amount you buy—at the end of twenty-five years, with interest.

During the life of the present issue of Liberty Bonds, the Government guarantees to pay you 4% interest per year—half on May 15th and half on November 15th of each year.

Coupon Bonds and Registered Bonds

Liberty bonds are issued in two ways—Coupon and Registered.

Coupon Liberty Bonds are made payable to bearer. Each bond bears coupons payable May 15th and November 15th, stating the amount of interest due thereon at 4%. You cut off these coupons as they become due and deposit or cash them at the bank, just as you would a check.

Registered Bonds are similar to Coupon Bonds except that they bear no coupons. Instead, the Treasury Department registers your name on the face of these certificates, and every May 15th and November 15th mails you a check direct, in payment of the interest.

Registered Bonds are a safeguard against loss. Their ownership cannot be transferred to anyone else without your written authority. If lost, a new certificate can be obtained through application to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Probably Worth More After the War

LIBERTY Bonds will become the premier investment security of the world. When the war is over and business is again normal, the interest rate on new Government bonds will probably be lower than the interest on these Liberty Bonds—just as it was before the war. That will mean that Liberty Bonds will be much sought, and probably will sell at a good premium.

Always Saleable

If for any reason you wish to sell your Liberty Bond you can do so at any time through any bank at the market price.

You Can Borrow on Liberty Bonds

Most banks will at any time be ready to loan you $90 on every $100 you own in Liberty Bonds.

Exchangeable For Later Bonds or Higher Interest

Should it become necessary later on for the government to issue more bonds at a higher rate of interest, you can exchange these 4% bonds for new ones, turning them in at par plus the interest that has accrued.

Tax-Free Up to $5000

Your Liberty Bonds up to $5000 are exempt from any taxation except the United States inheritance tax.

Why Liberty Bonds Are Safe as Gold

THE first two Liberty Loans approximate six billion dollars. The revenue from the new war tax—which is practically a tax on luxuries alone—will yield two billion, seven hundred million per year.

If the government were to adopt the war tax which England now has in operation, and extend our tax to the necessities of life, the Treasury Department could raise easily six billion dollars per year, sufficient funds to pay off the entire principal of the first two Liberty Loans in one year.

The wealth of this country available for redemption of Liberty Bonds is almost inconceivable.

Liberty Bonds are a "first lien" on everything of value in this vast country—even our homes.

Why Every American MUST Save

THERE is in this country only a certain supply of coal, wood, iron, food, clothes, etc. Our normal demand consumes nearly all of that supply.

Now comes War, with a new, gigantic, extra demand. Our supply cannot meet both our regular demand and the war demand in full. Therefore, one or both these demands must be cut down.

The government cannot cut down, because it must have supply in lavish abundance in order to win the war. Obviously, we, the people, must cut our demand till we leave sufficient for the government.

If we do not cut our demand, the strenuous buying of both people and government will bid up prices on our insufficient supply to heights of hardship. And we the people will be forced to cut down our wants, because we cannot afford to pay the exorbitant prices.

When you save $2 per week to buy a Liberty Bond, you are really saving $2 worth of something which you have stopped using. That $2 worth of something can be used by the government.

Why EVERY American Should Save $2 per Week for a Liberty Bond

1. It will furnish money to the government out of your earnings and not out of money you have already saved, or loaned to commerce.

2. By saving $2 worth of something every week, you will be helping create a supply for the government. This supply will keep you from paying exorbitant prices.

3. You will actually make money out of these bonds as a pure business transaction.

4. You will be loaning $2 a week to help save the lives of our boys at the front—certainly not a hardship.

5. You will be helping to save yourself, your wife, your children, from the brutal slavery of an arrogant autocracy.

Every American who refuses to save $2 a week to buy a Liberty Bond should hang his head in shame.

Go to a bank this morning. Deposit your $2.

PAINLEVE REPLACES RIBOT BY BARTHOU

CABINET WISHED TO RETIRE

But President Poincare Held That Chamber's Vote of Confidence Barred Such Action.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—President Poincaré today signed decrees naming J. Louis Barthou as Minister of Foreign Affairs, replacing Alexandre Ribot, it is officially announced. Mr. Barthou has been a Minister of State and a member of the War Council. All the other portfolios in the Painlevé Cabinet remain unchanged.

After leaving the Elysée Palace, where President Poincaré signed the decrees, Premier Painlevé visited M. Ribot. It is understood among members of the Parliament that M. Ribot will take an early opportunity to explain to the Senate his reason for leaving the Foreign Ministry.

The decision to resign which the Cabinet reached yesterday was taken at a meeting held at a late hour. Premier Painlevé proceeded to the Elysée Palace to inform President Poincaré of the decision, while his colleagues awaited his return.

On the President's refusal to accept the resignations the Ministers resumed their deliberations, finally placing their portfolios in the hands of the Premier to dispose of as he might find necessary. It was long past midnight when the meeting broke up.

The last sitting of the Chamber of Deputies did not tend to solidify the position of the Cabinet, principally because of the fact that M. Ribot was regarded with hostility by several sections of the house, and the Government felt that notwithstanding the great services M. Ribot had rendered he ought not to remain in the Foreign Office, several of the Ministers believing that his departure was all that was needed to save the Cabinet before the Chamber. Premier Painlevé, it is understood, then approached M. Barthou and asked him to take the Foreign portfolio. M. Ribot, however, considered that Friday's vote in the Chamber made it the duty of each member of the Cabinet to remain at his post, and accordingly refused to resign.

It was in these circumstances that Premier Painlevé began the consultations he has held within the last few days with a number of political leaders, including M. Barthou, M. Viviani, Albert Thomas, the former Socialist member of the War Council; M. Klotz, Minister of Finance, and others, finally summoning a meeting of the Cabinet late last night which decided on the resignation of the Ministry.

President Poincaré's original refusal to accept the resignations was based on the ground that, inasmuch as the Chamber of Deputies had voted confidence in the Cabinet after a debate on the general policy of the Government, the customary indications were lacking as to the sentiment of the Chamber, which according to tradition and usage would justify him in asking another statesman to form a Ministry. After this the Ministers, including M. Ribot, decided to give the Premier a free hand.

ITALIANS IN CADORE REPULSE AN ATTACK

Defeat a Strong Force of Austrians and Germans at Monte Piana.

ROME, Oct. 23.—Italian troops yesterday repulsed a strong attack by Austrian and German forces in the Cadore region at Monte Piana, clinching the enemy defeat this morning by clearing a section of the trenches which had been temporarily relinquished, the War Office announced today.

The artillery activity on the Julian front was intense, and there was notable aerial activity during the prevalence of favorable conditions.

The text of the statement reads:

Yesterday our positions on Monte Piana, in the Cadore,' were strongly attacked by Austro-German forces. After heavy fighting the enemy was driven back with severe loss. This morning our storming parties recaptured a portion of our intrenchments which he had temporarily occupied.

On the remainder of the front there were lively local engagements. In the Cordevole Valley and at the head of the Padola Valley we repulsed enemy detachments.

On the Julian front the artillery action continued intense the whole day. The weather conditions were favorable to aerial activity. Two enemy machines were brought down by one of our aviators. One of these machines, a German, fell within our lines near Gargaro, the other in front of our positions north of Podlaka.

BRITISH CRUISER SUNK; DESTROYER ALSO LOST

Torpedo Hits the Orama—Smaller Craft Goes Down in Collision—23 Saved.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The British merchant cruiser Orama has been torpedoed and sunk, it is announced officially. A British destroyer has been sunk in a collision.

Two officers and twenty-one men were saved from the destroyer. No lives were lost on the Orama. The announcement follows:

"One of His Majesty's destroyers has been sunk as a result of a collision. Two officers and twenty-one men were saved.

"His Majesty's armed mercantile cruiser Orama, Commander W. Moorsom in command, was torpedoed and sunk on Friday. There were no casualties."

The Orama, 12,927 tons gross and 551 feet long, was built in Glasgow in 1911. Before being taken over by the British Admiralty she was operated by the Orient Steam Navigation Company of Glasgow. She was one of the small British squadron which in March of 1915, off the Chilean island of Juan Fernandez, sank the German cruiser Dresden, which escaped at the time the other vessels of the German Pacific squadron were destroyed by the British in the battle off the Falkland Islands three months previously.

ACID TESTS OF A SAFE INVESTMENT

THE United States Government 4 per cent bonds of the Second Liberty Loan of 1917 stand on their merits as an investment. Entirely apart from reasons of patriotism they should be bought for purely business reasons.

Judge them by these acid tests:

1. Are these bonds safe? Absolutely. Behind these bonds are credit and good faith of the United States, all the taxing power of the Government, and the vast wealth and resources of the nation.

2. Is the yield attractive? Yes—4% net. This is more than the highest grade municipals yielded two years ago.

3. Is there a ready market? The 4% Liberty Bonds will undoubtedly enjoy a wider and more active market than any other security.

4. Can the bonds be used as collateral? Yes, anywhere, at any time, immediately.

5. Are the bonds stable in value? This is assured by the privilege of conversion into the next war bond issue bearing a possible higher rate.

6. Is there a reasonable probability of appreciation in value? The Government bonds in the Mexican, Civil and Spanish wars all went to a premium when peace was restored.

7. Are the denominations convenient? These bonds are in the standard $1,000 denomination and in various amounts as low as $50.

8. Are the bonds based on a fundamental necessity? Yes—the first and most elemental necessity, that of self-protection—the protection of our nation and all we hold dear against a foreign foe.

Go to your bank today and place your surplus funds in the best investment on the market—U. S. Government Liberty Loan Bonds!

SCHOOL STRIKE FAILS TO WIN LABOR'S AID

Ten Union Leaders Sign Statement That Gary System Is Not Harmful.

HALT CALLED ON DISORDER

1,000 Parents and Children Summoned to Attendance Bureau and Many Are Sent to Court.

After about 1,000 parents and children appeared before John W. Davis, head of the Bureau of Attendance of the Public School System, yesterday, it was announced that the backbone of the anti-Gary strike in the elementary schools had been practically broken. The trouble in the high schools, however, still remains unsettled. The students of the high schools stand on their objection that the longer school day deprives them of the opportunity of working their way through school and cuts them off from all social activities.

In Brownsville, where strikes occurred among the younger school children on Monday, forty-five truant officers rounded up 600 children, who were taken to Public School 155, Herkimer Street and Eastern Parkway, where Superintendent Charles Gartland of the Bureau of Attendance succeeded in convincing the children that they had better return to school. Twenty children refused to heed Mr. Gartland's advice and were taken to the Children's Court. George Berger, 14, of 570 Bristol Street, said to be President of the Junior Socialist League of Public School 165, arraigned before Judge Wilkin of the Children's Court for taking part in the strike, was remanded to the care of the Children's Society until next Wednesday.

Ten leaders of labor unions, two of whom were opposed to the Gary system, after paying a visit yesterday to Public School 45, Hoffman and 189th Streets, Bronx, concurred in the sentiment that the Gary system is not opposed to the best interests of organized labor.

The indorsement of the labor men follows:

After a visit today to Gary School No. 45 in the Bronx, we are firmly convinced that the Gary system is not opposed to the best interests of organized labor. There is nothing to indicate that the system is designed to "make workingmen out of the school children," as has been repeatedly charged. Neither can we detect "Rockefellerism" or the Steel Trust, either in the work-study-play principles of the system or in the actual operation of this typical Gary school.

The children seemed to be happy and interested in their studies, including the "three Rs." In fact, the interest shown in the academic work was one of the surprises of our visit, as we had been told that the Gary system neglected the fundamentals. It is not true. The teachers, too, were a revelation, and expressed to us their enthusiasm for their work under the new system.

We found that not only is as much time as formerly given to the academic studies, but the features of supervised play and manual training, interspersed through the more tiring study periods, add diversity and keep the children fresh and interested all the time. We are glad to give our hearty indorsement to the Gary system.

The following men comprised the party:

Timothy Healy, President of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen; Henry W. Blumberg, General Organizer, United Brotherhood of Carpenters; John Kelly, Per Diem Men's Association, Civil Employes; Robert M. Campbell, Typographical Union, No. 6; Thomas Service, International Steam Engineers, Local 56; William Muller, Chauffeurs' Union, No. 195; Frank D. Koerkle, Steamfitters' Union, Local 638; Benjamin E. Moore, Housesmiths' Union, Local No. 52; Thomas Barry, International Longshoremen's Union, Local 908, and John E. Kennedy, Firemen's Union, Local 56.

De Witt Clinton High School, Tenth Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, was the only high school in the city where disorders occurred yesterday among the students because of their protests against the lengthened school day. At the noon hour 500 students went on strike. The boys were dispersed by reserves under Captain Underhill of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, but reformed ranks and marched to the High School of Commerce, 155 West Sixty-sixth Street. They were unable to obtain any recruits to their ranks, and some of the boys left for Wadleigh High School, 115th Street and Seventh Avenue, unaware that earlier in the day there had been a mass-meeting of the students in the assembly, at which Anna Lederer, delegate of the school to the meeting on Monday, made a report. The 3,000 girls voted not to strike.

Ohio to Vote on Suffrage.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 23.—The people of Ohio will vote on a referendum on the Presidential suffrage question at the coming November elections, according to a decision handed down by the State Supreme Court today. The suit, brought by Ohio suffragists, to have the proposed referendum annulled, was dismissed.

today—and don't let up. Urge everybody you meet to subscribe to the loan without delay. Make yourself a MISSIONARY—use all the eloquence you have. It is your duty to your country, to mankind, to civilization.

BUT—

you have no right to act as your country's spokesman unless you YOURSELF have already subscribed to the loan. If you are one of those who have been WAITING FOR OTHERS TO DO YOUR PART, prove your good citizenship by subscribing at once.

DON'T use the excuse that you cannot afford it. You can buy a bond for Five Dollars down and a Dollar a week. Considering your duty, you cannot afford not to.

DON'T try to satisfy your conscience by telling yourself that your help is not needed. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo says: "Every person who refuses to subscribe or takes the attitude of 'let the other fellow do it' is a friend of Germany."

SUPPOSE you are a poor man and buying one Fifty Dollar bond on easy payments would actually be a hardship—THE END IS WORTH THE SACRIFICE.

SUPPOSE you are a rich man and to subscribe One Hundred Thousand Dollars would upset some of your plans—THE END IS WORTH THE SACRIFICE.

AND both the poor man's $50 and the rich man's $100,000 are invested in something BETTER THAN GOLD—something that draws 4 per cent. interest and can be transformed INSTANTLY INTO CASH.

YOU have been proud to think of yourself as an American citizen. If you are not one of those "over there," can you retain that pride and not DO YOUR PART HERE?

IT is not what others will think of you—it is what you will think of yourself in after years. Failure to do your duty as a citizen now will harm you in your own estimation more than you realize. It is a matter of being square with yourself.

YOUNG TENNIS EXPERTS ADVANCE IN PLAY FOR METROPOLITAN CHAMPIONSHIPS

ONE MORE NET STAR UPSET BY DAVIDSON

BOYS VICTORS AT DOUBLES

Richards and Bassford Defeat Older Opponents — Semi-Final Rounds On Today.

Louis Davidson continued to be the figure of chief interest in the metropolitan junior tennis championship at the West Side Tennis Club yesterday. This youthful but proficient wielder of the racquet reached the semi-final round of the event when he vanquished G. H. Cooke in straight sets and by the one-sided score of 6—0, 6—2. The other three in the semi-final round are Harold Taylor, the Providence tennis centre champion; G. B. Emerson, Jr., and Walter Hanlon. The latter reached the advanced bracket as a result of Monday's play. Emerson earned an easy victory over Nils Stern at 6—0, 6—0, and Taylor was not pressed to defeat H. Henson at 6—3, 6—3.

The play of both Davidson and Taylor stood out in the third round. Davidson possesses a well-rounded game that tries the skill of any of the contestants in his class. He plays his ground strokes with confidence, speed and precision, and volleys and smashes with such telling effect that the point is usually quickly finished off once he gets to the barrier. In the second round of the junior doubles championship he was paired with P. L. Kynaston, and although this pair met with defeat at the hands of Vincent Richards and Abraham Bassford 3d, at 6—3, 6—2, the effectiveness of Davidson's game was manifest in many rallies. Kynaston, however, could not measure up to the standard of his partner.

The victory of Richards and Bassford in the doubles was highly creditable, for they were competing out of their class. Owing to the small entry for doubles it was impossible to hold both a boys' and a junior championship event, and the boys had to take their chances in one tournament against the juniors. Richards and Bassford come under the classification of boys while Davidson and Kynaston are full-fledged juniors in earning the victory Richards and Bassford played well together. Richards, having at his command the skill which made him the national boys' champion. Every effort on his part was ably seconded by Bassford, who possesses a stinging forehand drive.

There was keener competition in the third round of the boys' singles championship than in the junior event. The four who advanced to semi-final round brackets were Cecil Donaldson, H. Maddocks, Vincent Richards, and R. M. Walsh. Donaldson had an easy victory at 6—0, 6—1 over P. S. Mellugh. Maddocks was the hardest pressed of the four, three sets being necessary before he triumphed over E. Schlesinger at 8—6, 2—6, 6—2. The brilliancy of Richards's play made M. Shapiro a victim at 6—2, 6—2, even though the latter put forth a good game. Walsh was forced to his best game to defeat Bassford, who carried the opening set to 8—6 before admitting defeat. In the last set Walsh was the winner at 6—3.

The semi-final round in both the junior and boys' singles tournaments will be played this afternoon, as will the semi-final round of the junior doubles. Two teams went into the semi-final round of the doubles through defaults, Walsh and Dawson and Sanbourn and Dederer. Another semi-final round bracket was filled by Richards and Bassford when they defeated Davidson and Kynaston. The fourth bracket still remains vacant. The summaries:

JUNIOR SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP.

Third Round—Louis Davidson defeated G. H. Cooke, 6—0, 6—2; G. B. Emerson, Jr., defeated Nils Stern, 6—0, 6—0; Harold Taylor defeated H. Henson, 6—3, 6—3.

BOYS' SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP.

Third Round—Cecil Donaldson defeated P. S. McHugh, 6—0, 6—1; Harold Maddocks defeated E. Schlesinger, 8—6, 2—6, 6—4; Vincent Richards defeated M. Shapiro, 6—2, 6—2; R. M. Walsh defeated Abraham Bassford, 3d, 8—6, 6—3.

JUNIOR DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP.

First Round—Sanborn and Dederer defeated Higgins and Rubsamen, 6—1, 6—1.

Second Round—Richards and Bassford defeated Kynaston and Davidson, 6—3, 6—2; Walsh and Dawson won from Tonascuia and Henshaw, by default; Sanborn and Dederer won from C. Donaldson and F. Anderson, by default.

ATHLETES IN LOAN PARADE.

All Clubs to Have Members in Line Today.

All metropolitan clubs members of the Amateur Athletic Union were notified yesterday by President Frederick W. Rubien to have members assemble at Park Avenue and Forty-sixth Street at 3 o'clock this afternoon for participation in the Liberty Loan parade, which will be the local feature of the half-holiday proclaimed by President Wilson. The clubs number about 120 and if the representatives of the organizations obey the summons, several thousand young athletes should be added to the parade. The clubs will carry their banners and many will be accompanied by their bands.

That local athletes are doing their "bit" for the loan in answer to requests by A. A. U. officials is evidenced in the fact that several organizations have purchased bonds. The Morningside A. C. has bought two bonds of the new issue and the club officials are considering spending $1,000, which has been collected to defray the expenses of alterations to the clubhouse. The fund was originally collected for the use of the club in its building scheme, but this has been abandoned since the beginning of the war, and it is not likely that the work will begin until after the war.

AMATEURS IN FAST BOUTS.

Four Knockouts in Boxing Tournament at Crescent A. C.

Four of the nine bouts decided last night in the preliminary competition of the amateur boxing tournament at the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn ended in knockouts. The card for four classes was small, but the exhibitions were interesting. Archie Walker, metropolitan and New York State champion, in the 115-pound class; E. Feinman, unattached, in the 125-pound class, and J. Gold, Union Settlement A. C., and L. Munash, Recreation Centre No. 19, were the boxers who won their way to the semi-final round. The longest bout of the evening came in the 135-pound division when F. Eisenstadt, unattached, and A. Millstein, University Settlement A. C., went four rounds before the judges decided upon the latter as the victor.

Other winners were: 125-pound class—C. Jackman, Twenty-sixth Ward, Y. M. C. A.; 135-pound class—A. Aldren, Norwegian-American A. C.; 115-pound class—M. Schwartz, University Settlement A. C.; 108-pound class—J. Burns, Harlem A. C., Newark, N. J.

MRS. ARNOLD GOLF VICTOR.

Leads Women in One-Day Tourney at Westfield.

With a gross score of an even 100 strokes, Mrs. D. C. Arnold of Westfield won the women's one-day golf tournament held at Westfield yesterday. Her handicap of 7 gave her the net prize of the day with 93, and her gross of 100 added a point to her total on the season's cup. Mrs. T. H. Thomas of Hackensack was second with 164, 7—97. Then came Mrs. MacDonald of Trenton with 108, 9—97, Mrs. C. S. Waterhouse of Ardsley with 112, 15—97, and Mrs. Thornoft of Ardsley with 113, 15—98. Mrs. L. C. Stockton of Raritan Valley won the driving competition with three efforts, which totaled 494 yards.

EIGHT IN ROW FOR COLT.

Tippity Witchet Adds Another Victory to String.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 23.—The Brighton Stable's Tippity Witchet gained a distinctive place in thoroughbred racing today, when he won the Longfellow Purse for two-year-olds at a mile. This constituted the eighth straight victory for the son of Broomstick within seven weeks, as his long string of successes started at the Fall meeting at Belmont Park. There were some good juveniles engaged against Tippity Witchet today, but little Rowan, who has ridden him in all his races, never was in trouble, and at the finish had a comfortable margin over H. C. Hallenbeck's Salvestra. H. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Wyoming, was third, and August Belmont's Drastic was among the also rans.

J. O. Talbott's Icarus was another repeater today. He started in the Canvas Back Handicap, which was the stake feature, and carried an added value of $1,500. Frank Robinson had the mount on Icarus, and he was the favorite in the mutuels Icarus outclassed the field opposed to him, and at the end won with little difficulty from E. K. Bryson's Vermont.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-olds; claiming; purse, $700; five and a half furlongs. Time—1:07 2-5.

HAUGHTON HELPS HARVARD.

Head Coach Inspects Work of Informal Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 23.—Percy Haughton, head coach of the Harvard 'Varsity football team since 1908, made his first appearance on Soldiers' Field this afternoon and followed the play of the 'Varsity against the freshmen. From time to time he made a suggestion or two, but he did little coaching. He promised to come often, particularly as it is possible a match may be arranged between the Harvard Informals and a similar Yale team.

Most of the regulars rested, as they will have a long practice session against the Boston College team at Newton tomorrow. The substitutes did well, scoring against the freshmen five times. Hoffman, the substitute quarter, did some brilliant open-field running and handling of forward passes.

There is to be some hard work in preparation for Saturday's game against the soldier team at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass. Haughton is supposed to coach the soldiers, but he has not seen them yet.

This afternoon Henry H. Faxson of Quincy, Mass., was elected Captain of the freshmen eleven. He played on the rush line at Milton Academy three years and was Captain two years ago.

Soccer at City College.

The College of the City of New York freshmen will meet the soccer team of the High School of Commerce in the City College Stadium today at 3:45. The 'Varsity soccer team clashes with the Overseas Wanderers, Saturday; the Catholic Club of West Harlem, Nov. 3, and the Yonkers Rovers on Election Day.

FOUR WOMEN RATED LEADERS AT GOLF

Mrs. Feitner, Mrs. Gavin, Miss Bishop, and Miss Hollins Top Local Players.

Probably the most comprehensive handicap list ever compiled for any golf association in this country was made public last night by the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association's Handicap Committee, comprised of Mrs. M. H. Frayne of Dunwoodie, Mrs. F. E. Donohoe of Montclair, Mrs. C. S. Waterhouse of Ardsley, and Miss Genevieve F. Wood of Englewood. After an all Summer's vigilance, in which the play of almost every local feminine exponent of the sport was inspected, the committee listed 1,060 names and rated this host of performers from scratch to twenty-five strokes, inclusive.

Although many of the women were surprised that the handicap list should be announced at the fag end of the season, it was explained by the committee that the list was meant for next year. The committee determined to announce the ratings now so that any arrangements for the early tournaments next Spring could be made without worry as to the proper handicaps.

Because she played no golf this year Mrs. Quentin F. Feitner, formerly Miss Lillian Hyde, lost her position at the head of the list and is now forced to share the honor rank with three other feminine experts. Mrs. W. A. Gavin of Baltusrol, who won the metropolitan championship and has played supergolf most of the year, is rated at scratch along with Mrs. Feitner, Miss Georgiana Bishop, and Miss Marion Hollins. Miss Hollins won the qualifying medal in the women's metropolitan championship, but was defeated in the first round by Mrs. Gavin. Miss Bishop only played in one competition during the year, and that was the mixed foursome held in conjunction with the Professional Golfers' Association display at Englewood, and she, paired with Jack Hobens of Englewood, won that event.

By reaching the final round in the metropolitan championship Mrs. Thomas Hucknall of Forest Hill was advanced to a rating at Handicap 1, as was Mrs. G. M. Rockwell of Piping Rock, who also has played exceptionally well throughout the season. There are four players in this group, the others being Mrs. L. C. Stockton, who last year won the season's one-day point trophy, and Mrs. N. P. Rogers of Baltusrol.

Probably the biggest advance of the season was made by Miss Beatrix Lounsberry, the Bedford Golf and Tennis Club girl, who is on the list at Handicap 2. Miss Lounsberry twice has had the best gross score in one-day tournaments, and she made a most creditable showing in the metropolitan championship. With her at 2 are Mrs. C. C. Auchincloss of Piping Rock, a semi-finalist in the last national championship at Belmont Spring; Mrs. W. J. Faith of Scarsdale, and Mrs. S. A. Herzog of Fairview, a consistent winner in the one-day tournaments. Those rated in the leading classes follow:

SCRATCH.

Mrs. Q. F. Feitner, South Shore; Mrs. W. J. Gavin, Baltusrol; Miss Marion Hollins, Westbrook; Miss Georgianna Bishop, Brooklawn.

HANDICAP ONE.

Mrs. N. P. Rogers, Baltusrol; Mrs. L. C. Stockton, Raritan Valley; Mrs. T. Huckmall, Forest Hill; Mrs. G. M. Heckscher, Piping Rock.

Doyle, Wykagyl; Miss Hardin, Baltusrol; Miss Marie Harrison, Baltusrol; Miss Margaret Johnstone, Glen Ridge; Miss Violet Miller, Baltusrol; Miss J. Michlen, Greenwich; Miss Sofie Mott, Piping Rock; Miss Carolyn Putnam, Shinnecock Hills; Mrs. Clarkson Runyon, Flushing; Mrs. Elmer Rodrig, Ridgewood; Mrs. W. L. Seaman, Richmond County; Mrs. M. M. Singer, Montclair; Mrs. Thomas Stephens, Cranford; Mrs. C. L. Tiffany, Nassau; Miss Maud K. Wetmore, Baltusrol; Miss Mary Wright, Montclair; Mrs. H. R. Van Vleck, Montclair.

GOLF FAVORITES TRIUMPH.

Philadelphia Women Experts Victors in Memorial Trophy.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—There were no upsets in the first round of match play in the women's golf tournament for the Belle Steelman Bumm Memorial Trophy at the Whitemarsh Country Club today. Mrs. G. H. Stetson of Huntingdon Valley, the medal winner, defeated Miss E. C. Earnshaw of Riverton by 5 and 4. Mrs. G. S. Munson of Merion triumphed over Mrs. F. J. Doyle of North Hills by 5 and 4. Miss Mildred Caverly of Philadelphia Cricket proved the winner over Mrs. G. G. Green, Jr., of Woodbury, by 8 and 7.

Mrs. Caleb F. Fox of Huntingdon Valley defeated Mrs. J. W. Turnbull of Whitemarsh 7 and 6. Mrs. R. H. Barlow of Merion won from Miss Edith Larzelle, Old York Road, by 3 and 2, and Miss Eleanor T. Chandler of Huntingdon Valley defeated Mrs. Milton Herold of Philmont by 4 and 3.

TIGERS TO PLAY FOOTBALL.

Princeton 'Varsity to Meet Camp Dix Eleven Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, Oct. 23.—Hopes for some sort of an informal football team at Princeton were partially realized this afternoon when it was announced that a Tiger eleven will be organized to play a team composed of former gridiron stars who are now with the national army at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J. The game is to be played in the Princeton Stadium this coming Saturday, and the Tigers are now busy attempting to piece out a team under the direction of "Speedy" Rush, the head coach, who has been here this Fall assisting in the coaching of the freshman team.

It is not known whether the decision of the Board of Athletic Control to give permission for this contest is an indication that the Tigers will play other games. The invitation from the Camp Dix team was received several days ago, and Tiger football men immediately asked permission to arrange the contest. It is said that the conviction that athletics in the army camps should be encouraged was one of the factors in influencing the Faculty committee to give permission for the game.

Princeton football men are anxious that other contests be arranged if it is possible. The team that will play against the soldiers will probably be one of the most unusual ever put out by Princeton. There is only one member of last year's 'Varsity team in college and about six members of last year's squad. Members of the team will be recruited from the men who have been participating in the interclass games and in addition, several alumni have expressed a desire to engage in the contest. "Heff" Herring of The Princeton Alumni Weekly, who was field coach of the Princeton team at one time under the old advisory committee system of coaching, may return to his old position at guard.

RUTGERS TEAM IMPROVES.

Forwards Rapidly Advancing in Football Ability.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 23.—With every man in good condition Rutgers is pointing for its two hard games with Fordham and West Virginia. All who witnessed the decisive beating that was handed out to Lafayette were more than pleased with the work of the line which piled up the opposing backs every time they resorted to straight football. It was a different team than that which succumbed to the Syracuse attack a week ago.

The first part of yesterday's workout was devoted to straight offense. The 'Varsity had little trouble in carrying the ball through the scrub line. The back field is developing splendid driving power. The team will be put through more hard scrimmage today.

BROWN IN HARD PRACTICE.

Providence Eleven Has Hopes of Beating Colgate Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 23.—Brown's 'Varsity and second elevens held a tough scrimmage today at Andrews Field in the first real workout in "Colgate Week," as this week has been dubbed by the Brown coaches. Pollard, playing with the seconds, was once more the star of the afternoon, scoring once on the 'Varsity and making the 'Varsity scores hard-fought propositions. A goal from the field by Gordon, a safety following a blocked punt, and a touchdown by Huggins from a long forward pass gave a total of 11 points to the 'Varsity, while Pollard's lone touchdown had to suffice for the second string men.

Of the regular 'Varsity backfield, Brooks, Shaw and Albright, the best plungers and carriers of the ball on the team, were missing from the lineup. Brooks will be able to play against Colgate, however, while the other two are out for a couple of weeks. In spite of this serious handicap the Brunonian coaches are hoping for a victory on Saturday and working hard to get it.

Colgate will go into Saturday's contest the favorite among most football enthusiasts. Weeks is the only regular man of last year's Brown team who returned to the fold this Fall. He, together with Bowman, sub-centre, and Brooks, sub to Pollard last Fall, are the trio around which Coach Robison has set to build a team.

Cornell Loses Graduate Manager.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—George Ervin Kent, graduate manager of the Cornell University Athletic Association, has resigned to go into business. He entered Cornell from Dayton, Ohio.

FAINT RESPONSE TO FOOTBALL AT YALE

Only Seventeen Candidates for 'Varsity Team Report to Dr. Brides.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 23.—Yale's first attempt to form a 'Varsity football squad this season was made today at Yale Field, and was regarded a failure, as only seventeen candidates reported. The lack of material, both in numbers and quality, led Dr. Arthur Brides, acting head coach, to express the sentiment that it is doubtful whether it is desirable to arrange even informal games with other universities or with military camp elevens. The question has gone to a committee consisting of the Faculty and undergraduates, student council to decide. Today's squad included only three former members of the 'Varsity squad, Hammill, tackle; Sidenburg, guard, and Stewart, half back.

They were sent against the freshmen for a fifteen-minute scrimmage, and the 1921 players out-generaled them at all points, scoring two touchdowns and holding the so-called 'Varsity helpless at ground-gaining attempts. Former Captain Brink Thorne, '96, was present at the practice. Challenges have been received from the camps at Westfield and Ayer, Mass., and from Newport and Plattsburg and from several universities. None will be accepted till it is certain that the plan can result in turning out better material.

A canvass of the 'Varsity players today showed that they were skeptical of the success of the plan under present conditions. The freshmen have arranged a game with the Pennsylvania freshmen for next Saturday.

SEEKS TO REPLACE MILLER.

Coach Metcalf Tries Out Men to be Columbia's General.

With the chance for the return of Howard Miller reduced to almost nothing, Coach T. Nelson Metcalf spent yesterday afternoon in an attempt to find some one to fill the star quarter back's position. Besides being a crack drop kicker Miller was a shifty runner and a heady field general. At present three men—Rosen, Canapary, and Lester—are being considered for the 'Varsity quarter back berth. Lester plays on the second eleven, Canapary has been a regular half back, and Rosen has been playing guard, to which post he was shifted from full back.

In preparation for Saturday's game with Williams the 'Varsity practiced against Manual High School eleven for a half hour. Campbell at tackle displayed the best form, going through the schoolboy line and getting the man with the ball repeatedly. After this scrimmage the 'Varsity spent twenty minutes in a sharp signal drill up and down the field. Many new plays were tried out and the former formations improved on the basis of experience in the Union game.

NEW ELEVEN AT CORNELL.

Many Changes Made In Endeavor to Get Better Results.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 23.—In an effort to develop a team that will inject into its playing the dash that has been lacking this year Coach Sharp put into effect today a sweeping reorganization of the Cornell 'Varsity. The centre trio was displaced, a change was made at right end and full back, and it also became known that the coaches are relying mostly on Nethercott to play quarter back. Carey, the original choice, is suffering from a bad charley horse which is feared will bother him for some time.

DE ORO LEADS DALY IN BILLIARD MATCH

Champion Shows Wonderful Execution in Three-Cushion Title Play.

Alfredo De Oro, holder of the world's three cushion billiard championship, defeated John Daly, challenger for the title, in the first fifty point block of their 150-point match, at Leonard Howison's academy, last night, by a score of 50 to 43. All of the skill which has made De Oro a commanding figure in the realm of three cushion billiards was at his call last night, and while Daly's play sparkled at times it was not well enough sustained to hold the Cuban at bay.

The titleholder played the ivories with a confident, sure touch and fine discrimination as to the possibilities of the angles. He was deliberate in his work, never hurrying even when he seemed to have the balls in command for a sizable run.

The challenger started the match as if he would run away from the champion without much difficulty. After eight innings he was leading at 9 to 2 and De Oro was in the position of having to play an uphill match. It was not until twenty-six innings had passed that De Oro succeeded in overcoming the advantage of Daly and bringing the score to a tie. From then on the complexion of things changed.

De Oro twice pulled slightly away from his rival, only to be overtaken each time, and then finally he began to gather a lead which would give him victory in the opening clash.

It was no easy task, however. Daly, without playing deliberate safety, had the knack of leaving the balls in a position from which it was difficult to count, and De Oro frequently found his turn at the table offering only the faintest possibility of a carrom. Both men played brilliantly at times.

Daly, for instance, twice ran off clusters of six and they were the product of sterling play and careful calculation. Only once did De Oro attain the mark of six, but in that one instance he showed the science of three cushions as few cue demonstrate it.

Every carrom might well have been termed a trick shot. They were the kind that may be diagrammed only to have some one looking on ask, "But how do you make the shot?" Seldom is such a cluster of points on such difficult shots seen in a three-cushion match, and the big gallery loudly applauded the Cuban as he completed his run.

One of the prettiest shots made by De Oro was a doubling of the side rail from a difficult position that seemed almost to forbid a tally.

The second block of fifty points will be played tonight.

Leonard Wins Again.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, had an easy victory over Young Erne of Buffalo in their six-round bout tonight. Erne was on the defensive during the entire bout, with Leonard pressing him hard, but unable to score a knockout. Leonard weighed 134 pounds, Erne 135.

TESTS BRICKLEY'S PLAYS.

Coach Wall of N. Y. U. Tries Out Boston College Formations.

Coach Wall of New York University returned yesterday from Boston, where he watched the practice of the Boston College team. Wall formerly played on the team there, and on Monday learned some of the formations which Brickley is teaching that team with a view of adopting some of the formations for his charges here.

Yesterday Coach Wall introduced several of these plays at the Violet's practice. After pointing out the mistakes of the Wesleyan game, he put the players through a light scrimmage. Brin was brought back from centre to the backfield. The little lineman's aggressiveness showed to advantage yesterday, and though green at the position, he made several substantial gains through the freshman line. Baker, a member of last year's basket ball and baseball teams, was out yesterday and was given a trial in the backfield. Goff, who heretofore has been playing guard, was shifted to centre. Buckley, who has played a consistent game at halfback, was hurt in the Wesleyan game. His injury has since developed into a bad kidney bruise, and he is out of the game for the balance of the season.

STEVENS TACKLES DUMMY.

Saturday's game with the aviators showed that Stevens has a well-balanced team. Bloss and Goodale showed promise in circling the ends and running through the broken fields. Of the linemen, Moeller and Flockhart, both veterans, stand out prominently.

HENRY MILLER IN MOVIE LAND

"Anthony in Wonderland" Is an English Burlesque of Los Angeles Drama.

HERO OF RED GULCH DIVE

ANTHONY IN WONDERLAND, a comedy in three acts and five scenes, by Monckton Hoffe. At the Criterion Theatre.

Anthony is an English bachelor, rather full of figure and advanced toward middle life, who would come into a bequest of some seven hundred thousand pounds if he could only find a girl he was willing to marry. He adores Botticelli ladies, and has a passion for Mona Lisa. In the field of history his ardors are of a versatility that ranges from Joan of Arc to Lady Hamilton. He has even a taste for the heroines of the movies. But the young ladies whom he meets in the cold world of reality fail to evoke a flutter. In a word, he is an idealist. So how is his family of sisters and brothers-in-law to bring him down to the world of palpitant femininity and even more palpitant pounds, shillings, and pence?

An American promoter finds the way. Mona Lisas and Lady Hamiltons being out of the question, he falls back on the movies. Having staged in Dorking, England, a film about a sweet thing named Ali Aloney of Red Gulch, Cal., he takes Anthony and his interested relatives to see it. Unlike a well-known saint of his name, Anthony falls for the lady. Thenceforward the way is clear.

The promoter drags Anthony and takes him to that glade in Dorking where the movie company and properties are still extant. There one thing comes to, as he thinks, in a dope dream. The movie actors, who are also, unaccountably, first-rate dubs at authorship, improvise for his benefit a thrilling episode of love and revenge, in which his passion for Ali Aloney deepens to a point at which, (still, as he thinks, in a dope dream,) he takes poison for her sake. She also, it transpires, falls for him. In the last act Anthony wakes up in Montague Square, haunted by the illusion of his dream, to find that Ali Aloney is a real person. The end is a triumphant walkover, alike for cupid and cupidity.

There were moments in this very unusual and rather baffling play that were really fresh and laughable. In the brief scene of the film performance, Anthony and his relatives occupied a stage box and guyed the show. It was a really spirited burlesque upon the California school of our national drama, and not the less amusing because the Western dialect was so unmistakably and so unconsciously of Montague Square and Dorking.

Even the audience came in for a stroke or two. Looking down on that group, half composed of weary first-nighters and half of vigorously enthusiastic friends of the cast, Mr. Miller remarked: "Rather a rum run of people in this house." A sister-in-law put in with perfunctory benevolence: "Poor things, they have to work so hard all day." Alas, the work comes later, for it is no easy task to describe that conglomerate play, or to convince one's friends of the cast that they shone in it.

The scene in which Anthony was the hero of Red Gulch Dive had also its humors, but they were more largely mingled with ineptitude. The way those movie actors improvised dialogue was most mysterious. That Anthony should fall in love with Ali Aloney was credible, for she was very prettily played by Florence Shirley. But what she found to dote on in Anthony and his movie début was not as clear. He was witty and laughable enough; but that scene of Los Angeles melodrama à l'Anglaise was scarcely the stuff of which fancy is bred.

In a neat curtain speech Mr. Miller said that for his part he liked the play. Of the audience the only thing certain is that it liked the movie scene and Mr. Miller's comments on it.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Maurice and Florence Walton, who recently returned from France, will return to the vaudeville stage at the Palace next week.

The Washington Square Players will begin their second season at the Comedy a week from tonight. Among those who will be seen in the first bill are Helen Westley, Florence Enright, Arthur E. Hohl, and Robert Strange.

"The Melting of Molly," which was performed on the road last season, is now in rehearsal, preparatory to a New York hearing. Alma Tell will be seen in the leading role.

A new Liberty Loan march, written by Lieutenant John Philip Sousa, will be played by the Hippodrome orchestra this afternoon.

CAMP UPTON RECRUIT WEARS THREE MEDALS

Serbian Soldier Won Decorations at Home, in Austria, and in Turkey.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, YAPHANK, L. I., Oct. 23.—Captain Hervey B. Perrin, of the Headquarters Company, 304th Field Artillery, has discovered two of his recruits who have received decorations for bravery while serving with European armies. Mention has already been made of Harry Booton, of Captain Perrin's company, who received the Distinguished Conduct Medal from King George for gallantry while serving with the British Royal Flying Corps.

Officers of the Headquarters Company were able to confirm today the amazing exploits of Milan Stefanovitch, formerly a Lieutenant in the Serbian Army, but now acting First Sergeant of the 304th Field Artillery's Headquarters Company, who arrived at Camp Upton wearing three medals, one Serbian, one Austrian, and one Turkish, and whose body is marked with three scars from bayonet wounds.

Stefanovitch comes from a family long active in Serbian affairs. His uncle, Dragomir Stefanovitch, is Serbian Minister to France. Another uncle, General Stefanovitch, was on the staff of King Alexander and Queen Draga. The night in 1902 when the King and Queen were assassinated General Stefanovitch was killed by members of the regicide party. Stefanovitch, who is 30 years old, was graduated from the Royal Serbian Military Academy at Belgrade. At the outbreak of the last Balkan war he was commissioned First Lieutenant in the First Regiment, Serbian Heavy Field Artillery. For bravery at the battle of Chatolgje, King Peter decorated him with a gold medal, and at the end of the war he was detached for duty as a spy with the Serbian Secret Police and sent to Turkey.

One day Stefanovitch was standing at the edge of the Golden Horn in Constantinople when a gilded barge was rammed by a steamer and two woman passengers fell overboard. Stefanovitch rescued the two passengers, who turned out to be relatives of the Sultan. For this act, the Sultan awarded a medal to Stefanovitch, the spy. Later Stefanovitch was sent for spy duty in Austria and he enlisted in the Austrian Navy. Following an accident in the boiler-room of the Austrian warship on which he was serving, Stefanovitch rescued three men from the steam. For this act, the Austrian Admiralty awarded a medal to him.

At the outbreak of the present war, Stefanovitch was recalled to his regiment and was slightly wounded fighting the Austrians. It was after this that he made his way to America.

KING VISITS OFFICERS' CLUB.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Oct. 24.—The King and Queen this afternoon visited the American Officers' Club, which opens tomorrow. They were received by Henry Brittain, Secretary of the Pilgrims, under whose auspices the club will be run; Ambassador Page, Vice Admiral Sims, and General Bartlett.

The royal standard was hoisted on the club house and American signal men at the guests arrived, the King in morning dress and the Queen in a purple costume with skunk collarette and muff, and a purple hat with a white plume. The King and Queen went through all rooms and expressed admiration for the comfort and completeness of the arrangements.

In the newspaper room Admiral Sims showed the Queen a picture supplement of THE NEW YORK TIMES, and explained how the American public thus was kept fully posted on the progress of the war. The Queen was much interested and called the attention of Lady Katherine Cook, her lady in waiting, to the supplement. She said she had seen THE NEW YORK TIMES before and knew the excellence of its pictorial work.

After signing the first page of the visitors' register and submitting to a flashlight photograph with Rear Admiral Sims and Mr. Brittain, the King and Queen congratulated the Pilgrims on the hospitality which they were offering the United States officers, and departed.

LONG DRILL AT WADSWORTH

Whole Division Is Put Through a Four-Hour Test of Endurance.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, Spartanburg, S. C., Oct. 23.—The first general divisional drill of the Twenty-seventh was held this morning, when every unit went through four hours of intensive training. In order to accommodate the 40,000 sholdiers every available space was turned into a drill ground.

With an elaborate program set for tomorrow's celebration of the Liberty Loan Day, Major Olmsted announced the camp's total to date as $1,374,650. The former Third, now the 108th, continues to lead with $181,900 as the highest sum contributed by a single unit.

TWO SINGERS HEARD.

Mme. Auld, Soprano, and Miss Miller, Contralto, in Aeolian Hall.

Mme. Gertrude Auld, who has given song recitals before in New York, gave one yesterday in Aeolian Hall, devoted to French songs and Russian songs in French translations, with a group of folksongs of French and other origin. Mme. Auld's sympathy with French songs was evident; yet it did not appear that she was especially qualified to sing them by natural endowment or acquired skill. Their fitting expression often needed something more than she brought to them: a greater elegance, vivacity and charm, or else a deeper note of feeling. Mme. Auld's voice, when it is produced and heard to its best advantage, is of fine and appealing quality; but too often its beauty is marred by faulty production or incorrect placing. It becomes unsteady or its quality is injured or its intonation is affected. In the brief flirod passages, including a trill, of Decreux's "L'Oiseau Bleu" she showed an insufficient technique. But her singing was filled with a marked sincerity, self-confidence, and the repose which comes therefrom.

In the evening Miss Christine Miller, much and properly admired as a "mezzo-contralto" singer, gave a recital in the same hall. As happened earlier in the day, the program was made up wholly of songs in English and French. There was a set of "Five English Songs in the Olden Style" by Alfred G. Waltrall—but singers who wish to sing English songs in the olden style would do much better to try some of the very beautiful real ones, even though not composed for and dedicated to them; a set of three Persian love songs by Louis Victor Saar, once of New York; three French songs by Félix Fourdrain, somewhat more ambitious than successful as realistic depictions of French scenes; and songs by American composers—Burleigh, Lester, Foote, Fisher, Homer, and Speaks. Miss Miller's rich and powerful voice is beautifully managed, with fine technical skill; it is spontaneously and easily produced, and it is put at the service of a fine taste, a penetrating feeling for the poetical, the fervent, the dramatic, the pathetic. There is a wide range of expression in her singing, and she got the most out of a program not uniformly of the highest musical value.

Plot Against President Denied.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 23.—Information disclosed by Government agents concerning isolated arrests at different points recently for the writing of threatening letters to President Wilson gave rise today to a widely circulated story of a conspiracy against the President. It was officially stated that there was no warrant for such a report.

MUSIC NOTES.

Reinald Werrenrath will make a speech for the Liberty Loan in the course of his Aeolian Hall recital this afternoon, when Braddish Johnson Carroll, Jr., of Low, Dixon & Co. will be present to sell the bonds.

Victor Biart will give his first lecture at the Hotel Plaza today under the auspices of the Philharmonic Society, discussing the program of music to be played at the opening Philharmonic concerts this week.

Mischa Elman, violinist, with Giuseppe De Luca, Marie Rappold, and Pasquale Amato of the Metropolitan Opera will sell Liberty bonds at the United States booth at Lord & Taylor's this afternoon.

Both the New York Symphony and the Philharmonic Society start the season at Carnegie Hall tomorrow, in the afternoon and evening respectively, while Maurice Dambois and Dai Buell have concerts in Aeolian Hall.

H. P. Davison announces the National Red Cross has arranged repetitions of the Rosemary pageant at the Metropolitan tomorrow and Friday, "not only for the money, but for the patriotic influence of the spectacle at this time."

FOR OR AGAINST WISCONSIN.

The unfortunate death of Wisconsin's patriotic Senator, PAUL O. HUSTING, gives that State not only an opportunity but a mandate to disprove the slanders of her defamers or prove the worst that has been said about her. Whether HUSTING or LA FOLLETTE represented Wisconsin is a question violently disputed, which is now to be answered once for all. Certainly both of them did not represent her. Wisconsin is either American or pro-German. Either she is with the country or not. According to HUSTING, she is. According to LA FOLLETTE, she is not. Now she is to speak herself, and settle the question once for all, so that there shall never be any doubt about it again.

Let there be an end before there is a beginning of any talk to the effect that LA FOLLETTE is now on trial. He is, but Wisconsin is on trial, and Wisconsin is so much greater than LA FOLLETTE that his fate becomes a matter of insignificance compared with hers. When the question was whether he should be dismissed from the Senate, the country was interested in LA FOLLETTE'S fate. A far greater question has arisen through HUSTING'S death, the question whether Wisconsin is in step with the music of the Union. Beside that question the fortunes of LA FOLLETTE are not worth a moment's consideration.

All over the Union men have been saying what they hoped, that Wisconsin is true to the flag, that LA FOLLETTE misrepresented her, that if she could speak she would prove herself the loyal State she has always been. And now she can speak. More, she must speak. No one any longer can speak for her, no La Follette and no Husting. It is for her to say whether she has been defamed by her accusers and misrepresented by LA FOLLETTE. Everything that stands in the way of the clarity of the issue should be swept away. LA FOLLETTE'S candidate for HUSTING'S place, whoever he may be, should be opposed by an out-and-out American, not by one who has a foot in both camps. The issue cannot be avoided or obscured, but it should be made as plain and unmistakable as possible. When the voters decide who shall be HUSTING'S successor, they will be deciding that in form only; they will actually be deciding something far more important. It makes little difference who fills that place, compared to the momentous question how Wisconsin's sister States shall regard her, with shame or pride, the question whether she has chosen her country's side or the enemy's; and that is the tremendous question which those voters will decide.

MR. BENNETT'S SERMONS.

Mr. BENNETT has "delivered the funeral sermon" of the Union League Club, somewhat peremptorily and prematurely condemned to death by him for the crime of supporting Mr. MITCHEL. He must have a fat batch of other funeral sermons to preach over the highly living. He must decently inter with lugubrious speech the Republican Club and the Young Republican Club, the Executive Committee of the Bronx Republican County Committee, the Republican County Committee of Manhattan, most of the Republican district leaders of Manhattan, whom he is now vainly seeking to bulldoze, and of the Bronx. He must go over to Brooklyn and scatter the flowers of his obituary eloquence over Senator CALDER and Controller TRAVIS and Commissioner KRACKE.

He must preach the political funeral sermons of the most distinguished chiefs of the Republican Party—Governor WHITMAN, Mr. ROOT, Mr. TAFT, Mr. ROOSEVELT. And, beyond these special services, he must commemorate in a general service the great mass of the Republican Party, which has no love for suicide, and which, in Mr. HUGHES'S words, "will commit suicide if it puts on itself the onus of turning New York over to HYLAN, HEARST, and Tammany Hall." "A Republican is faithless to the highest standard of "his party," says Mr. HUGHES, "if "he would make his party the tail of "the Tammany kite." That is what Mr. BENNETT is trying to make it. In the interest of the Republican Party as well as of the city, Republicans will refuse to follow him to inglorious defeat. To Mr. BENNETT in his present funereal mood, natural enough in view of the way things are going against him, may be commended the saying of Lord CHESTERFIELD: "SANDWICH and I have been "dead for a year, but nobody has "found it out." In the case of Mr. BENNETT everybody has found it out except the person principally concerned.

WALL STREET'S WORK FOR THE LOAN.

Ex-President TAFT spoke for the Liberty Loan at a meeting held on the floor of the Stock Exchange on Monday. Mr. TAFT reminded the bankers of New York "who have been "much abused, but whose patriotism "was unequaled anywhere in the "country," that the ultimate responsibility for the success of the loan rested with them. The bankers of New York, as a part of the financial community known as Wall Street, have had to bear their share of abuse. The Stock Exchange has never been spared, it has been a favorite target for the shafts of the populist, of the demagogue, and the unclassified legions who delight to assail the "money power."

Yet Mr. TAFT is right. Wall Street and the bankers are the guarantors that the Liberty Loan shall not fail. The Stock Exchange has even been accused of organizing a raid to obstruct the loan. Yet the members of the Stock Exchange have worked like beavers, neglecting their own business, to promote the sale of the Liberty bonds. Like the bankers, they have been unsparing in their efforts to stimulate subscriptions, as widely distributed as possible.

New York subscriptions to the loan are approaching the $1,000,000,000 mark, they will reach the full allotment of the $1,500,000,000 or will pass it. For contrast, take the Federal Reserve district of Dallas, Texas, and that of Atlanta, Ga. The report of the Treasury Department published yesterday morning showed that Dallas has subscribed $13,041,000, being .143 per cent. of its allotment of $125,000,000. Atlanta has subscribed $11,717,000, .094 per cent. of its allotment of $135,000,000. In a widely published advertisement of the industries of Georgia, it was stated the other day that the "farmers of "Georgia have more money than they "know what to do with." What are the farmers of Georgia doing with their money? Evidently they are not subscribing to the Liberty Loan. There is yet time. Neither Georgia, nor Texas, nor any of the districts where subscriptions lag can have any doubt of the merit of the Liberty Loan as an investment, nor can they be indifferent to the purposes of the loan.

Money subscribed for these bonds provides comforts for our soldiers, saves their lives, shortens the war. If the planters and farmers of the country have been a little slow to respond to the appeal of the Secretary of the Treasury, it must be because they have desired to defer their subscriptions until the last moment. They have the money to subscribe, there can be no doubt about that, nor can any doubt be cast upon their patriotism and willingness to help the Government to equip our soldiers, to provide the ammunition that they must have, to convince Germany that we are in earnest and sooner bring her to terms. But the time is short. The cities are doing their share, they will take care of their allotments, it remains for the farmers to show that they are not lacking in the spirit that has prompted the Stock Exchange, Wall Street, and the bankers of New York to put forth such prodigious efforts.

NO QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Over the platform at meetings where Judge HYLAN goes through his phonographic performance every night in a cold perspiration there should be posted in letters of living light, that is to say in electric bulbs, the announcement: "No Questions Answered Here." It would be a comfort to the candidate and give him an assurance which he cannot derive from his cause. As it is now, a hearer who wants to know where the Judge stands and attempts to put a question to him is hurled into outer darkness before he finishes with the rising inflection. Only an armored football guard could resolve himself into an interrogation at one of these Tammany meetings with any hope of passing through the ordeal unscathed.

The citizen who, at Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn, anticipated the first parrot note of the man who would be Mayor for MURPHY was guilty only of saying, while the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner" still lingered in the hall, "Let me ask a question, please!" But without protest from Judge HYLAN the seeker after information was roughly handled by the Tammany strong-armed men and tossed into the street. If he had been suspected of picking pockets, his treatment could not have been worse, and yet all he wanted to do was to extract an idea from the intellect of MURPHY'S selection for Mayor.

What a different reception the questioner has at one of Mayor MITCHEL'S meetings! He is welcome to interrogate the Fusion candidate about every act of his administration, so long as information is wanted. Mr. MITCHEL has nothing to conceal and nothing to extenuate. He has repeatedly offered to answer questions put to him at his meetings, and he has proved his sincerity again and again. But JOHN PURROY MITCHEL is a free man and his record will bear the closest scrutiny—his personal as well as his official record. He is not only the best Mayor New York has had in fifty years but our greatest authority on municipal government, with a remarkable gift for exposition.

How can any citizen with an unclouded mind hear Mayor MITCHEL give an account of his stewardship in a meeting with the Fusion atmosphere, which is essentially democratic, and then attend one of Judge HYLAN'S strong-armed "rallies," where no man may ask a question of the masked candidate, without realizing the grotesqueness of hesitating to vote for the present Mayor of New York?

ALWAYS THE SAME.

Two women on one ship waved a piece of white cloth which was perfectly visible. They were silenced by a volley from the German cruisers.

This is perhaps the most "glorious" episode of the great German "victory" in the North Sea over two British destroyers and their helpless convoy of merchantmen.

When the British warships were destroyed, the chivalrous commanders of the German cruisers proceeded to sink unarmed merchant ships and to butcher seamen and women. All this is nothing new. It is but another stanza in the German epic. Yet even the good Germans of Sweden are put out. What did they expect? It is the generous German way. The two women fluttering those white cloths must have been especially attractive to the German gunners. A small harvest compared with the rich harvest of the Lusitania, but still worth reaping. "We Germans" are as terrible as we can be. Thus do we impress our enemies with our "will to victory."

Why fill the world with intriguers and spies and workers for a German peace when every week or day adds to the record of German inhumanity, cruelty, contempt for international law? Why, if the spirit of their foes ever flagged, German deeds would quicken it into ever-fiercer flame.

HIS CHANCE.

There will be public hearings today and Thursday on the city budget for 1918. Everybody who believes that the expenditures provided for by that budget are excessive should go to those hearings, and show, if he can, what items should be pared or cut off. Especially is it the duty of a citizen who aspires to be Mayor to prove, by chapter and verse, his intelligent zeal for economy with efficiency. Judge HYLAN'S prompters have given him much romantic stuff to read about the extravagance of the Fusion administration. If any knowledge of the City Government may rightly be imputed to Judge HYLAN, today and tomorrow are the chosen time to exhibit it.

Here is his chance to do a service to the city by saving its money. Moreover, he can display, to the satisfaction and surprise of most of his fellow-citizens, the financial genius that doubtless was but sprouting when he gave up to an automobile company talents reserved for the higher duties of statesmanship. Here is his chance to confront and expose Fusion "extravagance." Won't he please appear at the hearings?

"BORROW AND BUY."

One of the most effective of the Liberty Loan advertisements is the one counseling those wanting to help beat Kaiserism to "borrow and buy" Liberty bonds. In that manner $10, or even $5, will give the Government the use of $100, and so in like proportion for larger sums. But that can be done in the main only in banks belonging to the Federal Reserve system. Other banking institutions cannot loan so liberally because they cannot rediscount their assets. They are under the same disability regarding all their activities in banking functions. To that extent their abstention from the system lessens their public usefulness, and reduces their profits. Accordingly, it is good news both for the loan and for the future of the Federal Reserve system that its membership is constantly growing upon the lesson taught by the loan.

Four leading local trust companies announced their entrance into the Federal system yesterday, and there was similar news from other cities. The trust companies of New York State have aggregate resources of nearly three billions, and it is a pity that some considerable companies still do not see their way to join, through the idea that the restrictions of the system lessen their usefulness. One such restriction, in the opinion of some, is that which forbids individuals associated with the companies in any capacity to derive any benefit from some of the most useful functions of the companies. Of course the companies would not abstain from membership in order to make profits for individuals. Neither is it to be expected that individuals would make business for the companies without compensation. The restriction is for the protection of the companies, not for the prevention of the business where it is good business. When the individuals act as reorganizers, or trustees, of syndicate members, or in countless other capacities not open to criticism, it is for the benefit of both the individuals and the companies that the individuals should receive the "usual" or "reasonable" fees, salaries, commissions, and so on, as is authorized by Section 22. The prohibition is of the secret, unusual, extravagant fees which ought to be prohibited. Too large profits are dangerous for the companies and demoralizing to the individuals, through the tendency to cloud judgments.

However, there are plenty of banks where those who wish to "borrow and buy" are welcome. There is not the least prospect that the resources of the Federal system will not be equal to this or any future demand. The credit facilities of the Federal system are practically unlimited, but the impulse must be given in the first place from the source which will receive the benefit of the expenditures the bank credits make possible. The five or six billions, more or less, which will be subscribed before the week ends will be spent among the people, and should be subscribed by the people. The Government has no funds of its own. Banking funds are needed for banking purposes. What is required to start the payments is the diversion to war purposes of what can be spared from the superfluities of incomes of persons or corporations. The billions will go back into the pockets from which they come in the aggregate of cases, although not always in individual cases. But nobody can lose anything by the loan.

The only loser is the Kaiser. The cable brought yesterday his congratulations over the "splendid success" of his loan for the support of submarines and other unlawful and inhuman methods of war for the rescue of the feudal idea of government from perishing in its last ditch. His loan is subscribed in stage money which nobody will accept outside of Germany without insulting discount. Our loan will be subscribed in gold, and in a total worthy of our first ten million of soldiers, of whom a considerable part already is "over there."

THE UNIVERSAL THOUGHT.

It was a coincidence—but it was nothing more—that on the day Mr. LLOYD GEORGE declared in Albert Hall that there would be no lasting peace for the civilized world until a false ideal was banished from the German mind by the drastic experience of a defeat in the field, ex-President TAFT, speaking at a Liberty Loan mass meeting in this city, should say almost precisely the same thing. "Brute force must be dethroned forever," said Mr. LLOYD GEORGE, and he added: "German many, in my opinion, would only "make peace now on terms enabling "her to benefit by the war into which "she wantonly plunged the world." It was Mr. TAFT'S view that "the end of the war must be psychological":

> The German people are obsessed and indoctrinated with false philosophy. But they are not supermen, nor above those rules which govern all men, and what they need in order to produce the psychological change is a licking, a beating.

Is not this the universal thought of the allied peoples who have seen the Germans make war like savages and reason like madmen?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Profits in Time of Scarcity.

Of information like that in regard to the price of sugar, given out after the conference between Mr. HOOVER and the members of the State Food Commission, too much could not be placed in the possession of the public. It is well for the consumer to know exactly what the producer gets from the wholesaler, and what the latter charges the retailer, for any article of merchandise, for from these facts the ultimate buyer can learn whether or not he is the victim of extortion, and, if so, by whom the extortion is practiced.

In this instance and at the present time, it seems that the wholesaler pays the refiner 8.33 cents a pound for sugar, while cost to the retailer—unless he deals directly with the refiner, as some of them do—averages 8.6 a pound. But for some days past the public has been paying anywhere from 11 to 15 cents, and to get sugar even at those prices he has often been obliged to make other purchases, presumably still more profitable to the shopkeeper.

The excuse for this sudden and large elevation of price at the last stage of the sugar's journey is that thus, in a time of scarcity, demand is decreased. In ordinary circumstances, the excuse is also a reason, and unquestionably a desirable result can thus be produced. Always, however, this plan, though its adoption is the natural consequence of competitive bidding among eager buyers, is viewed so much askance that merchants who do not follow it are prompt to advertise their refusal to make abnormal profits, and of course its inevitable effect is to put the whole of an inadequate supply in the hands of the rich and selfish few.

When a war is in progress, and the distribution of a necessity of life is involved, while the method can still be defended on the ground that "business is business," it invites and receives general reprehension. But there would be no real advantage, in such cases, if the stock on hand were at once all bought up at low prices. The distribution might be a little more equitable, but consumption would be fast, and reduction of consumption is the really important object to be sought. To attain it, the consumers must realize the need and must unite in economical use until the time of scarcity is past. Hoarding is as bad as speculating, and the householder who now hides away sugar for future use is quite as unsocial as is the dealer who utilizes his opportunity to make excessive profits.

These Are the Best of Reprisals.

There is more than excuse for wondering—even though the wonder be not quite sincere—why the people of England are demanding any better or different reprisals for German air raids than those described by the Chancellor, BONAR LAW, as already made by the British aviators and still vigorously continuing. He said that in the last month over 8,000 tons of high explosives had been dropped far behind the German lines, while in that time only about 1,000 tons had fallen in England from the German airships and airplanes. The results, he admitted, had been different, for in the one case the objects of attack had been distinctly military, and in the other only a pretense of such a limitation had been made, and the victims were practically all noncombatants, including many women and children.

As revenge, this makes a poor showing, and something of an argument might be made as to its inadequacy as preventive of the repetition of intolerable atrocities. For the records of history, however, the contrast will be one satisfactory to future generations of Englishmen, and as much of a humiliation to Germans in the better days to come as it ought to be to those whose responsibility for these outrages is direct.

That the Germans are inviting raids on their own unfortified cities, and that they would have no right to complain, no matter how many were killed—that is indisputable. But surely it is just as well, if it can be avoided by the exercise of self-restraint on the part of the British, that the Germans should not have a chance to say, "The worst that can be charged against us is that we did such things a little sooner than our enemies did them." That, of course, is a poor defense, for there is an enormous difference between striking a first blow and striking back. Sometimes striking back is necessary, as the only effective form of self-defense. Then it is certainly legitimate. But that the German air raids can be stopped only by reprisals in kind is not yet proved beyond legitimate doubt, and while it is easy, and perhaps too easy, for observers at a safe distance to counsel magnanimity, the impulse to do so is a strong one—still too strong to be resisted.

America Easily Astonished.

There is an element of the pathetic in the fact that the flights of the two Italian airplanes from Norfolk to Mineola should seem, in this country, such wonderful achievements. They were good flights, of course, and only a few years ago they would have earned all the tributes of astonishment and wonder that anybody in the world could give them. Today, however, such aerial journeys as these, while they would be called excellent aviation, would attract no wide or excited attention anywhere in Europe.

It is only here, where the possibility of aerial navigation with machines other than balloons was first revealed to mankind, that such flights could pass as establishing records in duration, speed, or amount of weight carried. And the Italians did not have to bring over either their fastest or their strongest airplanes to show us something new in flying. Yet it was from the WRIGHTS, Americans of the Americans, that the Italians and all the other Europeans learned that an effort to emulate the birds did not necessarily convict the man who made it of being a dreamer of dreams and more than half mad.

That we have been left so far behind in the race we started ourselves is humiliating—almost as humiliating as is the fact that as yet it doesn't look at all likely that we shall soon catch up with the leaders.

An Armenian Buys Bonds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In appreciation of what the American people have done to aid the Armenian sufferers I am buying today Liberty bonds for $2,500. In helping this great democracy I am helping the just cause of my country.

Let all the Armenians do the same.

New York, Oct. 22, 1917.

THE OUTLAW.

O Germany, whose sceptre is the sword,
The Prussian eagle is a bird of prey!
Oh, why should you beneath its black wing slay
To make it fat? The Hohenzollern scored
With talons red all your brave-bosomed States;
Have you now learned to love all Heaven hates?

Did Frederick's brigandage enrich your hand?
Did iron-worded Bismarck speak for you?
From your own heart is crushed the bloody dew
That nourishes the Kaiser's Fatherland!
Oh, it is very shame of shame to be
In arms for chains—and foeman of the free!

With blinding blood-mist! In her flame-wheeled car
Unsceptred Science, bound the slave of War,
Destroys in frenzy and forgets to build!
The fruit of centuries blasted by her breath,
The franchise of the world is sold to Death!

What gain? What honor? Is it really so
That battle bugles lead the feet that climb?
Do men rise Godward when their steps keep time
To roll of earthquake rhythms that overthrow,
While thundering funeral anthems of an age,
The Christ-built dream that pays the soul its wage?

No! Gold of broken sceptres hilts the sword
That kills the Kings; the jewels burn the crown;
By their own weight of wrong thrones crumble down!
Calm as dawn's birth, new cycles rise, where roared
In vain war's flaming horror. Would you bind
The dead Past, rotting, on the living mind?

Egypt's grim ghost from cold Osirian glooms,
And Rome and Greece from shade of moldering tombs,
Mock at your pride. O Force, though oft reborn,
Self-slain must die, destroying all it built;
Oh, fallen are you, who share the ancient guilt!

How fallen! For your nation is outlawed,
For love to Mammon you have sacrificed
As when his people broke the heart of Christ
And dashed the Son's blood in the face of God!
And they who smite you, making war on War,

BRADY ART BRINGS $17,252.

A Painting on Porcelain, "The Wave and the Rock," Sold for $400.

There have been no bigger crowds in the many exhibitions and sales of famous paintings and porcelains which have passed through the hands of the American Art Association than those which daily visit the "Diamond Jim" Brady collection at the American Art Galleries. Among those who were present at the sale yesterday, some of them buyers, were Irving Berlin, Ina Claire, H. J. Heintz, Herbert Dupuy, Mrs. Peter W. Rouss, the Countess di Valmond, and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Winters. The returns for the day were $12,399, making a total to date of $17,252.

A. E. Thomson paid the highest price of the day, $400, for a painting on porcelain, "The Wave and the Rock," a grotto at the edge of the sea, with two nude figures and two white sea gulls. Another painting on porcelain, "Young Love's Dream," a peasant girl and her lover, who plays the violin to her near a mountain ruin, went to Mrs. E. F. Hart for $205. Of the collection of twenty-five portraits of famous living actresses, painted in miniature by Samuel G. Hooper, in gilt frames and leather cases, that of the Dolly Sisters, brought one of the higher prices, going to Seaman, agent, for $95. To the same buyer went a generously proportioned nude young woman with classical features, holding her drapery with one arm above her head, a European ivory carving, for $250. A pair of European gilt bronze and ivory figures, semi-nude dancing girls, went to Seaman for $170, and a Japanese ivory carving, "Farmer Carrying Faggots and Child," for $130.

Four miniature paintings, allegorical figures of the four seasons, nude figures draped in gauze and flowers, went to a buyer named Franklin for $150; Rudert, agent, paid $200 for two Limoges pâte-sur-pâte plaques, "Spirits of the Waters and Lilies," young women in gauzy draperies, and $200 for another pair of similar plaques, oval, "Music" and "The Dance." "The King of France on His Throne," European gilt and ivory, went to Rudert for $165.

Three paintings on porcelain, German, went to Irving Berlin for $180; the Countess di Valmond paid $150 for "The Seated Nun," European bronze and ivory figure; "Carmencita Dancing with Castenets," by Agnes Colombier, and "Young Woman Kneeling, with Dish of Fruit," by R. Boeltzig, German, figures in gilt bronze and ivory, went to Mrs. P. W. Rouss for $100.

VICTORY A LABOR PROBLEM.

The Shift to Government Work Made Possible by Liberty Loan.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We were forced into the war to protect American lives and commerce and to preserve the world from domination by the unprincipled and treacherous military autocracy of Germany. If the power of France, Great Britain and Russia should be broken and Germany remain undefeated in the present war, no nation would be safe from future aggression by Germany and we should be compelled to maintain a great standing army and a vast navy to preserve our country and the rest of the American continent from German domination. The United States no longer could remain a peaceful nation and our national prosperity would be undermined.

To succeed in the war our Government must withdraw from ordinary production a vast number of workers to fill the ranks of the army and navy, to produce necessary war materials and supplies of all kinds and to construct shipping necessary for their transportation. Besides, we must continue the production and transportation of the enormous quantities of supplies needed by our allies in the war. As there was no surplus of unemployed labor when we entered into the war, it is obvious that the necessary requirements of our Government and of our allies can be met only by diminishing the amount of labor applied to other purposes.

The fundamental problem that confronts us is not a problem of money expenditures and money savings—it is a labor problem. We must diminish the use of labor to serve our comforts and pleasure and to produce unnecessary things so that this labor may be available to meet the war requirements of our Government and of our allies as well as to produce the food and clothing and other things necessary to the subsistence and welfare of all the people. Retrenchment, economy and saving are the most effective means of diminishing the production of unnecessary things and the wasteful or unnecessary employment of the inadequate supply of labor. The labor thus saved can effectually be shifted to the service of the Government by investing our money savings in Liberty Loan bonds.

The Government can and will withdraw from ordinary production all the men needed to fill the ranks of the army and navy and to produce the necessary war materials and supplies and shipping. Unless we voluntarily diminish the employment of labor for unnecessary purposes, the inevitable result must be a shortage of labor for the production of necessary things and a great increase of the wages of labor and of the prices of commodities produced by labor. The resulting competition for labor with the consequent increase of wages and of prices will heavily increase the cost of carrying on the war and the taxes required to meet this cost. The increased cost of living will deprive laborers of the benefit of their increased wages. The inadequacy of the supply of labor and the increase of wages and of the prices of manufactured commodities will deprive farmers of the benefit of the high prices which they may obtain for their crops. A large part of the want and suffering due to inadequate production and high prices will fall upon all those tradesmen, clerks, professional men and others who cannot increase their incomes or wages and upon the poor and helpless.

The most pressing need of the hour, therefore, is to check all wasteful or unnecessary use of labor and, so far as possible, to increase the aggregate supply of labor. To this end an aggressive popular campaign should be begun to attain the following ends: (1) To diminish the employment of labor in producing luxuries and in providing comforts and pleasure, whenever this labor can be shifted to the production of necessary things; but nothing would be gained by throwing out of employment labor that cannot be shifted to more useful production; (2) to stop all unnecessary public and private construction and improvements; (3) to diminish waste and unnecessary consumption of food and other products of labor; and (4) to increase the aggregate supply of labor by putting an end to strikes and idleness among laborers, by increasing the efficiency and productivity of labor and by employing women workers wherever practicable.

Some of these ends may be attained by compulsory legislation, but, at the present time, the most practicable way of effecting the desired results is through a campaign of voluntary cooperation of patriotic citizens and moral pressure upon those who are unwilling to sacrifice their personal interests for the good of the country. Unless we take action promptly, the burden of the necessary readjustment and retrenchment will fall in large measure upon those least able to bear it.

VICTOR MORAWETZ.

New York, Oct. 23, 1917.

LIBERTY DAY

By W. G. McADOO,
Secretary of the Treasury.

This is Liberty Day in the United States, made so by proclamation of the President and the Governors of the forty-eight States of the American Union. Would that it were Liberty Day for all the peoples of the world! Let us make it an ominous day for the German Kaiser. Let us make it the beginning of the end of military despotism and inhuman warfare.

A few days ago one of the Kaiser's undersea assassins destroyed the American transport Antilles, killing sixty-seven of America's gallant sons. The Kaiser must answer for this crime. He must be made to feel the prick of American bayonets. Let us remember the Antilles. Let us never stop or falter until this infamous apostle of brutalized warfare, the Kaiser, is brought to justice.

To the families of the soldiers and sailors who were killed on the Antilles this war was made personal. Its horror was brought home to them with a terrible shock. Those brave men had no chance to defend themselves, to fight for their country and their lives, but they died like heroes. The people at home can fight, however, both for themselves and for their country, without going to the front. This war must become a personal thing to each man, woman, and child of the civilian population, just as it is a personal thing to our soldiers and sailors and their families. It must grip us by the heartstrings. It must be our first thought every hour. Today let every American realize that this is a personal war between every American and the German Kaiser. The Kaiser has brought it to every American home, whether it be the home of a German-American citizen or any other American citizen. The Kaiser does not spare German-Americans; he fights all Americans, and all Americans must fight him.

Today the American public is on trial. The eyes of the world are upon her—the eyes of the oppressed peoples of the earth with hope and expectancy, the eyes of the military autocracy of Germany with outward contempt but inward fear.

Our first duty is not only to subscribe, but to oversubscribe, the second Liberty Loan. If we fail, it will be a victory for the Kaiser. There is no reason why we should fail, because we are the richest people in the world. Our prosperity has been unexampled, and we are able to provide our Government with all the money and resources required to win this war.

To accomplish this great task all must pull together. Bankers alone cannot finance the Government; men alone cannot do it; women alone cannot do it; the rich alone cannot do it; the poor alone cannot do it; the men of moderate means alone cannot do it, but all, uniting and cooperating patriotically and enthusiastically, can do it. In a democracy no one class should be permitted to save or to own the nation. All the people should save and own the nation. If each does his part, if every one is animated by superlative love of country and resolute purpose, we can finance every requirement of the Government and win this mighty war quickly and save thousands of precious American lives and a vast amount of American treasure.

The war can only be won quickly if every Liberty Loan is promptly subscribed. The least we can do for our gallant sons, the only chance we can give them to return with their lives, is to provide them with the best gun that American ingenuity can devise and money buy. A gun that will shoot faster and further than any gun yet made, with a bayonet forged by American skill and long enough to reach to Berlin. Every fifty dollar bond purchased by a patriotic American will provide some noble American boy with this kind of a gun and bayonet.

It is our soldiers, our sailors, and our guns that are going to win the victory, vindicate America's rights at home and upon the high seas, and make the world safe for democracy.

The least service of patriotism that any man or woman who stays at home can perform is to lend their money to his or her own Government on impregnable security at 4 per cent. interest.

They risk nothing, while the soldier risks all.

I have visited some of the great camps in the West, where thousands of splendid American young men are training for the army. They are setting an example which the civilian population would do well to emulate. Our brave soldiers are not only giving up their families, all their material interests, and putting their lives in the balance, but they are actually subscribing from their meagre pay to buy the bonds of their own Government in a larger amount per capita than the civilian population. All honor to our brave and gallant men! May those who stay at home not fail to do their duty to these valiant sons of America.

The failure of one Liberty Loan would destroy the Government's credit, undermine confidence, imperil prosperity, and disgrace us in the eyes of the world. The patriotic people of the forty-eight States of the Union must make such a disaster impossible.

When the sun sets on the evening of Liberty Day, ten million Americans should have registered their subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan.

SAYS WHITNEY ERRS IN SUBWAY DISPUTE

E. W. Estes Insists P. S. Board's Ruling Will Cost City $500,000.

Denies Contractor Sought to Make Extra Profit on Times Square Station.

E. W. Estes, Executive Secretary of the Broadway Association, renewed his assertion yesterday that the Public Service Commission had refused to correct gross errors in the design of the Times Square express station of the new Broadway subway when the correction could have been made at a cost of $75,000, with the result that after great inconvenience to the public the correction would have to be made later at a cost which would be about $500,000.

Mr. Estes disputed the statement Commissioner Whitney gave on Monday, that the saving of time and money were the main considerations which led the Public Service Commission to reject the change in plan, involving the building of a mezzanine platform for $75,000, which would have greatly increased entrance and exit facilities and would have prevented such congestion in the new Times Square express station as now exists at the Grand Central Terminal. He also denied the assertion of Mr. Whitney that the contractor tried to extort an extra $1,400 from the commission after agreeing on a price, and insisted that the Chief Engineer of the Public Service Commission agreed to the price, including the $1,400, but that the commission then struck the $1,400 out of the agreement. Mr. Estes said:

"I have noticed the interview which THE TIMES had with Commissioner Whitney of the Public Service Commission regarding the statement made in my annual report to the Broadway Association to the effect that a needed improvement in the Times Square station of the Broadway line had failed because of a dispute involving $1,400 between the commission and the contractor. I do not desire to enter into any controversy with him over the matter and would have nothing more to say about it were it not for the fact that the Commissioner does not seem to be familiar with some of the records, which he will find on file in the office of the commission, and because he seems to advance the argument that the improvement failed because of the need for the funds in question to be used elsewhere. This is the first time that the latter suggestion has been made.

"I might also question whether anything should have been allowed to stand in the way of giving adequate facilities to a station situated as the Times Square Station is in what is practically the most congested spot on the earth's surface.

"The Commissioner states that the various improvements suggested by the Broadway Association had their foundation in the desire of the contractor to obtain additional work, but that is not true. It is true that when I became Secretary of the Broadway Association I went to the engineer of the contractor in question and told him that I believed he was closer to his job than any one else, and that I had no doubt that he could see opportunities for improvement and that if he could and would bring them to my attention and the Broadway Association considered that they were wise we would take them up.

"Upon having this conversation with Mr. Clark, the engineer of Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins, he showed me a sketch which he had prepared, he stated, nearly a year before but which no one had seen excepting one gentleman, a friend of his. This sketch showed a concourse connecting the mezzanine of the Fortieth-to-Forty-second Street Station. It was a narrow concourse and did not extend from curb line to curb line, and at no time did Mr. Clark suggest a broad concourse. I showed that sketch to George McAneny and requested his opinion of the desirability of the suggestion. He not only approved it but he also made several other suggestions relative to additional facilities immediately north of Forty-second Street and the possibility of moving through trains from the upper west side across Forty-second Street, something that was not contemplated by the commission and is not now, and which cannot be run with the facilities as they are now being constructed.

"When this plan of a concourse was brought to the attention of certain engineers of the Public Service Commission, one of them suggested the wide concourse to extend from building line to building line, permitting merchants to have access to it. Relative to this latter feature, I brought it to the attention of the property owners, and the idea was favorably received by a large percentage of them, but when the attorneys for the Public Service Commission presented the contracts which they would have had to sign, it developed that they had no rights at all permanent, and yet they were expected to contribute $60,000 to the construction of said wide concourse. This effectually killed that suggestion."

Mr. Estes then discusses technically the steps necessary to construct the concourse. Continuing, he says:

"The Commissioner clearly states that the contractor, after agreeing to certain prices, 'welched' on his terms, but he is mistaken, and the correspondence on file with the commission will show it. This impression of his rose out of the fact that on or about March 20, when the contractor was first requested to estimate on the cost of the construction, he submitted a new cost in columns, but stated that the price must be accepted by a certain date. Two months after said date expired, the Chief Engineer of the commission again took up the question of prices, and, from having advanced materially in the meantime, the contractor was forced to get new bids and necessarily to make a new rate. The original bid was submitted on or about March 20. Upon May 5, the Chief Engineer of the commission wrote the contractor regarding prices for building the narrow concourse, and asking if prices already agreed upon for the large one would stand.

"A reply was sent him the same day, stating that the original option held by the contractor had expired and that the lowest price then quoted was $30 per ton more. A day or two later he was orally informed that his new prices were satisfactory and contracts would be drawn up accordingly. Upon May 23 the contracts were delivered to him. Upon examining them, it was discovered that the prices named therein did not agree with those agreed upon with the engineer of the commission, but were for the old rate. The contracts were thereupon returned for correction, and a representative of the contactor promptly called upon the Commissioner having the matter in charge, only to be told that the contractor must accept the terms as written in the contract. The contractor thereupon, on May 28, withdrew his proposal and proceeded to finish the station upon the plans originally made."

FIX SUGAR PRICES AND DISTRIBUTION

10 OR 11 CTS. TO CONSUMER

Conferees representing all branches of the sugar industry, the Federal Food Administration, the municipal authorities, and the retail grocers, met at the office of the American Refiners' Committee of the National Food Administration, 111 Wall Street, yesterday and worked out a plan for the equitable distribution of present sugar stocks and the sale to the consumers. Henry Moskowitz, Commissioner of Markets, presided.

James H. Post, Chairman of the committee, explained that the supply of sugar on hand was only half of the normal and that not only must the consumers economize, but it was up to the retailers by the supervision of their sales to see that the users did save.

The subcommittee which worked out the plan was composed of Mr. Post of the National Sugar Refining Company; E. Y. Crossmore, the American Sugar Refining Company; Sylvester Stix of Seaman Brothers, wholesalers; Andrew Davey, representing the chain stores; Charles H. Haslop, President of the Retail Grocers Association; Joseph Socoloff, representing the small wholesalers; L. P. Hansen of Park & Tilford, representing the large retailers, and Aaron Goldberg, editor of Grocers Guide, representing the Federation of Hebrew Retail Grocers Association.

Fair Price 10 to 11 Cents.

Based upon the Federal Food Administration's price of $8.35 a hundred weight from refiners and $8.60 a hundredweight from wholesalers for bulk granulated sugar, the committee fixed 10 to 11 cents a pound as a fair price from retailer to consumer. The basis of distribution, according to Commissioner Moskowitz, is as follows:

"The sales to each customer will be ascertained for the first six months of the year and his average monthly purchases computed. This figure will be used as the basis for distributing the sugar that the refiners will furnish to the New York territory.

"The refiners will continue their effort to secure some of the beet sugar and Louisiana sugar that is at present available for the country for the Eastern market, to relieve the situation.

"The wholesalers agree to pro rate their distribution on the same basis as the refiners.

"The retailers agree to sell not more than two, three and one-half, or five pounds at any one time to their regular trade, this quantity to last those customers from five days to two weeks, according to the size of the family."

Plans to Enforce Regulations.

These are the methods of enforcement:

"The refiners, the wholesale grocers, and the retail grocers pledge themselves to co-operate through their respective associations and any agencies at their command in the enforcement of this agreement.

"The retailers will report any wholesalers to the Municipal Food Administration if they discover that they have been charged in excess of the agreed price.

"The consumers are asked to report to the Municipal Food Administration any retailers who sell sugar in excess of the agreed price. In the first instance these retailers will be reported to the wholesalers and to refiners if they are customers of the refiners.

"The refiners pledge themselves to refuse to sell to any wholesalers who are taking advantage of this emergency by selling in excess of the agreed price.

"The wholesalers and refiners pledge themselves to refuse to sell to any retailers who are taking advantage of this emergency by selling in excess of the agreed price."

Commissioner Moskowitz, in speaking of the importance of the consumer co-operating with the committee, said it was evident that some consumers were hoarding sugar unnecessarily. They should be made to restrict their purchases to what the family absolutely required. The woman who had already acquired a small supply of sugar should realize that she had a responsibility to the country to use what she had as sparingly as possible so that she would not have to go again into the market. Unless this were adopted, the Commissioner said, other persons would have to go without sugar.

"Restaurateurs, hotels managers, and club stewards should devise economical methods of distributing sugar among their patrons, which should eliminate waste and extravagance in its use," the report said. "The practice of placing a bowl of sugar on the table in a restaurant or lunch room for the patrons' unrestricted use should be abolished.

"When a retailer is trying faithfully to apportion his sugar by restricting the sale of it in small quantities the consumers should co-operate with him by giving him their support.

"The sugar stringency represents the local manifestation of a world condition due to the war. The consuming public should remember that by exercising economy they are aiding our Government in successfully prosecuting the war. The serious stringency is temporary. Relief is forthcoming in the United States through the supply of

"1. United States beet and Hawaiian cane sugars,

"2. Louisiana cane sugar,

"3. Porto Rican and Cuban cane sugars."

Mr. Post said the situation could be easily handled if the public would content itself with less sugar. He pointed out that beet sugar would soon begin to move, and that by the end of the month the refineries would be working.

BUFFALO HAS SUGAR THRILL.

Report of Great Store "Hidden" There Is Discredited.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Reports reached Washington today that a great quantity of hoarded sugar had been discovered in a warehouse in Buffalo. Although no official statement about the discovery could be obtained, it was gathered here that the sugar was in transit and that there was nothing irregular in its being stored there or in the proposed distribution of the supply.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Oct. 23.—A Federal secret service agent has discovered in the Keystone Warehouse here a store of sugar which he estimates at 150 carloads, approximately 10,000,000 pounds.

R. M. Richardson, General Superintendent of the warehouse, said today that the sugar had been shipped from New York, and was under consignment to the "Hyers Condensed Milk Company," of which he had never heard.

"All my negotiations concerning the sugar were had with Clarence W. Doty, Assistant Secretary of the Nestle's Food Company, of 233 Broadway, New York," he declared.

Mr. Robinson said a report of an attempt to hide the sugar behind other goods was "nonsense."

Clarence W. Doty, Assistant Secretary of the Nestle's Food Company, last night denied that the company had 10,000,000 pounds of sugar stored in Buffalo. Asked whether the company had made large shipments of sugar to Buffalo, he said:

"I will not discuss that. But it may be said that we have no such quantity as 150 carloads of sugar, or sixty carloads, at the Keystone Warehouse in Buffalo."

CUBA BANS SUGAR STRIKES.

All Persons Instigating Them to be Expelled from Island.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Oct. 23.—President Menocal today issued a proclamation that all persons instigating strikes in the sugar industry would be expelled as pernicious foreigners.

As a result of an investigation of alleged hoarding of sugar by Cuban planters, the President's Secretary announces that of a total of 50,000 tons on the island, 31,000 belong to Americans, and are subject to American laws, 3,000 to Spaniards, and only 1,000 to Cubans. The Secretary believes that 5,000 tons of the remainder also belong to Americans.

CLUB PLAN PROPOSED TO CUT LIVING COST

New Organization Formed to Buy Food in Car Lots and Distribute It Direct to Grocers.

At a meeting yesterday attended by John J. Dillon, State Commissioner of Food and Markets, and representatives of five labor organizations, a conference to reduce the cost of food was organized. The purpose of the conference will be to endeavor to cut the cost of living by developing the club plan of purchasing from the producers direct. It is the intention to buy food in carload lots and distribute it to the groceries and other agencies direct, without recourse to the so-called middleman. It is estimated that 500,000 wage earners and 300,000 families will benefit from the plan.

Attending the conference, besides Mr. Dillon, were Carl Beck, representing the Labor Forum; H. C. Hillisdorf of the Central Federated Union; Max Pines, representing the United Hebrew Trades; James P. Boyle, Vice President of the Brooklyn Central Labor Union, and Ann Morgan, Maud Schwartz, and Frances Beck of the Women's Trade Union League.

The conference approved the action of the milk producers in making possible the sale of dipped milk at 10 cents a quart, and members of the organizations represented will be urged to support the farmers by buying their milk from the stores where it is sold at this price. It was asserted that the average daily milk consumption of the 500,000 families is two quarts a day, and it was estimated that 10-cent milk would mean a saving of more than $6,000,000 a year.

Commissioner Dillon said a plan was also approved for a large terminal market to be operated under State control. "We are not seeking to use other than legitimate trade sources of distribution," he said. "But we do seek a more economical distribution of food. The organizations represented will do their part in bringing about better conditions. We will co-operate with State, city, and national food agencies. The question is, are we going to get cheaper food or not? I will go far with those who are interested in the food problem, but if these hope to hold to the old system then I will fight. What is wanted now is action and not unending investigations."

The conference will open headquarters at 32 Union Square.

ADMINISTRATION GIVES CHICAGO FOOD PRICES

Federal Supervision Begins With Quotations Which Will Be Published Daily.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Government supervision of food prices went into effect in Chicago today when the first of the daily prices which Harrey A. Wheeler, Food Administrator for Illinois, considers fair were formally announced. Prices as they change will be published daily and, from time to time, as the price committees can agree on prices, other staple articles will be added to the list.

The prices the retailer should pay the wholesaler also will be published so that the consumer may know what the committee considers a fair profit for the retailer. The prices given out today include flour, sugar, and potatoes.

The prices fixed today as fair averages are about what are being asked by representative grocers in Chicago. The prices fixed for flour in quarter-barrel sacks is from $2.91 to $3.15, for which retailers recently have been asking $3.15. On eighth-barrel sacks the price was fixed at $1.49 to $1.60, as against $1.59 asked by the retailer. Five-pound sacks were listed at 36 to 37 cents and retailers were quoting it at 35 cents.

Potatoes jumped in price over night and were quoted by the Food Administrator at 42 to 46 cents a peck, while the grocers were selling them at 40 to 43 cents.

Sugar prices were fixed at 7¾ to 8½ cents a pound, while dealers were asking 8½ and 10 cents. The scarcity of sugar, however, has compelled retailers to pay fancy premiums to get enough to supply their trade. Sales in nearly all cases today were limited to two pounds to a customer when other goods were purchased.

Reports from railroad officials promise some relief from the present shortage of sugar. It was reported that a shipment of 300 cars of beet sugar was on its way from the West. This shipment is said to be practically the first of the new Fall crop and is expected to be followed quickly by others.

Mr. Wheeler pointed out that not all retail grocers had agreed to abide by these prices. The remedy suggested was for consumers to refuse to buy from all grocers who charged higher prices.

3 BUILDINGS BURNED ON RANDALL'S ISLAND

Fire Starting in Laundry of House of Refuge for Boys Causes $100,000 Loss.

INMATES FIGHT FLAMES

Three buildings of the House of Refuge on Randall's Island, a State reformatory for boys, were destroyed by fire last night, causing a loss of $100,000. A fire department of about 100 boys in the institution tried to fight the fire with a small engine and strings of small hose, but it spread so rapidly that E. C. Barber, Suprintendent of the institution, had to send a call for city apparatus. Two fireboats were sent to the island and Fire Chief Kenlon sent out two alarms for apparatus, and finally transported five engine companies to the island on tugs. This apparatus had difficulty in fighting the fire, but managed to put it out, but not until a laundry, a dry room, and a three-story brick school building had been destroyed.

When the fire was discovered in the dry room of the laundry by Fred G. Helbing, parole officer of the institution, Superintendent Barber ordered the 700 boys to leave their dormitories and study halls and stand at a safe distance while the older boys in the institution's fire department got out the fire engine and hose. The blaze spread rapidly from the dry room to a two-story laundry building, about 150 feet long and 30 feet wide, and then to a runway to the primary school, one of about thirteen three-story brick buildings in the school and dormitory system.

The fire had burned out an end of the brick school building when the engine companies arrived from Harlem, but the lines of hose were strung so quickly that the flames were checked before they could reach one of the dormitories only a few feet from the end of the school building. The laundry and the dry room were completely destroyed, however, and firemen said the damage to the school building was so great a new building would have to be erected. About $20,000 worth of new Winter clothing ready for issuance to the inmates was destroyed in the laundry.

Several hundred occupants in the Children's Hospital and schools, city institutions on the north end of the island, became frightened when they saw the flames, but nurses and teachers quieted them quickly and there was no confusion.

The destroyed buildings were on the southwest tip of the island and the fire was seen from Harlem and Washington Heights. Officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad sent anxious inquiries to the Fire Department asking whether their new connecting link bridge across Hell Gate was endangered by the fire.

PADEREWSKI TO HELP HOUSE GATHER DATA

Gives Up Concert Engagements to Prepare Peace Conference Information on Poland.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—That Ignace Paderewski, pianist and leader of the Polish national movement in the United States, would assist Colonel E. M. House in gathering data for use of peace commissioners at the end of the war became known today when Colonel House paid another visit to the White House. Mr. Paderewski has established headquarters in Washington. He has canceled most of his concert engagements and will devote his time to collecting and arranging the mass of details concerning Polish politics, business and nationalist ideals, on which a peace conference would need to be informed before agreeing on Poland's future status.

In the near future Balkan representatives in Washington will endeavor to bring to the attention of Colonel House the wisdom of sending one or more special agents to the Balkan States to make a close personal study of the Balkan question with a view to the acquisition of information for guidance of the United States at the peace conference.

There is a restlessness in the Serbian press, according to dispatches received here today, which is believed to have been caused by vague rumors regarding a possible separate peace between Bulgaria and the Allies.

BERNHARDT IS 73 YEARS OLD

Pays Glowing Tribute to American Women on Her Birthday.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Oct. 23.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt was 73 years old today. France's woman of the hour, saddened but brave in the face of her country's trials, expressed her profound admiration for America.

"It is the American women who move me to such depths of gratitude as much as the men," she said. "I am surprised at the spirit everywhere. America will win the war for France."

Marie Doro at the Plymouth Nov. 5.

The next attraction at the Plymouth Theatre, it is announced, will be Marie Doro in "Barbara," scheduled to follow "A Successful Calamity" on the night of Monday, Nov. 5. "Barbara" is a romantic fantasy by Florence Lincoln, a Radcliffe graduate, who won the Craig Prize in 1911 with a play called "The End of the Bridge." Miss Doro, who has not been seen on the legitimate stage for three years, will be under the management of Arthur Hopkins.

Ask Aid for Victim of Accident.

The Charity Organization Society of 105 East Twenty-second Street has sent out an appeal for contributions to a fund of $125 to aid the family of a pushcart man in Mulberry Street, who has been ill for several months with tuberculosis of the bones. The father of the family had his leg amputated and during his illness the mother has been unable to support the family. The fund is to be used in aiding them through the Winter.

JAMES P. WARBURG TO WED A PIANIST

Son of Federal Reserve Head, a Naval Aviator, Engaged to Miss Katharine F. Swift.

Mrs. Samuel Swift of 309 West 101st Street has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Katharine Faulkner Swift, to James Paul Warburg, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Warburg of Washington, D. C.

Miss Swift is the daughter of the late Samuel Swift, a noted musical and art critic, who died in July, 1914. She has inherited her musical taste and talents from her father, and appeared as the pianist at the recital given on Monday evening by the Edith Rubel Trio at Aeolian Hall, an organization of young women that has made a name for itself in New York, and was very favorably mentioned.

Miss Swift was graduated last year from the Institute of Musical Art with high honors. Her mother was formerly Miss Ellen Mary Faulkner of Leicestershire, England. Her father was for many years with The Evening Mail as musical and art critic. He was one of the founders of the New Music Society of America.

Mr. Warburg is a graduate of Harvard, class of '16, finishing in three years with honors, at the age of nineteen. He belongs to the Harvard Club of New York. Last June he joined the naval reserve, and is now with the marine aviation corps at Norfolk, Va.

His father is Governor of the Federal Reserve, being appointed to the board by President Wilson. Prior to this he was a member of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Director of many banks and industrial corporations. Last June the degree of Doctor of Commercial Science was conferred upon him by the New York University in recognition of his services to the United States Government in connection with finance. He is a brother of Felix M. Warburg, the banker, of this city.

No date has been set for the wedding.

BRITISH BEGIN INQUIRY INTO CONVOY SINKING

Sir Eric Geddes Questioned In Commons—Scandinavia May Protest to Berlin.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Sir Eric Campbell Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty, made his first appearance in the House of Commons this afternoon as representative of the Admiralty to reply to further questions regarding the destruction last week of the convoy of neutral merchantmen and their two destroyer escorts, an inquiry into which already has already been started.

This inquiry, Sir Eric said, would deal with the general question of convoys, which was being reviewed in consequence of the occurrence referred to. He added that it must be realized that occasional isolated raids by surface craft were incidents of war which could not always be prevented.

A joint Scandinavian protest, it is expected, will be lodged against the German sinking of the neutral steamers under convoy in the North Sea Wednesday, according to a dispatch to The Morning Post from Stockholm.

PLAN BIRDLESS HAT SHOW.

Natural History Club to Give Prizes at Benefit for Red Cross.

A birdless hat show for the benefit of the Bronx County Chapter of the Red Cross will be given under the auspices of the Natural History Club, at the Bronx Church House, 171st Street and Fulton Avenue, Bronx, on Nov. 9 and 10.

This is the first exhibition of its kind ever given here, and prizes will be awarded to the best featherless hats made by professional and amateur milliners. The object of the contest is to demonstrate the practicability of making women's hats attractive without the use of birds or feathers, which involves the destruction of bird life.

Mrs. Russell Sage, Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, Mrs. H. Fairfield Osborn, Mrs. William T. Hornaday, Mrs. William W. Niles, and Mrs. F. F. Thompson are among the patronesses.

Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological Park, is to give an address both evenings on the proper and improper use of feathers.

MISS HELEN CRAWFORD WEDS.

The Bride of the Rev. Lewis Bliss Whittemore in Christ Church.

Miss Helen Marie Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Crawford of 125 Riverside Drive, was married yesterday afternoon to the Rev. Lewis Bliss Whittemore, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Whittemore of Hartford, Conn., at Christ Church. The Rev. Edwin J. Van Etten officiated.

Miss Virginia F. Crawford was her sister's maid of honor, and Dr. E. Reed Whittemore of New Haven was best man. The ushers were H. Nicholas Edwards, Charles A. Roberts, Edward Barber, and the Rev. Perry Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore will reside in Pittsburgh, where Mr. Whittemore is to be assistant minister at Calvary Church.

SHONTS WEDDING DELAYED.

Illness of Mrs. T. P. Shonts Causes Postponement of Daughter's Nuptial

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Theodore P. Shonts, the wedding of her daughter, Miss Marguerite Shonts, to Rutherfurd Bingham of the United States Diplomatic Service will not take place for some time yet.

According to a report published yesterday, the wedding was fixed for Nov. 7 in St. Thomas's Church.

It was learned last evening at the home of Miss Shonts, 399 Park Avenue, that all plans for the marriage, which was to have been celebrated early in November, no date having been fixed, have been abandoned until Mrs. Shonts recovers.

The engagement was announced about a fortnight ago. Mr. Bingham is a son of General and Mrs. Theodore A. Bingham.

Miss Rose to Wed Captain Lovett.

Mr. and Mrs. Oswald John Cammann Rose of Geneva, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Christina Livingston Rose, to Captain Norman Francis Lovett, son of Antoine de B. Lovett and a grandson of the late William H. Bogart of Aurora, N. Y. Captain Lovett is now stationed at Camp Devens, Mass. No date has been set for the wedding.

A Son to Mrs. Joseph B. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Thomas are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son at their home, 135 East Nineteenth Street. Mrs. Thomas was formerly Miss Clara Fargo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Fargo of New York and Tuxedo Park. Mr. Thomas is a brother of the late Ralph H. Thomas, whose widow is shortly to wed Prince Viora of Albania.

Engagements.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen C. Baldwin of Brooklyn announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Faith Baldwin, to Francis Dayton Canfield 3d, son of Mrs. Francis D. Canfield, Jr., of Yonkers.

Mrs. I. Franklin Wardwell of Stamford, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Embury Wardwell, to Charles Arthur Betts, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Betts, also of Stamford.

Mr. and Mrs. William I. Overstreet of 251 West Eighty-first Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marie Overstreet, to Dr. Jesse Harvey Patrick of West Chester, Penn.

MARKS GREETS DENTISTS.

National Association Buys $20,000 Worth of Liberty Bonds.

The twenty-first annual session of the National Dental Association opened yesterday morning at the Hotel Astor, for the first convention of the association in this city. Following an invocation by the Rev. Dr. Ernest N. Stires, Borough President Marcus M. Marks welcomed the delegates, congratulating them on having established their profession on an equal plane with that of medicine and surgery. Dr. Henry W. Morgan of Nashville, Tenn., responded, and Dr. Lafayette L. Barber of Toledo, Ohio, President of the association, then delivered his address. Dr. E. C. Rosenow, associate of the Mayo Brothers at Rochester, Minn., delivered the annual oration.

J. Howard Ardrey, Vice President of the National Bank of Commerce, appealed for subscriptions to the Second Liberty Loan, and Dr. Barber announced that the Board of Trustees of the association had voted to subscribe $20,000 for bonds. The relation of dentistry to the war and what the dentist has done and can do in the service to the nation will play a conspicuous part in the proceedings of the convention, which will last through next Friday. The Preparedness League of American Dentists, through which most of the patriotic service of the dentists has been contributed, met yesterday afternoon at the Astor and will hold another session this afternoon.

FATALLY HURT BY TAXICAB.

Mrs. Julius Seymour Dies of Injuries Suffered When Struck.

Mrs. Jeannie F. Seymour, wife of Julius Seymour, an attorney of 233 Broadway, died last night in Roosevelt Hospital as the result of injuries she suffered when she was struck by a taxicab at Central Park West and Seventy-fourth Street on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Seymour, whose home was at the Belnord, Broadway and Eighty-sixth Street, was crossing the street to board an Eighth Avenue car when a taxicab, driven by Louis Houine of 301 East Seventeenth Street, knocked her down.

Before her marriage Mrs. Seymour was Miss Jeannie F. Billings, the daughter of James M. Billings of this city. She was the Secretary of the Martha Washington Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and was prominent in the activities of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church. Besides her husband she is survived by her daughter, Mrs. J. Bryant Leake of Rye, N. Y.

John C. Sullivan, Engineer.

John C. Sullivan, engineer and contractor and formerly Assistant Superintendent of the O'Rourke Engineering Construction Company, died yesterday at his home, 465 Central Park West, in his fifty-first year. Mr. O'Rourke was a native of Holyoke, Mass., and came to this city fifteen years ago. As Assistant Superintendent of the O'Rourke Engineering Construction Company he had charge of the construction of one of the North River tunnels of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Later he built one of the sections of the Ashokan Dam. At the time of his death he had the contract from the City of New York to build a sewer in West Forty-sixth Street from Seventh Avenue to the Hudson River.

Eugene A. Eberle.

Eugene A. Eberle, an actor who had played in many leading productions during the sixty years of his career, died yesterday at Chatham, N. Y., in his seventy-ninth year. Mr. Eberle was carried on the stage at Bangor, Me., when he was four months old, and almost twenty years later made his début in the same city, playing Paris in "Romeo and Juliet." He subsequently supported Charlotte Cushman in Shakespearean rôles. Later he joined Joseph Jefferson, playing Tackleton in "The Cricket on the Hearth." He played four seasons with Otis Skinner and two with Annie Russell. He was last seen as Senator Roberts in the original "Lion and the Mouse" company at the Lyceum Theatre. Mr. Eberle married Mrs. G. F. Tyrrell, an actress, fifty years ago.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Interest in stock transactions yesterday centred largely upon United States Steel and the Marine issues—in Steel because of the quarterly dividend meeting to be held next Tuesday, and in Marine because of a revival of the familiar story that the company is preparing to pay off a part of the $8 per cent. accumulation in back dividends. Steel sold up to 106 and back to 104⅝, closing at 105. The expectation in the Street is that the corporation will not reduce its rate at this meeting, especially as it has set aside enough of its earnings to cover its estimated payment under the excess profits tax. The striking changes which have taken place in the steel industry since the last dividend meeting, including Government price fixing, increase in wages and the new war taxes, have whetted the Street's curiosity as to the attitude which the directors will take at the forthcoming meeting.

International Mercantile Marine preferred rose yesterday on active dealings to 91¾, and closed at 90½, with a net advance of 2⅜ for the session. The stock sold down to 75⅝ only last week, and the back payments of dividends have been featured so strongly in previous market movements that traders accepted it rather skeptically, despite the admission of interests close to the company that the matter had been informally discussed. The liquidation of gas stocks culminated in a break in Consolidated to 83, but from that low level the stock rallied quickly to 86, at which figure it closed with a net advance of ½ point for the day. Peoples Gas dropped to 97, off 2 points, while Ohio Cities lost ⅞.

The action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in practically insisting upon the submission of the railroads' case for higher rates on Nov. 5, when the executives had suggested a delay of two months, supported a growing belief that the Commission is thoroughly awake to the serious situation which has developed through the inability of the roads, or many of them, to provide additional facilities or even to properly care for existing plants. In responsible quarters it is felt that the Commission will grant substantial relief, but the market did not reflect this expectation in the action of rails most actively dealt in yesterday. Reading closed off 1¼, New York Central was unchanged, and Union Pacific declined 2⅜ to 120¾. The weakness in the last named issue was explained on the ground of the unsatisfactory earnings statement for September. Although gross revenue in that month increased by $878,900, net earnings decreased $801,000. The operating expenses for the month were heavier by $1,266,000, or more than 23 per cent. The carriers are running out of material bought on a contract basis years ago, when much lower prices prevailed, and from now on their maintenance accounts are likely to show higher costs without indicating any improvement in the standard of upkeep.

The attention of Wall Street today will be concentrated upon the drive for delayed subscriptions to the Liberty Loan, and it is expected that the country's total will be pushed over the $3,000,000,000 limit before nightfall. If that is accomplished the remaining three days of the campaign should bring the total applications well above $4,000,000,000, if not up to the $5,000,000,000 mark, which is being aimed at. The New York Stock Exchange and other trading markets will be closed at noon to allow brokers and their employes to take part in the Liberty Loan parade.

LONDON MARKET IS STEADY.

Sustained Demand for High-Yielding Investment Stocks.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Money was in fair demand and supply today. Discounts were quiet. National war bond sales last week totaled £18,000,000.

The stock market was quietly steady with a sustained demand for high yielding investment stocks and a good absorption. Oil and shipping shares were the principal features. Argentine rails benefited from the resumption of traffic. Home rails eased on lack of support. Russians made no recovery.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 62 francs 50 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 27 francs 18 centimes. Five per cent. loan 88 francs 60 centimes.

THE COTTON MARKET

Lively Flurry in October Only Feature in Otherwise Quiet Day.

Aside from a lively flurry in October cotton, caused by the urgent need of supplies to cover themselves withal by a group of traders who had gone heavily short on the spot month, the local cotton market was rather quiet yesterday. December and January contracts, however, showed the influence of the excited bidding for October deliveries, and the general list ultimately closed steady at a net advance of from 16 to 93 points.

The market opened steady, 16 to 28 points up, with a rather unfavorable weather map, and rather more of an overnight accumulation of buying orders in evidence than usual. Liverpool, however, came on the market with considerable sales, and there was considerable realizing during the early trading. A number of traders seemed anxious to even up long contracts, partly, perhaps, for today's half holiday and partly to avoid trouble on tomorrow's census report on ginning.

At this point the market had sagged off about 3 or 4 points below Monday's close, losing all the earlier strength. Then Southern spot advices began to come in, showing a much smaller supply available than the shorts had apparently calculated. Their nervousness became evident, and a concerted volley of orders sent them stampeding to cover, and sent October cotton soaring 100 points in a brief interval.

The weather map showed continued cold weather in the South, but the freezing temperatures reported were in sections previously visited by killing frosts. Local map readers apprehended that the cold wave would extend further East, and the official forecast was for colder weather in Eastern belt sections, with heavy frosts in parts of Alabama and Mississippi. The failure of these features to bring in a broader demand was a factor on the early setback, but Southern spot advices suggested that reduced crop figures have strengthened the views of holders. Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged to 38 points higher with a moderate volume of business. Exports for the day were 31,364 bales, including more than 25,000 bales from New York.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The most important development in the wheat position was an announcement that the Wheat Corporation has made arrangements with the Canadian Government by which large quantities of Canadian wheat will be imported into the United States to relieve the shortage of wheat and flour in the Eastern sections. As the importation of this wheat will relieve the necessity of drawing from the Northwest, the rule which recently went into effect curtailing the output at Northwestern mills was rescinded, and it was the prevailing opinion that the situation will be very materially relieved.

RYE.—Market firm; No. 2 Western, $1.90, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

CORN.

The corn trade was very much upset yesterday by reports from Chicago that there is every probability of trading in the December position being restricted or suspended altogether. The Chicago Board of Trade is expected to take definite action on the matter, and it was announced by the President of the Chicago Board that the Directors had determined to adhere to their policy of conforming to the wishes of President Wilson and the Food Administration, and will take any action necessary to fully support the authorities in Washington. Plans for the control of trading in corn were considered by the board on Monday afternoon, and, while no definite action was taken then, it was the consensus of opinion that restrictions will be put into effect in the very near future. In view of this expectation, there was active unduing of spreads between December and May, and the December position lost 1⅜c, while May remained practically unchanged. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.07 and No. 2 mixed at $2.05, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

Price changes in the oats market were narrow, the close being ⅛@¼c net lower. The undertone was easy in sympathy with corn, but there was comparatively little pressure from the country, and receipts were again moderate. There was a fair export inquiry, but total sales were comparatively small, aggregating about 200,000 bushels. The local cash market was quiet, standard quoted at 66¼@67c; No. 2 white, 67c; No. 3 white, 66@66½c; No. 4 white, 65½@66c; fancy clipped white, 67⅛@68½c; ordinary clipped white, 66½@67½c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was again weak under renewed selling, prompted by a further decline of 15c to 20c in the price of live hogs. The action of corn and fears of Government control had considerable to do with the selling pressure, and it was said that the cash demand was less active. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 21,000, estimated for Wednesday, 25,000; Kansas City received 8,000 and Omaha 3,000 hogs.

COFFEE.

The coffee market continued quiet yesterday, with very little change in prices. The opening was 1 point lower under scattering liquidation, but offerings were absorbed by buying, which seemed to come partly from trade interests, and the close was net unchanged to 3 points higher. The local spot market was dull, with Rio grades lower on the basis of 8c for Rio 7s, while Santos was unchanged at 9½c for 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The raw sugar situation was without any change, but it was believed that the National Commission was taking over small lots of raw sugar at 6.90c, duty paid basis, for distribution among local refiners. Refined sugar continued in good demand, but all refiners were reported to be practically withdrawn owing to lack of raw material. The American and Howell's are the only two taking business, and they are filling old business in a very limited way. It is believed that the Government is trying to relieve the situation in the East by rushing domestic beets here from the West, but shipments are uncertain, and it is not thought that this sugar can become available here for several weeks to come. Spot quotations follow: Centrifugal, 6.90c; molasses, 6.02c, cost and freight, 5¼c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 8,447 packages. Pretty good buying interest and market gained another ½c on most grades of fresh creamery, and the feeling was quite firm at the advanced figures quoted. EGGS.—Receipts, 13,438 cases. The market is quiet and generally weak and in buyers' favor. New-laid qualities are scarce and are becoming scarcer. The few lots of fresh gathered stock that contain a good to large proportion of these high-grade, full-bodied eggs are meeting a fair demand at sustained prices, but the accumulations of more seriously mixed and lower qualities are dragging heavily and favor the buyer under pressure to sell, demand being affected at the decline in refrigerators. Dirties and checks are also lower under the competition of better eggs of other kinds. Storage eggs are unsettled and irregular. There is pressure to sell in some quarters and lower prices are being accepted. Nearby white eggs are scarce, and fancy new-laid qualities still favor the seller, with some further advance in prices obtainable. RAILWAY INCOME DROPPED IN AUGUST

Net $8,000,000 Less Than a Year Ago, Despite $38,000,000 Increase in Gross Revenue.

MOUNTING COSTS TO BLAME

Figures Railroads Will Use in Asking Higher Rates Made Public by Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Figures showing the expenses and receipts of the railroads of the country for August last, with those for eight months of 1917, issued today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, present general decreases in net income. The drop for the Eastern roads is marked. On these figures and those to be presented for later months, railroad lawyers say, they will base their argument for increased rates at the 15 per cent. hearing on Nov. 5.

The returns, prepared by the Bureau of Statistics of the Interstate Commerce Commission, give the financial information on 230,812 miles of railroad. August railway net revenues were less by approximately $8,000,000 than in August, 1916. This reduction was shown in the face of an increase of approximately $38,000,000 in gross revenues. The figures cover all roads in the country.

Eastern roads, the compilation shows, fell approximately $3,690,000 below net income of a year ago; Western roads had a decrease of approximately $2,300,000, and Southern roads a decrease of about $100,000.

Comparisons for August.

Gross revenues for all roads, the compilation shows, were $365,055,298, as compared with $326,950,719 a year ago, an increase of approximately 13 per cent. Operating expenses, however, rose from $203,307,968 to $246,128,383, an increase of more than 20 per cent., leaving net revenues of $118,926,915, about $4,700,000 less than a year ago.

Operating income, representing net revenues after the deduction of taxes and uncollectible items, for last August totaled $101,984,981, as compared with $109,869,815. These figures show that the railroads of the country, at this rate, which is regarded as a fair average for the year, will have an aggregate net income of approximately $1,200,000,000 in 1917.

Gross revenues of Eastern roads increased about $19,000,000, while expenses increased about $22,000,000. Operating income of Eastern roads last August was $44,148,593.

Operating revenues and expenses, including heavier taxes, of Southern roads, increased approximately $3,000,000 in each instance, leaving operating income of $13,110,281, or approximately the same as last year.

Western roads showed an increase in gross revenues of less than $11,000,000, the smallest percentage of any group. Gross revenues for these roads were $145,515,596. Operating expenses increased $13,638,000, leaving, after the deduction of taxes, net operating income of $44,626,107, as compared with $48,-920,675 in August, 1916.

Eastern Roads' Finances.

Returns from the Eastern roads for the eight months of 1917, compared with the same months in 1916, follow:

	1917.	1916.
Average number of miles operated..	59,198	59,189
Ry. oper. revs....	$1,179,770,720	$1,073,559,264
Ry. oper. expenses	875,484,472	726,947,399
Net rev. from ry. operation ...	304,286,248	346,611,865
Ry. oper. income.	256,212,320	304,730,764
Revenues per mile	19,929	18,138
Expenses per mile	14,789	12,282
Net rev. per mile.	5,140	5,856
Income per mile..	4,328	5,148

The Eastern roads, operating 59,007 miles, had an income per mile of $748 in August last, which was a loss of $58 per mile from the previous August. The income of the Southern roads per mile in August last was $307, a loss of $2 from the previous August. The Western roads had an income per mile of $346 in August last and $381 in the same month of last year.

In the eight months ended in August the income per mile of the railroads of the country was $2,811, compared with $2,944 in the eight like months of last year. The income per mile of the Eastern roads in this period of this year was $4,328, while it was $5,148 in this period in 1916. The Western roads had an income of $2,406 in the eight months of this year, and $2,330 in the same months last year. The Western roads had an income per mile in the eight months of this year of $2,248, and $2,731 in the same months of last year.

Approve Jersey Railroad Merger.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 23.—The State Board of Public Utility Commissioners has approved an agreement of merger and consolidation between the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the following connecting railroads, which are all a part of the Central's system, but which have been operating under separate corporate names: Buena Vista Railroad Company, Carteret & Sewaren Railroad Company, Carteret Extension Railroad Company, Cumberland & Maurice River Railroad Company, Cumberland & Maurice River Extension Railroad Company, Elizabeth Extcnsion Railroad Company, Freehold & Atlantic Highlands Railroad Company, Lafayette Railroad Company, Manufacturers' Extension Railroad Company, Middle Brook Railroad Company, New Jersey Terminal Railroad Company, New Jersey Southern Railroad Company, Navesink Railroad Company, Passaic River Extension Railroad Company, Raritan River Shore Railroad Company, Sound Shore Railroad Company, Toms River Railroad Company, Toms River & Barnegat Railroad Company, Vineland Railroad Company, Vineland Branch Railway Company, West Side Connecting Railroad Company, and the West End Railroad Company.

UNITED MOTORS EARNINGS.

The United Motors Corporation in the year ended June 30 earned a net income of $7,621,743, the amount left from gross sales of $34,820,526 after expenses had been met. The final surplus available for dividends was $7,304,222, equal to slightly more than $6.50 a share of outstanding stock. The company comprises a number of concerns manufacturing automobile accessories and primary parts.

The annual report, to be issued soon, shows assets amounting to $56,339,609, of which the value of good-will and patents accounts for $21,558,513. The inventory at the end of the year totaled $14,387,735, compared with $8,717,300 a year before. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President, says in his statement to shareholders that the year's earnings were absorbed in the company's working capital.

SPECULATORS IN TRAP, PAY HIGH COTTON PRICE

Caught Heavily Short, They Bid October Up Nearly $5 a Bale —Record Since Civil War.

A considerable party of speculators on the local cotton market, having gone heavily short of October cotton, were caught yesterday and in the ensuing squeeze were compelled to bid the price up on this contract, now the spot month, nearly $5 a bale before getting out of the trap. The resulting price of 29.21 is by far the highest price of the season, and the highest at which cotton has sold since civil war times.

The operation furnished for a time as much excitement as has been seen on the local cotton market in some months, and thoroughly enlivened what otherwise might have been a rather dull and inactive day. It was not until they offered approximately $7.50 a bale more than the then price for December contracts that the unlucky ones were able to get hold of a supply sufficient to cover themselves. They had not, however, apparently entirely succeeded in escaping when the session closed, for although the price sagged off somewhat toward the close, spirited bidding was still going on at 29.10, when the gong rang.

Promotions in Central Trust Co.

The Central Trust Company yesterday announced the promotion of C. R. Berrien and F. J. Leary to be Vice Presidents of the company. Mr. Leary will have his desk at the main office, and Mr. Berrien, who was formerly financial editor of The New York Sun, will have charge of the Forty-second Street branch.

UNITED STATES GOVT. BONDS

Inasmuch as the bulk of the business in United States Government bonds is done over the counter, and not on the Stock Exchange, THE TIMES gives the following quotations, obtained from bond dealers:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

In the last hour on the Consolidated Stock Exchange prices showed a tendency to rally with the exception of the leading rails and several of the specialties. The weakest of the shares at the closing was Union Pacific, which was offered freely and declined 3¼ points with the final transaction at the day's low. Steel common moved within a very narrow range, little more than a point separating the day's high and low, with the close unchanged from Monday's last transaction.

Hosiery Trade in Abeyance.

In the local hosiery market it is said that activity is conspicuous by its absence. Though there is reported no lack of demand for merchandise, mills do not seem to look with favor on future commitments. They are still way behind on Fall deliveries, and the cotton and yarn situation is such as not to admit of any extensive price fixing for the future. Labor conditions, and the needle scarcity are other thorns in the sides of mill managers, and the future continues to be more or less of an unknown quantity.

Knitted Scarfs and Caps Selling.

Knitted scarfs with caps to match are one of the leading features of the season so far in sport clothes for women, according to reports from the local trade. Attractive sets made up in Scotch plaid color effects are said to be very much in favor. Some in alternating candy stripes of blue and white and other harmonising colors are selling well. Slip-over middy type wool sweaters, in colors matching or contrasting with the scarf and cap sets, with large angora collars and cuffs and pearled at the waist, are also in demand.

Cap Sales Large This Season.

One result of the higher prices asked for men's hats this season has been to increase the sale of caps materially. Youths are said to be the chief buyers of them in the metropolitan district, but outside of this city the older men appear to be taking them as well. A feature is the demand for the better goods, one house reporting the sale of more $3 caps now than it formerly sold in the $2 cost grade. This is attributed to the fact that, compared with current hat prices an expensive cap still looks cheap to the buyer. One novelty seen here is a belted trench effect to go with the trench overcoat, the belt running across the top of the cap. It is made with a square visor, both an army and fancy cloths, and retails at $1 to $2. It may also be used for automobile wear.

Crude Rubber Prices Still Drop.

Despite a little more activity in the local crude rubber market in the last week, prices continue to drop slowly. Fair buying was done by some manufacturers, but measured with the amount of rubber that would be changing hands at this time of a normal year, the quantity disposed of was small. The spot Brazilians were quoted this way here yesterday: Up-river fine, 63½ cents; up-river coarse, 41½ cents, and upper Caucho ball, 38 cents. These were the figures asked for the leading plantation rubbers: First latex, 62½ cents; smoked sheets, 61 cents.

Embossed Silk Jersey Popular.

Embossed silk jersey in suits and frocks is reported by local manufacturers to be one of the leading fabrics of the season. In fact, it is said all jersey weaves, in wool as well as in silk, lightweight as well as heavy, have gained wide acceptance because of their superior wearing qualities and their neat, smart appearance. It is pointed out that they lend themselves particularly well to the straight, narrow silhouette that is becoming so much in vogue this year, and that their clinging elasticity gives an attractive suggestion of figure outline. The leading colors are said to be beige, browns, fawns, and the darker shades of blue. Beaver is the favored fur for trimmings on garments of this fabric in most cases.

Anthracite Buyers Anxious.

The Coal Trade Journal will say today that the wide publicity given to "coal famine" stories during the last week has intensified the alarm among anthracite users who have no stocks on hand, and the return of cooler weather has also played a part in stirring up the public. The resultant increased demand has come at a time when it seems as if shipments are on an even lighter scale than earlier in the season. The long delay in revising the official price list of soft coal, so that operators could raise wages, has resulted in a further loss of labor at the mines. Workers who remained have been restless and little inclined to work steadily.

Very Fine Waists Also Sought.

Several of the local waist manufacturers report that, while there unquestionably is the greatest demand for popular priced waists, there is also an active market for the very expensive creations. "Those manufacturers who run principally to waists which retail for $12 and $15," said one authority in the trade, "probably are not doing a big business. But the market for garments from $20 up and from $30 or $35 down was never better. I should say this would indicate that the people who have got money are making money and spending it, and that business women are making money and spending it, but that the moderately well to do people are either putting on the brakes or buying Liberty bonds to their capacity."

Wholesalers Cannot Bank Them.

Due to the present high prices, retailers are importuning wholesalers for an extension of their usual terms, says the October bulletin of the New York Credit Men's Association. In part, it goes on: "The local banker is the logical source of financial assistance. The retailer cannot expect that the wholesaler, either from choice or necessity, will give longer credit or a greater limit, for the latter also must obtain funds and employ his full credit in obtaining accommodations required to maintain his normal volume of trade. It is natural for the volume demand for goods to lessen with the advance in prices, but recent experience has shown that trade volume has decreased less than 25 per cent. in staples, while prices have advanced 100 per cent. and over. The difference must be supplied by an increase in liquid capital."

Plainer Scarfs for Spring.

The continuance of the demand for vividly colored scarfs has not deterred a prominent maker of these goods from predicting "quieter" colorings for next Spring. "There are several reasons why bright ties will be less in demand this Spring than for a long time," he said yesterday. "One is that by that time our men will be actively engaged in fighting, and the temper and tastes of the public will change as the casualty lists come out. Another reason is that by Spring a second draft of young men will probably have been called to the colors, depleting by the number taken the prospective buyers of the so-called 'snappy' goods. The older men who remain, while they doubtless will buy just as expensive ties as they ever did before, are generally not the type who go in for high colors."

Gray Goods Prices Stiffen.

The sharp rise in cotton yesterday stung gray goods buyers in this market into further action, in spite of the unwillingness of many of them to trade at current prices. Among the sales reported during the day were 38½-inch 64-60s at 10⅝ cents for November-December shipment, with most mills now holding for 10⅝ cents. Bids of 7¾ cents for narrow goods of this construction, for nearby delivery, were refused in certain quarters, but are reported to have been taken in others. Some narrow Southern 64-60s have been withdrawn for the time being. Business was reported on 39-inch 68-72s at 12¼ cents for nearby delivery, with December-January sales of 38½-inch 60-48s made at 9¼ cents. For 39-inch 56-44s some houses are asking 8⅝ cents for any shipment this side of February. Among the sheetings sold were four-yard 56-60s, which, for nearby shipment, brought 13¾ cents. Print-cloth prices averaged this way at the close:

39-inch, 72-76s	14c	38½-inch, 64-56s	*10¼c
39-inch, 67-72s	12¼c	38½-inch, 60-52s	9½c
39-inch, 56-44s	8⅞c	38½-inch, 60-48s	9¼c

CIVIC SHOW OPENS TONIGHT.

Models of New York Will Be Exhibited at City College.

The municipal exhibit of the College of the City of New York opens tonight with introductory exercises in the Great Hall of the institution. New York City's only civic exhibit will be placed in the Lincoln Corridor of the college and will be open to the public for three weeks.

The models, pictures, and charts which were displayed at the Panama-Pacific Exposition have been brought up to date through the co-operation of the heads of the various city departments and form the nucleus of the display. It is hoped the models will be installed in the Commerce Building of the college as a permanent civic and commercial museum.

ENDS COPPER STRIKE ON NEW PRINCIPLES

PROVIDES FOR MEDIATION

Re-employment and Workers' Committee Agreed On—Great War Supply Involved.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The big copper strike in the Globe-Miami district of Arizona, which has resulted in a loss of more than 60,000,000 pounds of copper since it began on July 2, has been settled, according to a telegram from the Labor Commission which President Wilson sent to Arizona on account of the Governments' need for copper for use in the manufacture of munitions.

The commission is headed by Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor, and its other members were Colonel J. L. Spangler of Pennsylvania, Verner Z. Reed of Colorado, John H. Walker of Illinois, and E. P. March of Washington. Felix Frankfurter of New York is acting as Secretary.

News of the settlement was sent to the President today in a telegram from the commission, which read, in part:

"The strike in the Globe-Miami copper district of Arizona is settled. The President's Mediation Commission has succeeded in working out a plan of adjustment which has been accepted by the managers of the Old Dominion, Miami, Inspiration, and the International Smelter, the controlling mines; President Moyer of the International Union of Mine, Mill, and Smelter Works, and the local unions which are out on strike.

"This means the early resumption of copper production at its full capacity by the single most important copper centre in Arizona, if not in the United States. The normal monthly output of the Globe-Miami district is about 21,000,000 pounds of copper, requiring a working force of over 5,000 men.

"The country must have the maximum uninterrupted output of copper during the period of the war. No grievances on the part of the workers, whether well founded or imaginary, must be allowed to result in stoppage of production. Practicable machinery must be devised for the adjustment of grievances. To carry these principles into execution the plan of settlement reached by the President's Commission embodies the following chief features:

"First, the establishment of a workers' committee for each mine, wholly independent of any influence, direct or indirect, to be exercised by the company. This committee is to be composed exclusively of men working at each mine with the right, however, of union members to have a union representative in the presentation of grievances.

"Second, the employment of those now on strike, except those guilty of seditious utterances against the United States or those who have membership in an organization that does not recognize the obligation of contract. In providing for the re-employment, an important principle is introduced in that the district is treated as an individual unit, instead of the individual mine. Re-employment is to be secured through a central employment committee for the district. This provision is made because the labor shortage of the district, as well as the growing labor shortage throughout the country, requires the full utilization of all available man power and the regulated employment of the men on strike.

Third, the impartial and effective working of the scheme is assured through the appointment of a United States arbitrator, acceptable to both sides, who is to determine all disputed questions of fact. The machinery thus provided is in substitution for strikes and lockouts during the period of the war.

TO KEEP OUR ARMY HAPPY.

Camp Recreation Service Plans Big Drive for Funds Next Month.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—A nation-wide drive for funds to carry on the War Camp Community Recreation Service will be made the week of Nov. 4 to 10. This was decided in a resolution adopted today at a national conference held here with representatives present from all parts of the country.

Secretary Baker, the principal speaker of the meeting, praising the war camp community work, declared that the soldiers must be adequately housed and clothed, but that he wanted them to have also "that invisible armor, that moral and intellectual armor, that new soldier state of mind for their protection overseas."

"Two things this work is going to do," said Mr. Baker. "It will bring our soldiers back to us better citizens; and it will awaken in American cities a sense of responsibility and an opportunity that is going a long way toward solving the old, vexed problem of how best to make cities safe for the youth of our land."

John N. Willys of Toledo, national Chairman of the committee charged with the task of raising the fund of "three dollars for each soldier and sailor" needed for war camp community work, presided at the conference and at the session of the National Committee held to make final plans for the campaign. Raymond B. Fosdick, Chairman of the War and Navy Department Commissions on Training Camp Activities, told of the entire work being done for the betterment of the soldiers, and defined the relation between that being done outside the camps by the War Camp Community Recreation Service with that being done inside the camps by other agencies.

Major General George Barnett, head of the United States Marine Corps, declared that he was in full sympathy with the work and that he knew the value of it. "To have an efficient army," said General Barnett, "you must have a happy army. A discontented army is an inefficient army, whether that discontent is due to poor food, clothing, or other causes."

WILL SEIZE COAL IN ANY FUEL CRISIS

Garfield to Requisition 10 Per Cent. of Output Whenever Consumers Need It.

NOTIFIES ALL PRODUCERS

Administrator Tells Operators at Pittsburgh They Must Unite Behind the President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Word has gone out to coal operators throughout the country from the Fuel Administration that the Government, in any coal crisis that may develop during the war, intends to requisition one-tenth of the coal supply at the mine, for use of the consumer.

This decision on the part of the Fuel Administration was reached within the last few days. It means that enough coal will be commandeered by the Government in emergency to supply any locality that falls short of its actual demand.

The Government will take over the 10 per cent. of the production of any mine, bituminous or anthracite, whenever a contingency arises that cannot be met in the ordinary way. If a locality finds itself without coal and its dealers are unable to provide it, the Fuel Administration will step in and see that the coal is delivered.

Not only will the Fuel Administration see that an ample supply is given to localities that need it, but the price to be paid for the coal will be that fixed by the Government itself. The Fuel Administration recently fixed a price of $2 a ton at the mine for bituminous coal and approximately $4 a ton for anthracite, arranging a schedule of prices for the jobber and the retailer so as to allow a reasonable profit.

The decision of the Fuel Administration to commandeer 10 per cent. of the coal product in emergency, it was explained tonight, does not in any sense cast a reflection upon the coal operators. The Government felt impelled to do it so as to provide the way for an ample supply of coal to consumers as against other contracts that, in many instances, were found to militate against delivery to the householder.

The Government felt obliged to step in between the coal operators and long-standing contracts that were calculated to deprive the ordinary consumer of his coal. In various localities this situation has developed during the last few months and with the Winter coming on the Fuel Administration felt that a drastic step was necessary, if a grave coal shortage to the consumer was to be avoided.

In its operation, the Fuel Administration's action simply means taking over enough coal from every mine within a given radius to supply the demands of an exhausted market. The Government's decree will be supreme. Its own price to producers will prevail in purchasing the coal and it will sell at the schedule recently fixed.

As applied tonight, any coal shortage that may occur, whether in New York, Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, or elsewhere, may be speedily relieved by order of the Fuel Administration to ship coal to any centre it demands.

The weekly output of bituminous coal during October was approximately 11,000,000 tons and the anthracite output considerably less. The Government would be able, under the decision of the Fuel Administration, to commandeer at least 1,100,000 tons of bituminous coal during the Winter season and at least half that amount of anthracite each week. This influx of coal to the consumer, above the ordinary output, it is calculated, will be sufficient to save any emergency.

To facilitate the movement of coal through Hampton Roads for Government and New England accounts, officials of the Chesapeake & Ohio, Norfolk & Western and Virginia Railroads agreed with the Fuel Administration today to furnish bunker coal to transient steamers in midstream. This will make available increased pier space for coal cargo carriers.

GARFIELD CALLS FOR UNITY.

Tells Coal Men to Lay Aside Differences and Get Together.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 23.—Harry A. Garfield, National Fuel Administrator, addressing coal producers from every field in the country here today, pleaded for leaders of the industry to lay aside all differences and get behind President Wilson in the fight against Germany. Mr. Garfield conferred with Joseph F. Guffey, National Petroleum Administrator; W. K. Field, President of the National Coal Association, and David W. Kuhn, Pittsburgh fuel operator, before addressing the operators.

"There are three aspects of the coal industry and of the situation, each related to the other," said Mr. Garfield. "They are coal, the people and the war. To put it in another way, they are the relation of the coal industry to the war, and the attitude of those engaged in the coal industry to the people and the war.

"If you are thinking of your own interests as operators you are thinking of the return that will come to you from the industry. But in the face of civilization you cannot consider the question of profits in your industry without considering the effect on the people and the effect on the war.

"Those who control great profits are employing people who would share those profits. Those who labor in the mines think of their own interests. Their leaders are endeavoring to enlighten the wage earners of their moral responsibility in this emergency.

"As a generation of men we have been trained in the rights of peace, and resent any suggestion that the Government can reach out and take hold of our interests. We are now a people at war. Is it any more violent that the Government should reach out and take our sons from our homes and place them in grave danger and even demand sacrifice of life in maintenance of a principle our President has laid down? The Government has that right. As a people in time of peace we uphold the principles of our Government, and we must do the same thing in time of war. This is the time for action, and all the people of the United States must help.

"So long as President Wilson gives power to the Fuel Administrator I shall proceed to gather information throughout the country and distribute it to those interested in the industry. I propose to produce all the coal in the country for the home and factory in greater quantity than ever.

"I want you to set aside your competitive differences, make monetary sacrifices and stand behind the President in this time of emergency."

LOCAL COAL STOCK GAINING.

But Economy Is Still Necessary to Keep the City Supplied.

While the amount of coal coming into New York is still of such small volume as to make economy a matter of necessity, the increase, if maintained, it is said, promises the necessary supply to the householder. One large dealer said yesterday that while the movement was freer, it meant little to the local trade because much of the coal was being taken by the Government to supply the militia camps and for use in Government plants.

Another dealer said that no one here knew the exact amount of coal that was in the market. Burns Brothers, one of the largest retail firms in the city, quoted to-day prices yesterday: Egg, $8.25; stove, $8.50, and nut, $8.50. According to the scale of another large distributer, it would appear that prices have not gone down, but were holding at last month's figures. In September this firm sold stove and nut coal at $8.50 a ton, and this is the present price. The drop has been on pea coal, which last month sold at $7.25, as against $7 this month. As showing the advance in price the figures of this firm for October, 1916, were: Stove, $7.50; nut, $7.50, and pea, $5.50.

These prices were quoted by a Brooklyn dealer: Stove, $8.65 and $8.75; nut, $8.50 to $8.75; egg, $8.45 and $8.50; pea, $7.25 to $7.75; broken or mixed, $8.25 to $8.50.

PAPER MILLS INCREASE NEWSPRINT OUTPUT

Trade Commission Reports Net Gain of More Than 10,000 Tons in Nine Months.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—In an official review of the newsprint paper market for the month of September, issued today by the Federal Trade Commission, an increased production of print paper is reported for fifty-six mills during the last two weeks of that month. These mills were operated by thirty-six companies. The review follows:

"The reports indicate that shipments increased more rapidly than production. The total stocks reported by these thirty-six companies on Sept. 30, 1917, amounted to about 50,000 tons. This figure does not include the stocks of two companies not reporting and probably some stocks held at delivery points.

"The total production of the companies reporting for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1917, as compared with the corresponding period of last year was: Nine months 1917, 350,847 tons; nine months 1916, 923,197 tons.

"Seventeen companies show an increased production this year over last year and nineteen companies show a decrease due in some cases to increased production of other grades. One or two additional companies not reported have gone off of newsprint entirely this year, but the figures show a net gain for the whole United States of more than 10,000 tons.

"Imports of newsprint paper for the first eight months of 1917, which were almost entirely from Canada, show a gain over the corresponding figures for the preceding year, while exports show a decline. The import figures are: Eight months 1917, 358,169 tons; eight months 1916, 318,001 tons.

"The export figures are: Eight months, 1917, 42,456 tons; eight months, 1916, 53,302 tons.

"Exports to the United Kingdom in particular fell off from 3,150 tons for the first eight months of 1916 to 734 tons for the corresponding period of this year. Exports to Mexico, on the other hand, increased from 1,531 tons to 4,934 tons."

Regarding newsprint prices the commission says:

"Available information indicates that most of the contract tonnage of roll news is being delivered at prices from $3 to $3.25 per 100 pounds, f. o. b. mill. Reports from the thirty-six companies showed on old contracts at less than $2 mill deliveries, and others were reported at $4 or more.

"The thirty-six companies reported only nine new contracts for roll newsprint, aggregating 3,475 tons. The prices ranged from $2.50, f. o. b. mill, to $3.60, the average being $3.13.

"The condition of the newsprint market is best shown by the fact that the current prices of both roll and sheet news were not far from the prevailing contract prices. Roll news in car lots was quoted at from $3.25 to $3.80 by a number of mills, and sheet news in car lots sold as low as $3.25 less 3 per cent."

As to pulp prices, the report says:

"During the month of September sulphite pulp was shipped on contract at prices ranging from $36.50 per ton, f. o. b. mill, low, to $95.27 per ton, f. o. b. mill, high. The current prices reported were $44.25, f. o. b. mill, low, and $100 per ton, f. o. b. mill, high.

"Ground wood was shipped in contract during the month at $24.38 per ton, low, f. o. b. mill, to $50 per ton, high, while current prices ranged from $38 per ton low to $50 per ton high.

"The figures on stocks and production given above cover not only standard newsprint, but also similar grades, such as special news, novel news, hanging, poster, lining, tablet, &c."

Won't Change Bloch to Blake.

Supreme Court Justice Whitaker denied yesterday an application by Oscar William Bloch for permission to change his name to Blake, because his German name hampered him in his business on account of prejudice in the United States and Canada against Germans, he said. Justice Whitaker said: "While perhaps people may be prejudiced against the Germans, the court does not and cannot recognize any distinction between loyal citizens whether native or naturalized." To grant this application, the court, held, would be giving judicial recognition and sanction to such distinction and alleged prejudices.

Lawyer Maas a Naval Aid in Paris.

Charles O. Maas, a well-known attorney and Republican politician, has been appointed Naval Attaché at Paris and left to take up his duties there on Sept. 17. This became known yesterday when the attorneys in a suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Grace Allen Peabody against George Peabody asked Supreme Court Justice Whitaker to appoint a referee to hear the suit in place of Mr. Maas. The court named Charles P. Rogers.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

A deal on the river front of the old Greenwich section which will lead to an early improvement of a vacant plot was closed yesterday in the purchase by Stephen Ransom of the property at 408, 409, and 410 West Street, southeast corner of Charles Lane. It has a frontage of about 63 feet on West Street, 64 on Charles Lane, with a southerly line of 80.10. The purchase was made from the McEvoy & Koester Construction Company. The buyer is a manufacturer of plumbers' supplies at 451 West Street. The property was held at $45,000. Title was recorded yesterday.

The Nasun Realty Company, Max N. Natanson, President, sold the five-story new-law apartment house, 15 by 100, at 2,140 Daly Avenue. The property was held at $85,000, and was sold to Max J. Klein, who gave in exchange 1,740 and 1,742 Washington Avenue, a three-story taxpayer, 50 by 85. S. Rosen was the broker.

Brooklyn.

Marston & Co. have sold for Jessie M. Stevens the four-story residence at 134 Columbus Heights, plot 25 by 150, to Sarah M. Stoker, for occupancy

Tutino & Cerny sold for the Charles Teele estate, to Walter Gucwa, for investment, the three-story brick dwelling 550 Forty-ninth Street.

The Meister Builders, Inc., sold to a client a two and a half-story private dwelling 1,722 Seventieth Street, on a lot 18 by 100.

Martin A. Ansbro has sold the six-family brick house at 518 Seventy-seventh Street for the J. C. W. Inc., to a client for investment, and the two-family house at 232 Ninety-second Street for a Mrs. Taylor.

Queens Borough Sales.

The Right Rev. Bishop C. F. McDonnell has purchased a plot 125 by 150 feet on the south corner of Humboldt Boulevard and Wyckoff Street, Jamaica, to be used for the enlargement of the buildings of St. Monica's Church.

E. Forman sold to S. Berry, who in turn conveyed it to W. Hanse, of Freeport, L. I., the dwelling and plot 80 by 100 feet on the west side of Gramercy Street, 180 feet south of Laurelton Boulevard, Laurelton.

The Clear View Realty Company of Inwood, L. I., has purchased from W. S. Pettit a plot 60 by 100 feet on the east side of Rue de St. Felix, 124 feet north of Sea Girt Avenue, far Rockaway, and a similar plot adjacent to it on the north side from G. Kaiser, Jr. The land will be developed with residences.

New Jersey.

The Woodruff farm, near New Vernon, N. J., comprising 150 acres of land with complete set of farm buildings, has been sold to William H. Percival and Charles J. Whalley, who intend to operate a dairy farm. The property was held at $18,000. Eugene V. Welsh of Morristown, N. J., was the broker.

Commercial Leases.

The Cross & Brown Company has leased the store and basement at 17 Astor Place, extending through to Eighth Street, to Harry Gold, President of the St. Regis Lunch Company, which is opening a chain of restaurants in the city. The premises will be altered at a cost of $20,000. The lease is an indication of increased business in that locality due to the early operation of the Broadway subway with a station at Astor Place.

Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., leased the corner store at Broadway and Twenty-eighth Street, known as 1,178 Broadway, for a term of ten years to the United Cigar Stores Company.

George A. Bowman has leased for P. J. O'Keeffe the six-story business building of 12 East Forty-second Street to Walter J. Salomon for a term of years.

James Montgomery & Son leased for the J. L. Mott Iron Works to the Scheneckta Piano Company for a term of years the six-story building, 245, 247, 249 East 137th Street.

William A. White & Sons leased to the American News Company the store, basement, and sub-basement in 29-31 Park Place, at the northwest corner of Church Street and Park Place.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., leased the store and basement at 423-431 Fourth Avenue to Ferdinand Gutmann Co., Inc., silks and textiles, for a term of years at a rental aggregating $50,000.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased the ground, second, and third floors at 112 John Street for Cortlandt de P. Field—Ruy & Co., and the store at 101-103 Varick Street for the Varick Confectionery Company, Inc., to the J. M. Lehman Company.

Private Dwellings Leased.

Pease & Elliman leased for a term of years for Miss Alice Einstein to Otto C. Heintze, the banker, the four-story and basement dwelling at 45 East Seventy-second Street, between Madison and Park Avenues; also leased, furnished, for Mrs. J. F. Fairchild to Mrs. R. H. Van Vleck, Jr., the four-story and basement dwelling at 37 West Fiftieth Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues.

$150,000 for Improvements to the Waldorf-Astoria.

George C. Boldt, Jr., President of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Company, has closed contracts providing for alterations and improvements to the hotel to cost $150,000. Most of the work, which is to be done next Summer, consists of the installation of the most modern plumbing equipment obtainable.

The changes outlined are in addition to the extensive alterations effected by the late George C. Boldt, Sr., who, at the time of his death, had spent over $1,000,000 for various improvements to the hotel.

Realty Notes.

The lease was recorded yesterday for three years from Oct. 1, 1917, of the Harvard and Princeton apartment houses at 547 and 555 West 186th Street, from the Manhattan Heights Improvement Company, to Minnie Rotheiser for $15,000 a year.

No plans for new buildings were filed yesterday in Manhattan or the Bronx. The only alteration plan of $5,000 or over was to the stable and garage at 53 to 57 East 108th Street, running through to 109th Street. The cost is placed at $12,000. P. G. Stadler is the architect.

The Thing You Want to Know Most About a Magazine

A Message to the Man Who Advertises

IT used to be simply circulation. You wanted to know how many copies of a magazine were sold each month. Then you wanted to know what per cent were paid subscriptions—what per cent newsstand sales.

This information used to be hard to get—satisfactorily.

Today there are several ways to check up this data.

There is no longer any difficulty obtaining accurate figures.

But the real information about a magazine which has seemed almost impossible to secure with accuracy is—the quality of its circulation.

As far as you, the advertiser, are concerned, numbers as people do not carry final conviction.

Your need is to know the flesh and blood and brain back of those figures.

Because, to buy space intelligently, you must know whether or not you are talking to the logical market for your goods.

You must know whether the readers of a magazine in question can be interested in what you are selling. Have they the inclination and ability to buy your goods, once you've roused their interest?

How can you know?

Hearst's is the first magazine to evolve a practical way to show its readers to its advertisers in person.

By following this plan, you do not have to guess—you do not have to take anyone's "say-so". You see for yourself—you make your own conclusions.

THE HEARST'S MAGAZINE CIRCULATION TEST

You select any city in America.

To any five newsstands in that city we send five carefully trained investigators, men skilled in getting accurate information quickly.

You send a representative of your company—at our expense—with each of our investigators.

Every purchaser of Hearst's Magazine at the stands is asked searching, tactful questions. Why he buys Hearst's; who sees it when he has finished; etc.

Your representative takes down the answers. He "sizes up" every Hearst purchaser. He judges the readers' intelligence to grasp your selling talk; alertness to translate conviction into action; capacity to pay for what you have to sell.

By the sum total of the testimony thus obtained you can judge accurately the quality of Hearst's circulation.

Can you, as an advertiser, afford to ignore a test that will make the returns from your advertising more certain than they have ever been before? Then wire us that you're willing to make this circulation test at once.
